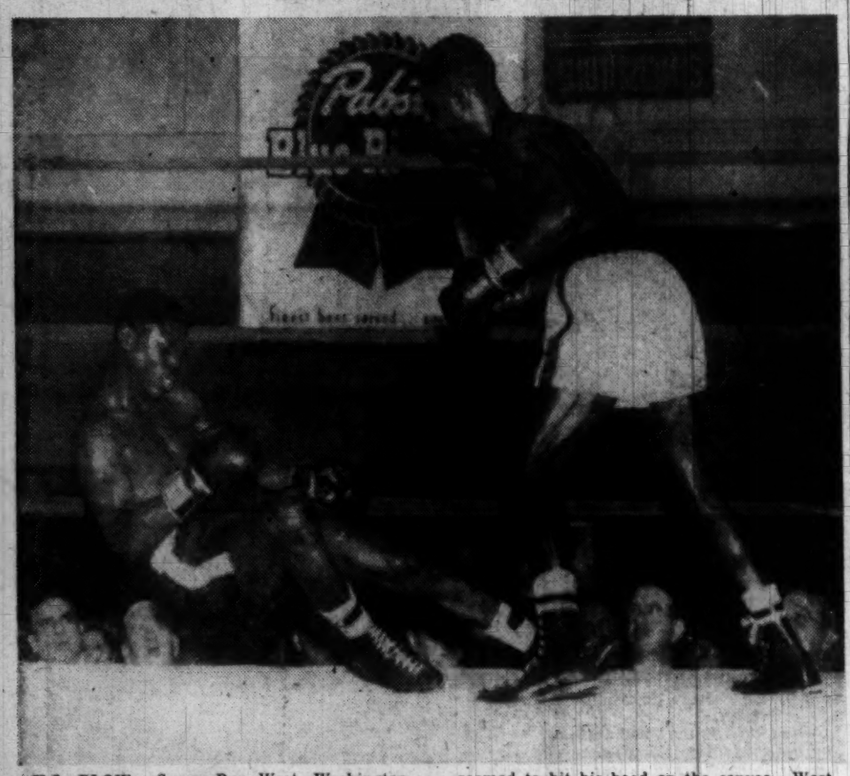
D.C. Boxer Critically Hurt by K.O.



K.O. BLOW—Sonny Boy West, Washington lightweight, was in critical condition this morning following his knockout last night in a boxing bout in New York. Here's the actual knockout, West crumpling to the canvas in the seventh after a right hand smash to the head by Percy Bassett of Philadelphia. West seemed to hit his head on the canvas. West was carried from the ring on a stretcher to St. Clare's Hospital where he underwent a delicate operation. He had not regained consciousness at 3 a. m. this morning

Labor Ties Wage Freeze To Prices

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The Administration began yesterday to tackle the problem of wage stabilization and ran headon into the-chicken-and-the-egg dilemma.

The highest officers of American organized labor told President Truman, at a White House meeting, there could be no freezing of wages until the cost of living—prices—stopped moving upward. Later in the day, leaders of the CIO Auto Workers told the Wage Stabilization Board the same thing.

Whereupon management representatives of the two largest auto companies, Ford and General Motors, told the board that they too agreed, but that as they raised their employes' wages to match the rising cost of living, they would have to increase the prices of autos—which, of course, would mean a further rise in the cost of living.

The labor leaders who visited the White House made one suggestion for breaking what looked like a vicious circle.

Let the Defense Production Act, which contains the authority for wage and price control, be amended to include the power to fix rents and control food prices, the union leaders said. These two items, they asserted in a statement released after their visit, make up 13 and 20 percent, respectively, of the cost of living.

The present law does not include rent-fixing powers, and does not allow farm prices to be fixed until they have risen to parity. Most food prices are now well below parity.

"So long as food prices and rents are thus subject to sharp and drastic increases, wage adjustments must be permitted," the statement said. Although the union leaders did not say so, their remark implied that if rents and food prices were controlled, they would not resist wage freezes.

In the interim, the union officers' statement said, the wage stabilization policy to be set by the Government "must permit the adjustment of wage rates to compensate for increases in the cost of living. Wage stabilization must not become wage freezing."

The statement insisted that the policy must not overthrow existing labor contracts, including those, as in the auto industry, which provide for the adjustment of wage rates to match changes in the cost of living, and for increases to share gains in industrial productivity.

Abrogation of those contracts by Government wage-fixing orders "would inevitably lead to industrial unrest," the statement said.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, continued this line of argument before the Wage Stabilization Board. The conference with the board was called to consider wage stabilization in the auto industry, as a follow-up to the recent mandatory price freeze on cars.

Reuther contended that the "escalator" clauses in his contracts—providing for annual raises

TRICK—Here is the composite picture arranged for by John M. Butler's campaign manager. The picture shows Earl Browder, Communist figure, and Senator Tydings (D., Md.), whom Butler defeated in the November 7 election. Separate pictures of Browder and Tydings were put together at the Washington Times-Herald, according to a story in the Baltimore Evening Sun, and reproduced in the campaign tabloid "From the Record"

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Evening Sun said today Jon M. Jonkel, who managed John M. Butler's successful campaign for the United States Senate, assumes full responsibility for a pre-election tabloid described as "totally false and fraudulent" by Senator Tydings (D., Md.), whom Butler defeated.

[The Senate Campaign Investigating Committee headed by Senator Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa) has been investigating "protests" about alleged "defamatory and scurrilous literature" used in the Maryland campaign against Tydings.]

The tabloid, "From the Record," was circulated throughout Maryland the weekend preceding the November 7 general election. The printing bill for about 500,000 copies was paid for by an organization called the Young Democrats for Butler.

The Evening Sun said Frank Smith, Butler's administrative assistant, reported that a composite photograph of Tydings and Earl Browder, Communist leader, was put together and reproduced in the tabloid by the Washington Times Herald "as a piece of regular job printing."

The Evening Sun quoted Smith: "The makeup was done by the regular Times-Herald makeup man—I'm not certain which one. It was just handled as a regular job.

"The composite picture was made up at the Times-Herald office. There was no effort to deceive anyone, though. It was

Reds Forced To Fall Back At Beachhead Danger Point

Big Guns, Planes Take Heavy Toll In Two Battalions Of North Koreans

BULLETIN

TOKYO (Thursday), Dec. 21 (U.P.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that American casualties in Korea since the start of the end-the-war offensive November 24 totaled 11,964. Total united nations casualties since the abortive offensive was launched were 12,975, he said. The totals, however, did not include South Korean troops.

TOKYO (Thursday), Dec. 21 (AP).—Red troops at the point of greatest menace to the United Nations beachhead around Hungnam were forced to retreat Wednesday.

Devastating around-the-clock firepower—planes, warships, artillery—not only protected the Allies' last toehold in northeast Korea but even improved it on the critical east flank.

A field dispatch said North Korean Reds on that flank had to withdraw to ridges well back from the American positions.

"Our artillery and air chewed up at least one and possibly two North Korean battalions," said an American regimental intelligence officer.

A later field dispatch said the heavy U. N. air, ground and naval assaults had disrupted any plans by the Chinese and North Koreans for a major assault on the beachhead.
on that beachhead.

As a consequence, the Communists remained inactive throughout Wednesday—a strange quiet that itself tended to worry U. N. commanders.

[The United Press quoted a Third Division intelligence source as reporting the Chinese had used a type of gas grenades against the division's Puerto Rican Sixty-fifth Regiment.—Editor's Note.]

In western Korea, there was only "light and scattered contact yesterday along the United Nations defense line" north of Seoul, a United States Eighth Army briefing officer said today.

On Tuesday there had been a report of clashes between North and South Korean troops along a 30-mile front northeast of Seoul. But today the briefing officer said this contact was broken off.

General MacArthur's headquarters said the North Koreans, after regrouping forces in Manchuria, now have 150,000 men in action in Korea with another 50,000 at Manchurian staging bases.

Fresh tracks in the snow were noted by air observers in the vicinity of Yonchon, 38 miles north of Seoul, suggesting Red troop movements.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the beachhead that Korean refugees were "causing considerable headache" as they fled from the Communists.

The withdrawal at Hungnam reportedly was proceeding according to plan, with Americans holding

Lewis Freed, 11 Convicted in Gambling Case

7 Codefendants Of 'Snags' Also Acquitted by Judges

William (Snags) Lewis and seven of his 18 codefendants were acquitted last night on gaming charges in a directed verdict in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Marlboro, Md.

The 11 others were found guilty of operating a lottery.

Sentence for the 11 was delayed until January 2 after Defense Attorneys William H. Collins and Frank M. Hall told the court they were considering filing a motion for a new trial. The factors of sentencing men during the Christmas season and the advisability of presentence investigations also figured in the delay.

Circuit Court judges Charles C. Marbury, presiding, and John B. Gray, jr., and J. Dudley Digges deliberated 20 minutes before finding the 11 guilty of the lottery charges.

The 19 defendants were arrested March 25, 1949, in a raid by United States marshals on a house at 4310 46th st., Bladensburg. Lewis and 13 others arrested were tried in District Court on gaming charges growing out of the raid, and the case ended in a hung jury.

Besides Lewis, the others acquitted were Mrs. Sadie T. Stanton, owner of the house, and John Ralph Mitchell and George P. Scott, who with Lewis were listed as lessees of the house.

MANILA, (Thursday), Dec. 21 (U.P.).—A search plane today spotted the fire-seared wreckage of a U. S. Air Force C-54 transport plane missing since Tuesday with 37 persons aboard.

There was no sign of movement at the scene of the crash, on Mt. Tabayog, 28 miles northeast of Baguio.

Hoover Calls Both Oceans First Line of U. S. Defense

Ex-President Thinks Mass Land Attacks Would Be Sheer Folly

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover said tonight America's defense lines must be the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and not the continents of Europe or Asia.

"Any attempt to make war on the Communist mass by land invasion, through the quicksands of China, India or western Europe would be sheer folly," he said in a prepared radio address.

"That would be the graveyard of millions of American boys and would end in the exhaustion of this Gibraltar of Western civilization."

Hoover said the prime responsibility for defending western continental Europe rested upon the nations of Europe.

He said that western Europe, to warrant further aid, "must express itself in organized and equipped combat divisions of such huge numbers as would erect a sure dam against the Red flood."

"And that before we land another man or another dollar on their shores," added the former Republican President.

"Otherwise we shall be inviting another Korea. That would be a calamity to Europe as well as to us."

The United Nations have been defeated in Korea, he said, by the aggression of Communist China, and there are no world forces adequate to repel the Chinese.

Hoover's pronouncement came only a day after President Truman pledged more American troops would be sent to Europe to aid the West European defense set-up headed by American Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Hoover called for arming the United States Navy and Air Force "to the teeth" to hold the two oceans, with possibly one frontier on Britain and the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines.

"We have little need for large armies," he said, "unless we are going to Europe or China."

Hoover said that, after the initial

Acheson Back, Calls Brussels Parley Success

Secretary of State Acheson arrived at National Airport at 3:13 a. m. today from his conference with North Atlantic treaty nation representatives in Brussels.

Acheson, in reply to reporters' questions, said he thought the meeting was very successful and that the cause of world peace had been advanced by the conference.

He was greeted at the airport for the State Department by H. Freeman Matthews, deputy undersecretary for political affairs, and by military police and reporters.

Acheson said he would report to the President today at 12:30 on the conference.

Plane From D. C. Catches Fire, Lands With 53

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—One of the four engines of an Eastern Airlines plane caught fire in flight late today. The crew put out the fire, then landed at Friendship International Airport with 53 passengers as a precautionary measure.

A spokesman for Eastern said flames burst from No. 3 engine of the DC-4 about 15 minutes after the plane took off from Washington National Airport at 5 p. m.

The blaze was put out and the landing completed within five minutes.

House Rushes Civil Defense Bill, 247 to 1

By a vote of 247 to 1, the House yesterday passed a civil defense bill granting sweeping powers to the Government to cope with enemy attacks on this country.

The measure is designed to provide a national air raid warning communication net, to train thousands of volunteer workers plus some paid employes, to stockpile medical and disaster relief equipment and to build bomb shelters for at least part of the Nation's urban population.

Earlier, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to let the District spend the $337,500 it seeks for civil defense in Washington. The House had refused to grant any money. A compromise figure is likely to result after the Senate acts on the bill, perhaps today.

An appropriation request for at least 200 million dollars to run the Civil Defense Administration, set up by the bill, will be sent the

Levy on Excess Gains, Corporate Rate Rise Included in Measure

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A $3,200,000,000 tax bill, combining an excess profits levy with a slight raise in corporate surtaxes, yesterday zipped through the Senate in three hours.

Second step in a three-installment tax boost, designed to finance telescoped rearmament, the bill was sped to a House-Senate conference today and could reach the President by the end of the week.

The quick Senate action on a modified version of the strictly excess profits tax bill passed by the House helped break an end-of-session log-jam on Administration "must" measures.

Leaders said similar speed today and Friday on such remaining items as the multi-billion defense bill, civil defense and restoration of the President's war powers might clear the way for adjournment before Christmas.

Rep. Walter Brehm Indicted On Salary Kickback Charges

Republican Congressman Walter E. Brehm of Ohio was indicted in District Court yesterday on seven counts of receiving illegal campaign contributions from two women employes.

The one-time dentist, who was reelected last month for his fifth term, was accused of violating the Federal Corrupt Practices Act by accepting $1380 from Mrs. Clara Soliday, a 75-year-old widow, and Mrs. Emma S. Craven. Neither is now working for Brehm.

If convicted, Brehm faces a maximum penalty of three years in jail plus a fine of $5000 on each count, a total of 21 years in jail plus fines of $35,000.

Brehm could not be reached in Washington yesterday but his office issued a statement saying that he "never at any time or any place, or under any circumstances committed a criminal act."

Brehm, 58, is the 12th congressman to be indicted on Federal charges since 1906. Former Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), the last congressman to be indicted, was recently released from Federal prison after serving nine months for taking salary kickbacks from his office employes.

Specifically, the grand jury charged that on December 23, 1947, Brehm "did unlawfully, directly and indirectly, receive and was concerned in the receipt" of $240 from Mrs. Soliday "for the political purpose of assisting in the financing of (his) campaign for reelection."

Mrs. Soliday has filed a suit against Brehm in Ohio, charging that he took $7340 of her salary, and asks recovery of that amount plus $10,000 punitive damages.

On February 3, 1948, the grand jury charged, Brehm unlawfully received $140 from Mrs. Soliday for the same purpose.

The representative received $200 on five occasions from Mrs. Craven, the indictment charged, in March, April, May, June, and August, for the same purposes.

Mrs. Soliday was employed as a clerk by Brehm from January

2 More Philadelphians Shot In Series of Mystery Snipings

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20 (AP).—A 16-year-old boy was shot tonight by a mysterious sniper on the northern edge of Philadelphia. He was the eighth victim of an unknown assailant in the area in six weeks.

Earlier today, a Philadelphian was shot by a sniper in south Philadelphia.

The wounded boy is George Haller, jr., a student at Benjamin Franklin High School. A bullet fired by a .22 caliber rifle tore through the boy's shoulder. Doctors said he was not wounded seriously.

Police said they had no indication, beyond the mode of attack, that the critical wounding of Richard C. Lavery in South Philadelphia early today is connected with a series of mysterious shootings in North Philadelphia. Sniping there has cost one life and terrorized a large neighborhood.

Lavery, 54-year-old Republican division committeeman and job printer, was hit by a .32-caliber slug fired into his back. It narrowly missed his heart. He was a few feet from a club where he had just attended a meeting. Two friends with him said they saw nothing but heard a sharp "ping" as Lavery fell.

Police pointed out that the bullet which killed Mrs. Claire Cohen Saturday night was .22 caliber.

Heavy police forces patroled the Oak Lane region today. Police are seeking a man of middle height, with light wavy hair. Residents of the neighborhood are remaining indoors

Iran Premier Alerts Army, Warns of War

TEHRAN, Iran., Dec. 20 (AP).—Warning that World War III seems near, Premier Gen. Ali Razmara disclosed today he has alerted all Iranian army garrisons.

Since the Korean outbreak Iranians and Western diplomats here have speculated whether this petroleum-wealthy country, Asia's biggest oil producer, might be next on the Communist time-table.

Although Iranian outposts dot the 600-mile border, behind which Soviet strength is screened by the 12,000-foot South Caucasus range, the 150,000-man army's prepared positions are well back of the line.

2 Thieves Cart Off 4 TV Sets, Fail in Attempt to Take Fifth

Television fans in Northeast Washington yesterday were victimized by a pair of thieves who stole four sets and carted them off in a red-trimmed truck.

Apparently using duplicate keys and a jimmy, police said, the thieves filched a 16-inch console set from the apartment of Naomi Carter, 846 21st st. ne.; a 16-inch console set from the apartment of James L. Carroll, 321 18th st. ne.; a 16-inch console from the apartment of Mrs. Magnolia Perry, 900 21st st. ne., and a 7½-inch table model set and an electric razor from the home of James R. Satterfield at 2106 I st. ne.

In addition, police reported, an unsuccessful attempt was made to steal a large console model from the home of Mrs. Margaret S. Harley, 1111 21st st. ne. None of the victims was home when the robberies occurred.

After questioning neighbors, police described the thieves as a white man, about 35 years old, five feet, five inches tall, of medium build and wearing a skull cap and a Negro of the same build. Both were wearing work clothes.

Censor to 'Screen' Korean War News

TOKYO (Thursday) Dec. 21 (AP).—General MacArthur's headquarters yesterday ordered all Korean military dispatches submitted for official clearance before they are sent abroad.

A headquarters announcement made no mention of penalties for refusal to comply. It also did not call the move military censorship.

Officers on duty today intimated the next step would be discipline for correspondents if they file censored material.

(All correspondents in Tokyo and Korea are accredited to MacArthur's headquarters. They have always been subject to loss of accreditation and expulsion for violations of security.)

Col. E. C. Burkhart, whose press advisory division will scan copy written in Tokyo, said as far as he knew his division still was operating under the old voluntary censorship.

He said under this voluntary system he was without authority to enforce recommendations. All violations of security simply would be submitted to Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's public information officer.

Echols said a similar organization of censorship would be established in Korea. But last night United States Eighth Army correspondents still had not been informed officially.

There was no pileup of copy at the censor's office last night, but it was not a busy night.

(There were indications of delays, however. The flow of copy to San Francisco fell off sharply. The first part of one censored field dispatch failed to arrive. Another was badly delayed.)

Carry Own Copy to Be Sent

Correspondents carried their copy to the censor on duty at the Radio Tokyo Building. Then they carried it to communications outlets.

The lone censor at the desk was a far cry from the sizable staff MacArthur had in Australia, New Guinea and the Philippines during the last war.

Aside from the fact that correspondents still were allowed to hand their own copy to the communications center, this was censorship in every sense of the word.

The same staff officers who yesterday were "advising" what material should be deleted from copy today were replying with a firm "no."

For the past few days, Burkhart's division has been giving advice when requested on stories that might violate military security. It was set up at the request of correspondents, who complained they had no responsible source to check on such stories.

The announcement of the new policy was in the form of a brief memorandum to correspondents from Echols. It said:

"Effective immediately, all press stories, radio broadcasts, magazine articles and photography pertaining to military operations, whose origin is in Japan, will be submitted to the press advisory division for clearance before transmission.

"Military operations is interpreted to include all forms, that is, supply, transportation, evacuation and administration as well as casualties and replacements.

"News stories emanating from Korea which have been cleared through Army-controlled communications need not be cleared unless they have been rewritten in Japan. Stories emanating in Korea and transmitted by Army-controlled facilities will be screened for security in Korea under procedures which are being set up there."

The previous headquarters policy was that all stories written submitted to public information in Korea and Tokyo were to be officers within eight hours after they were filed.

Army authorities here have always contended that they lack the manpower to enforce formal censorship. And they argued that it wouldn't work anyway without similar restrictions in Washington and other capitals.

From the outbreak of the fighting in Korea June 25, correspondents were on an honor system. It repeatedly broke down.

Correspondents were on their honor not to write stories which gave military information to the enemy. The breakdowns came because correspondents did not always agree on what constituted military security.

The new clearance-before-filing order was issued after headquarters had noted a number of stories which it said breached security.

Italy Is Now Making Jet Airplane Engines

ROME, Dec. 20 (AP).—Italy said today she is manufacturing jet airplane engines and will be mass producing Vampire and Venom jet fighters by the end of the year.

Since Italy's peace treaty limits sharply the number of planes she may have in her own military forces, it appeared that at least part of the new plane production would be available to the Atlantic Pact defense force.

A destroyer offshore wheeled in close and pumped 5-inch shells into the hills. It teamed up with artillerymen and tank crews whose shells were churning up the frozen ground around enemy lines.

Against the steady roar of artillery in the background, Lambert said sailors on one ship put a "brave Christmas wreath on the quarterdeck."

Eighth Army troops in the Hwachon sector, eight miles north of the imaginary-dividing line, tangled with the enemy Tuesday, MacArthur's communique said.

U. N. patrols met the enemy forces west of Hwachon and dispersed them after calling for artillery support.

North Koreans attacked U. N. forces at Chunchon, 10 miles south of the thirty-eighth parallel and 45 miles northeast of Seoul. Guerillas have been active in the Chunchon area before, but the last attack could have been aimed at the railroad and highway line leading to Seoul, South Korean capital.

An Eighth Army spokesman said all enemy units in that sector had been identified as North Koreans.

(A North Korean communique, meanwhile, claimed that as of Tuesday, all cities and villages on the west coast north of the thirty-eighth paralel had been "liberated." The communique was relayed by the Chinese Communist radio at Peiping.

(News from both the broad western front and the tightening beachhead on the east coast appeared slowed as MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo invoked the right of censorship and required all Korean military dispatches to be submitted for official clearance.)

Fifth Air Force bombers and fighters struck at enemy troops and supply concentrations. Pilots claimed they destroyed or damaged 20 villages and towns and 38 buildings harboring troops and supplies.

LIEUT. ARMAND J. PARKER,

A former Anacostia High School Cadet Corp captain was one of four Far East Corps F-80 Jet pilots who recently turned an attempted enemy fighter ambush into a rout in the skies over Korea.

An Air Forces communique yesterday identified 2d Lieut. Armand J. Parker, 1002 Barnaby ter, se., as one of the pilots who routed two MIG-15 fighters over Sinuiju.

The report said the enemy planes spotted the United States fighters through a hole in the overcast. They dove on the rear of the Americans, spitting 20 mm. shells, but failed to make a single hit.

Parker was quoted as saying that "we did a quick turnabout and pursued the red-faced Reds," who scurried for the sanctuary of the international border.

His mother, Mrs. Louis E. Parker, said her 23-year-old son had flown 30-odd missions since arriving in Korea last July.

A veteran of five years service—three with the paratroopers—he graduated from Anacostia High School in 1945, Mrs. Parker said.

DENVER, Dec. 20 (AP).—A determined, cheerful General Eisenhower said today "the situation these days is not nearly as [illegible] as it was in the spring of 1942."

The General, named yesterday to head a European peacetime army backed by the 12 Atlantic Pact countries, told a news conference:

"Sooner or later, this country is going to be united and in the fervor of its united strength, other nations are going to cling to us. I am extremely hopeful that America has reached the lowest point of disunity and is going back up."

In reply to a reporter's question whether, "taking the long view, are you optimistic of the future?" the wartime Allied leader came back with an emphatic "yes."

General and Mrs. Eisenhower came here today to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sheldon Doud. They plan to leave for Washington Tuesday.

Eisenhower said "the responsibilities upon any nation that undertakes global warfare" must not be minimized. "It is risking then its own position of power," he said, "as witness Hitler and Mussolini."

Without mentioning Russia by name, he said in answer to another question, "If they are choosing global war, they are not showing the wisdom they have shown in the past."

"I see no reason for the United States to act in an atmosphere of hysterical fear," he said. "It is silly to be too frightened or, indeed, too belligerent. A calm, determined America can get this job done."

Asked to comment on the possibility of using German troops in the Western Union army, General Eisenhower said, "Effective help can come from any section only if there is a will to join. There can be no compulsory joining in a program of this character.

"We welcome strength from any source, but what we want to be careful of is that we are not accepting net weakness."

German Couldn't 'Lick' Outfit, So He 'Jines' It

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Fate landed Harry Jaensch as a draftee today in the same United States outfit that ripped his former German unit to pieces in bloody Hurtgen Forest six years ago.

He couldn't lick the Forty-third Division, so he joined it.

Germans Send Stalin Barbed Wire Wreath

BERLIN, Dec. 20 (AP).—A West Berlin anti-Communist organization called the "Fighting Group against Inhumanity" is sending Josef Stalin a present for his seventy-first birthday Thursday.

It is a wreath made of barbed wire.

"We want to remind him," a group member said, "that there still are many German prisoners behind Russian barbed wire."

LONDON, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Moscow Radio said tonight an "extraordinary session" of the Bulgarian National Assembly has been called for December 25. The radio broadcast a TASK dispatch from Sofia.

Dam Neglect Puzzles Men, Says Major

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—An Army major from New Jersey, who was elected a Congressman while fighting in Korea, returned today, saying servicemen there want to know why U. N. forces failed to bomb important power installations along the Yalu River on the Manchurian border.

"It seems the U. N. places more value on cement and concrete than on the blood and lives of those who gave their lives for the cause," said Maj. Alfred D. Sieminski, 39-year-old Democratic Congressman from the Thirteenth Congressional District in New Jersey.

"There is one question the GIs are asking tonight in Korea. They want to know who has a stake in the power dams on the Yalu and in the power installations in the reservoir districts where the Tenth Corps and the Marines fought their way out . . . They're saying that if some cartel has a stake in these projcts, then let them put in a claim to the U. N.—and then let's blow them up."

He said Communist China could not exist without the dams and their destruction would leave Russia "a nation on relief."

Major Sieminsky said GIs in Korea are asking whether former President Hoover "has something to do with the blueprints of those dams."

West Germans Appear United on Equality As Condition for Role in Europe's Defense

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 20 (AP).—On the eve of crucial arms talks in Bonn, West Germans appeared united tonight against service in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's new European defense force, unless the North Atlantic Pact Allies grant them full equality.

This attitude promised hard going for the High Commissioners of the United States, Britain and France, the occupying powers, when they open negotiations with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the West German Capital Thursday.

Adenauer's own conservative party, the Christian Democrats, predicted the negotiations will be long.

The Brussels conference of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations decided Monday 150,000 Germans were wanted for the projected international defense force, designed to reach one million or more men in 55 to 60 divisions in two years.

Conditions Reiterated

The High Commissioners, John J. McCloy of the United States, Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick of Britain, and Andre Francois-Poncet, were assigned to arrange for German participation.

West German politicians and newspapers joined in reiterating conditions for German assistance:

1. West Germany must be accepted as "an equal partner."

2. There must be no major restrictions on the size of composition of German troop units or command staff which do not apply equally to all member nations.

3. The German Republic must be freed from its status as an occupied enemy nation and given political independence by replacing the present occupation statute with a "security treaty."

Aimed at France

Most of these demands are aimed at France, still fearful of a revival of German militarism. France is the Atlantic Pact's key continental member. The French especially want to avoid formation of a new German General Staff, and they object to use of Germans in formations larger than brigade strength of 5000 to 8000 men in the new army.

However, the Commissioners are empowered to negotiate.

The big-three Western Foreign Ministers announced in Brussels Tuesday night they had authorized the Commissioners to explore the problem "on the basis of the Council's proposals, as well as any changes in the present occupation arrangements which might logically attend a German defense contribution."

Francois-Poncet reported in Bonn that several meetings with Chancellor Adenauer are envisaged.

Wait and See

"We will sum up the results of these exchanges and submit them in due course to our governments," the French Commissioner said.

Nearly every West German newspaper took identical attitudes in commenting on the Brussels conference. They welcomed the agreement to build up Allied forces in Europe, but demanded more concessions before Germans step into the ranks.

"One can hardly expect German agreement" to the terms laid down at Brussels, the independent Offenbach Post said.

The Frankfurter Allgemeine, commented, "Any West German Government which tried to push the Brussels plan through Parliament would require extraordinary powers of persuasion."

The appointment of General Eisenhower as commander of the defense force was welcomed by Mayor Ernst Reuter of West Berlin. But, he said in an interview, "We must wait and see what he can achieve. Sixty divisions on paper may not mean 60 divisions in reality."

District Pupils Get Manual For Atomic-Bomb Attack

The "A for Apple" shortly will be replaced in schools by an "A for Atom."

A new alphabet for children is included in "A B C's for civilians," a manual written in the language of youngsters for Washington residents of all ages to read in preparation for atomic warfare.

Subtitled "Attitudes and Behavior for Civil Defense," the mimeographed pamphlet was approved yesterday by the District Board of Education to be used in schools for training children in ways to act if a bomb falls.

The manual shortly will be printed by the District Civil Defense Office for wide distribution to the public. It was prepared by a committee of teachers drawn from public and parochial schools and has been approved by Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young and Acting Civilian Defense Director John E. Fondahl.

Worked Day and Night

Associate School Superintendent Carl F. Hansen said the committee, "feeling a sense of emergency," had "worked day and night to get the pamphlet out."

In presenting the manual to the school board, Superintendent Hobart M. Corning described it as "one of the most important matters I have ever brought before you."

The booklet deals primarily with how to behave if the city is attacked.

In simple terms, it also explains the nature of atomic energy and outlines a program for defense from the bomb through organized community action.

In the new alphabet:

"A is for Atom—that indivisible which has been split."

"B is for bomb—an explosive package, of which atom is the new brand.

"C is for Civil Defense—our protection against attack."

The alphabet continues through "Z for Zero"—the point of bomb explosion.

The pamphlet warns that "fear is our worst enemy, and that "calm caution" should become "the key word for all civilians."

It emphasizes that "civil defense is everybody's business" and every citizen is an "important link" in a "chain reaction" necessary for the protection of the public and the prevention of panic.

Children must learn simple rules for shelter drills and self-protection, the manual states.

Teachers and parents are charged with a larger responsibility. "By your example and through knowing what to do in an emergency you give security to your children," they are told.

For the children the manual points out:

"Now we have a new set of safety rules to learn. Instead of the fire alarm there will be a new alarm for air attack. There will be a new response—not getting out of the building—but staying in and lying low."

Four Important Rules

Four important rules are listed for all. "Be calm. Try to reach shelter. Drop flat on your face. Cover all exposed parts of the body."

Listed, too, are four "Do Nots."

"Do not start or repeat rumors. Do not use the telephone. Do not travel to reach relatives or friends. Do not leave shelter until told to do so."

D. C. Marine Private Missing in Action

WOUNDED IN ACTION: Army Corpl. Roy T. Tyler, Norwood, Maryland.

MISSING IN ACTION: Marine Pfc. Raymond T. Miller, 216 10th st., ne.

INJURED: Army Pfc. Bernard W. Blanchard, 7356 Forest rd., Kent Village, Md.; Army Corpl. Byron T. Fones, 310 East Glebe rd., Alexandria, Va.; Army Pfc. Robert J. Fern, 2226 Cathedral ave., nw.; Army Pfc. Jacque R. Inscoe, 716 Virginia ave., se.; Army Corpl. Harold H. Hayslett, Clifton, Virginia.

RETURNED TO DUTY: Army Pvt. Andrew J. Roberts, jr., whose sister lives at 1215 Q st., nw.

A Washington area Marine, who enlisted when he was 14, was reported missing in action in Defense Department Casualty List 181, released yesterday. Seven listed as casualties.

Tyler

Pfc. Raymond T. Miller, 20, son of Mrs. Estelle T. Miller of 216 10th st. ne., has been missing since November 28. During school vacation in 1943, he joined the Marine Corps in Greer, S. C.

He was sent to China in 1946 and came home from there on a 60-day furlough late in 1947. Later Miller was stationed in California. His mother learned later that he arrived in Korea in October with the First Service Battalion, First Marine Division.

A native of Spartansburg, S. C., he attended schools in Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Harrison Elementary School here, before his enlistment.

Army Pvt. Andrew J. Roberts, jr., who was apparently wounded twice, has returned to duty, the Defense Department notified his sister, Mrs. Cynthia English, of 1215 Q st. nw. She said that he wrote her early in November saying that he was shot in the back in October. The Defense Department did not inform her. Last Saturday she received a telegram from the Defense Department which said he was wounded on November 27 and returned to duty on December 9.

A member of the Twenty-fourth Infantry Battalion, Twenty-fourth Division, he was born in Elizabeth, N. J. He attended school here and in Cranford, N. J. He enlisted when he was 16 in 1947, and in October of that year he left for Japan. He was sent to Korea in July of this year.

Army Corpl. Roy T. Tyler, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Obie Tyler, of Norwood, Md., was wounded in the foot on November 30. He had been previously wounded in the hip in September, but he later returned to duty.

Born in Lexington, Va., Tyler enlisted in the Army in August 1949. He arrived in Korea August 1 of this year, being assigned to the Seventh Cavalry Regiment, First Division.

He moved to Maryland in 1942 and attended Sherwood School in Sandy Spring and later went to Montgomery Junior High School. Before his enlistment he worked for a truck company in Silver Spring, Md.

From Kent Village

Army Pfc. Bernard W. Blanchard, 18, was injured November 30, while with the Twenty-fifth Reconnaisance Company, Twenty-fifth Division. He is the son of Oscar K. Blanchard, of 7356 Forest rd., Kent Village, Md.

Born in Washington, he attended Langley Junior High School and Hyattsville High School.

He entered the Army in November of 1949, after being in the National Guard for about two years. His father is an attorney at the General Accounting Office.

Army Corpl. Byron T. Fones, 34, was slightly injured November 28. His wife, Mrs. Hazel Fones of 310 East Glebe rd., Alexandria, Va., said she has received no details of his injury from either him or the Defense Department.

Shrapnel Wound

Fones suffered a slight shrapnel wound in his left leg on September 3, but he returned to duty after four days of hospitalization.

A native of Alexandria, he attended public schools there. He is a Navy veteran of World War II, having served for 11 years in the Navy. He was assigned to an aircraft carrier in the Pacific during the last war. He enlisted in the Army about a year ago, and arrived in Korea in August.

Army Pfc. Robert J. Fern, 22, son of Mrs. Gertrude J. Ballard of 2226 Cathedral ave. nw., was reported injured November 30 near Pyongyang with the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat team.

He was born in Washington and went to school on Long Island. He left school and joined the Marines in 1946. After being discharged from the Marines he joined the Army in 1949. He left Fort Benning, Ga., for Korea in September.

Injured was Army Pfc. Jacque R. Inscoe, 18, who was also with the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team. He was injured on December 4 while near PPyongyang.

He enlisted in the Army as a paratrooper in February of this year. After taking training at Fort Dix, N. J., Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Campbell, Ky., he was sent to Korea in September. He is a native of Washington and attended St. Peter's Parochial School. He is the son of Auburn Inscoe, 716 Virginia ave. se.

Army Second Lieut. Floyd A. Stephenson, 21, was reported missing in flight on November 13. The Washington Post carried that story on December 15.

Army Corpl. Harold H. Hayslett of Clifton, Va., was injured, the Defense Department announced.

Kaiser May Build C-119 Fairchild Cargo Planes

The Kaiser-Frazer Corp. probably will be awarded a contract soon to produce large cargo and troop transport planes at its Willow Run, Mich, automobile plant, the Air Force announced yesterday.

It said negotiations over the contract, for an unspecified number of planes, also involve the Fairchild Aviation Corp. Fairchild designed and now is manufacturing the C-119, which the automobile company would turn out.

Peace Moves Not a Trick, Peiping Is Told

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—The United Nations cease-fire team has sent a second cable to Peiping seeking to assure the Chinese Communists they are wrong in viewing the U. N.'s peace moves as a "trick," informed sources revealed today.

These sources said Peiping envoy Gen. Wu Hsiu-chuan encouraged dispatch of a folow-up cable through hints he passed to India's Sir Benegal Rau, a member of the cease-fire group, and to Secretary General Trygve Lie.

The second cable was said to have conveyed firm assurances that a cease-fire would be followed promptly by a peace parley on the wide range of Far East issues, as desired by Peiping.

The second cable reportedly was sent yesterday. The team still is awaiting a reply to its offer of Saturday to meet representatives of Mao Tze-Tung's regime "here or elsewhere" to discuss ways and means of stopping the Korean war.

Rau and Lie had private chats with Wu yesterday shortly before the Chinese delegation took off for home after a 25-day mission here.

At the airport, Wu told newsmen that any U: N. move to bring a cease-fire first and a broad settlement of the Korean war second was "nothing but a trickery and a plot."

But, according to informants, Wu left the impression with Rau and Lie that Peiping's fears on this score might be allayed if they made an effort to explain more fully what they had in mind in their cease-fire efforts.

The kernel of the problem is this: The United States, carrying the brunt of the Korean war, has said the cease-fire has to be arranged and in working order before it will discuss holding a parley on Far East issues.

Powers Bill Action Delayed by Halleck

Republicans defeated an Administration attempt to get House action yesterday on President Truman's emergency war powers plan but the Rules Committee later cleared the measure for a vote today.

Simultaneously, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) who fears the "vague" powers the bill would give Mr. Truman, started a delaying fight against it in the Senate.

Representative Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) blocked immediate consideration in the House. The acting Republican leader refused to give unanimous consent, needed to bypass the Rules group, to have it brought up either yesterday or today.

Representative Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.), the bill's sponsor, promptly denounced Halleck's action and appealed to the Democratic-controlled Rules Committee for immediate clearance of the measure. The committee swiftly approved it for floor action today.

Senator Urges Action

Taft sat in on a meeting of the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee to hear Budget Director Frederick J. Lawton plead for quick passage of the bill.

Taft, like Halleck, objected especially to a provision which would allow the President to reshuffle executive agencies without the consent of Congress, as required now under the Government reorganization law. Some legislators feel Mr. Truman might use such powers to make changes Congress has refused to okay.

After hearing Lawton, the committee approved a measure sponsored by Chairman John L. McClellan to give Mr. Truman authority to rewrite war contracts. This is part of the powers the President seeks.

The committee decided to delay action on the provision relating to agency reshuffling until Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson testifies later this week.

Halleck's Action Surprises

Halleck's action in blocking immediate consideration of the full bill in the House caught Administration leaders by surprise, although they knew Taft and other Republicans hoped to trim it down in the Senate.

Celler said Halleck's move would be "most disheartening, particularly to the people whose dear ones are now fighting the battle of all of us in Korea."

Taft, who is not a member of the Executive Expenditures group, questioned Lawton's description of the bill as "one of the most important tools" Wilson could be given to "get properly started and organized."

Taft criticized the bill as "a vague 'we want power to do something without anything particular in mind'" request.

He referred to the present reorganization law, and asked Lawton what Wilson could do under the proposal that "he can't do now." Lawton said he had no specific changes to recommend, but that Wilson may have some to make when he testifies.

Hoover Urges Sea Defense

outlay to strengthen the Navy and Air Force, attention could be turned to reducing expenditures, balancing the budget and avoiding inflation.

His speech was delivered tem with a rebroadcast by the National Broadcasting Co.

Hoover said he spoke in response to "hundreds of requests" that he appraise "the current situation." His office said actually "thousands" of such requests had been received.

He said that, even if western Europe armed beyond anything contemplated, "we could never reach Moscow," but that neither could Communist armies reach Washington in force.

He held that American sea and air power alone could control the Atlantic and Pacific and block any possible invasion by Communist armies, but added:

"I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British Commonwealth and ourselves."

In declaring the Communist armies could not reach the American Capital, Hoover said:

"In this military connection, we must realize the fact that the atomic bomb is a far less dominant weapon than it was once thought to be."

He did not elaborate on that statement.

"These policies I have suggested would be no isolationism," Hoover said. "Indeed they are the opposite. They would avoid rash involvement of our military forces in hopeless campaigns.

"They do not relieve us of working our utmost. They would preserve a stronghold of Christian civilization in the world against any peradventure."

Hoover listed what he described as "certain principles and action."

"First," he said, "the foundation of our national policies must be to preserve for the world this Western Hemisphere Gibraltar of Western civilization.

"Second, we can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies . . .

"Third, to do this we should arm our air and naval forces to the teeth . . . We should give Japan her independence and aid her in arms to defend herself. We should stiffen the defenses of our Pacific frontier in Formosa and the Philippines. We can protect this island chain by our sea and air power.

"Fourth, we could, after initial outlays for more Air and Navy equipment, greatly reduce our expenditures, balance our budget and free ourselves from the dangers of inflation and economic degeneration.

"Fifth, if we toil and sacrifice as the President has asked, we can continue aid to the hungry of the world. Out of our productivity we can give aid to other nations when they have already displayed spirit and strength in defense against communism . . .

"Sixth, we should have none of appeasement. . . We can retrieve a battle but we cannot retrieve an appeasement . . . We are grateful that President Truman has denounced such a course.

"Seventh, we are not blind to the need to preserve Western civilization on the continent of Europe or to our cultural and religious ties to it. But the prime obligation of defense of western continental Europe rests upon the nations of Europe. The test is whether they have the spiritual force, the will and acceptance of unity among them by their own volition. America cannot create their spiritual forces; we cannot buy them with money."

Senate Votes Tax on Profits

turn for a clean-up during holiday week.

Spangled with "relief" provisions to aid "growing," "depressed" and regulated industries, the bill passed by the Senate yesterday raised regular corporation surtaxes by two percentage points and imposed an excess profits tax on top of that.

Thus the present 45 percent top corporate income tax would go up to 47 percent. With a 30 percent additional tax imposed on excess profits, the new combined rate on corporations would be 77 percent.

The House kept regular corporation income taxes unchanged at the present top of 45 percent, but added an additional 30 percent on excess profits to produce a total tax of 75 percent.

Senate changes raised the three-billion-dollar revenue total of the House bill by only about 200 million dolars, still far short of the four billions requested by the President.

Senate Finance Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) estimated, however, that stepped-up defense spending will boost the yield to between four and five billion dollars in 1951.

Coupled with the 4½ billion dollars first-installment tax boost on individuals approved last session, he said it would mean a nine-billion grand total to apply to defense spending.

Across the Capitol, House Minority Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) suggested a general manufacturers excise tax as a possible solution. McCormack said individual taxes are already high, corporation taxes are getting higher, and manufacturers excises are the only large revenue field remaining.

During the brief floor skirmish leading up to Senate passage of the new corporation tax bill, a sheaf of amendments further liberalizing the bill's already broad relief provisions were adopted by voice votes. George said they will be taken to conference to be "ironed out" with the House.

One attempt to take a larger tax slice out of corporate profits was shouted down. Offered by Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), this would have raised to 70 percent the over-all tax limit that could be collected from any corporation. The Senate bill contains a 60 percent tax "ceiling" while the House bill fixed the tax limit at 67 percent.

A fight by Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) to suspend the 2 percent import tax on copper threatened to tie up the bill. McMahon's amendment was tabled however, on the motion of Senator George and the passage vote followed.

During the debate, Senator Joseph O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), who led the fight for profit taxation last session, complained that the bill "does not produce the revenue we ought to have and it has many loopholes."

Senator Eugene Millikin (R., Colo), said those who think the bill is inadequate must remember that "enormous" increases in all kinds of taxes are in the cards next year.

George conceded that the bill was drawn in haste and is still imperfect but said the necessary corrections can be made after the law gets a test in operation.

Under the bill, a minimum credit of $25,000 would exempt small businesses from paying the excess profits tax. The committee estimated about 70,000 larger corporations would have to pay.

Corporations would be given the option of two alternative methods of determining what portion of their income is subject to the profits tax:

1. Under the average earnings methods, the tax would apply to that part of a company's earnings which exceed 85 percent of its average earnings for the best three years, from 1946 through 1949.

2. Under the invested capital method, companies would be allowed an 8 to 12 percent rate of return before profits taxes on equity capital, retained earnings and borrowed capital.

nightfall today, a $20,197,062,939 supplemental spending bill for the armed forces and other emergency security purposes.

It is aimed at building up the Army, Navy and Air Force to 3,500,000 men quickly, and greatly expanding munitions production. Committee increases up the bill's total more than two billion dollars over what the House voted last Friday. Congressional leaders expect to reconcile Senate-House differences and send it to the White House before Christmas.

Biggest addition made by the Senate committee was a $1,834,911,000 outlay for stockpiling additional strategic and critical materials. No change was made in the $16,845,181,000 appropriation for the armed services, which includes about $9,211,799,000 for the Army, $2,979,000,000 for the Navy, and $4,603,000,000 for the Air Force.

Another amendment endorsed by the committee would ear-mark up to 5 percent of previously appropriated ECA funds for spending in the "general area of China." Senator William Knowland (R., Calif.), who sponsored the proposal, said it was suggested by ECA Chief William C. Foster, who told him that the $400,000,000 previously appropriated for this area was just about used up.

It would permit President Truman to allocate not to exceed $112,000,000 for economic but not military aid to Formosa or other countries in the area.

Other increases:

Two hundred twenty-four million dollars in contract authority to b recommended as an amendment on the floor for building fast cargo vessels for the Maritime Commission.

Two hundred forty million dollars more than the House voted for the Atomic Energy Commission, making a total of $1,080,000,000. Included are funds for a new uranium separation plant near Paducah, Ky., and new plutonium production facilities near Aiken, S. C., for turning out additional atomic weapons. The House had cut the budget by 210 million dollars and the Senate committee restored this and added 30 million dollars more.

Two million five hundred thousand dollars more for the TVA, for additional power facilities required for the new atomic plants—a total of 67 millions for the purpose. The President had asked 84 millions for the purpose, and under the congressional cut, private power companies will supply the added electricity required.

Three million two hundred fifty thousand dollars for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics—to restore a House cut.

Two hundred twelve thousand one hundred ten dollars more for Selective Service and $337,000 for District of Columbia civil defense.

Ten million dollars for building access roads to new or expanded defense plants and military installations.

Funds actually carried in the bill will build up the armed services to close to 2,771,000 men by early spring. Pentagon spokesmen say a further supplemental bill carrying from two to five billions is likely to send the total to about three million by next July.

Control Cost of Living, Leaders Ask

to match productivity increases, and quarter changes to match cost of living variations—were in themselves factors of stability.

To set such contracts aside, he has claimed, would defeat the purposes of stabilization and would, in fact, be a "disastrous unstabilizing of wages" in an industry where, thanks to long-term contracts, "wages have been successfully stabilized for five years to come."

GM Presents Case

General Motors, in a statement to the board, went along all the way, saying abrogation of the labor contracts would precipitate "industrial unrest." Besides, GM said, its workers were entitled to higher wages as long as their living costs rose.

Once living costs, including those for food and shelter, are truly controlled, GM said, "the cost of living provision for wage adjustments in our labor contracts is no problem."

But meantime, GM asserted, it must be allowed to increase the prices of its cars, in accordance with the increased costs incurred when it raised its employes' pay.

Ford took much the same position. The company's vice president, John Bugas, proposed a five-point formula for "price relief" based on the automatic wage increases.

His formula provided for price adjustments to cover wage increases granted since the Korean war began; adjustments to cover material cost increases; adjustments to cover about 75 percent of increased costs resulting from lower production volume; adjustments for changes in design; and relief for special hardship cases.

Without such a relief formula, he said, the price ceilings imposed on the industry will "completely tie our hands against going along with wage escalation formulas."

Board Meets Today

The Wage Stabilization Board will meet this morning to consider what action it should take in the auto situation. For all practical effects, however, wages in that industry are frozen until March under the contracts. At that time, a cost of living wage change is due.

Elsewhere in the field of economic mobilization for defense there were these developments yesterday:

1. Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine sent telegrams to 250 of the Nation's largest business firms asking them to give his agency seven days' notice before making any price increases. The action is designed to help compliance with the voluntary "pricing standards" issued Tuesday.

2. In Chicago, the International Harvester Co. announced it was wihtdrawing price increases it announced on December 12, but was taking the action reluctantly. It said it would seek Government approval to reinstate the higher prices.

3. As expected, the Senate confirmed, by voice vote, the nomination of Charles E. Wilson, former president of the General Electric Co., to be Director of Defense Mobilization.

4. Wholesalers of radio, television and household appliances urged the National Production Authority to ban the manufacture of color TV receivers, as a war measure to conserve scarce materials.

5. In testimony before the House-Senate "Watchdog" Committee on defense production, Commerce Secretary Sawyer urged an extension of the export control law. If it is not renewed on its expiration next June 30, Sawyer said, there will be a "chaotic situation."

Wrecked Plane Sighted

MANILA, (Thursday), Dec. 21 (AP).—Wreckage of a plane believed to be a United States C-54 transport, missing with 37 persons aboard, was sighted today on the slopes of a 9000-foot peak 25 miles northeast of Baguio, Clark Air Base reported.

Britain Faces Curbs To Boost Arms Goal

LONDON, Dec. 20 (U.P.)—Britain is considering an increase in its rearmament program to the extent where it may be necessary to reimpose wartime controls, including price ceilings and restriction of labor to vital industries, it was disclosed today.

Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet will consider the question at a meeting on Thursday after Christmas, it was learned.

The United States told Atlantic Pact partners at the Brussels meeting that each must do its utmost in rearmament, and Britain is contemplating raising its sights on the entire rearmament program, an authoritative source said.

In July, the Government announced a target of £3,600,000,000 (10 billion dollars) in weapons during the next three years. It is now believed that goal may be increased considerably.

Such an economic speed-up, it was said, may make necessary not only the direction of labor but the reimposition of price controls and rationing and the power to requisition buildings. The government already has the authority to take such steps. It is up to Attlee to decide whether to use those powers.

There has been considerable speculation whether Britain, like the United States, would have to declare a "national emergency." Attlee is not expected to put it in those terms, but the economic effect would be the same.

Such a step would be a blow to Britain's export program. The strain on British economy will be increased by the ending of Marshall Plan aid. But on that score too, it was explained, the government is aware that the United States now has a tremendous financial burden of its own.

Latin Americans

20 Nations Will Confer On Defense

By the United Press

Twenty Latin-American nations agreed yesterday to confer with the United States here—probably in February—on joint measures for defense of the Western Hemisphere against possible Communist aggression.

The council of the Organization of American States — regional union of all South and North American countries except Canada —voted to call a major Western Hemisphere conference at this country's request.

It acted after Paul C. Daniels, United States representative to the OAS, told Ambassadors of Central and South American countries that there is an emergency caused by "the aggression policy of international communism."

"The 21 American republics have jointly dedicated themselves to the cause of freedom," he said. "Our common cause, even more than geography, has prompted us to work together for our common security."

Daniels said cooperation of Western Hemisphere nations is based on the principle that "the defense of one is inseparable from the defense of all."

"What is at stake in the present situation with respect to this inter-American community of ours is the survival of what it stands for," he said.

The council appointed a committee to fix the date of the meeting and determine the subjects to be discussed.

Canada is not a member of the OAS, but is linked with Western Hemisphere defense plants through close cooperation with the United States and membership in the North Atlantic Alliance.

Czech Law Would Jail Warmongers

PRAGUE, Dec. 20 (AP).—A law "for the defense of peace," making warmongering a crime, was enacted today by Czechoslovakia's national assembly. The official Czech news agency made the announcement.

Similar laws have been placed on the books recently in Hungary, East Germany and Romania. Such action was proposed for all the world's legislative bodies at the second world peace conference in Warsaw last month. The new Czech law provides for prison terms up to 25 years.

Communist representation in the 24-member Czechoslovak cabinet rose from 18 to 19 members. Josef Jonas, a Communist who has been Deputy Minister of Foreign Trade, was sworn in as Minister of Light Industry, one of four new ministries.

President Klement Gottwald appointed him and three others who had been in charge of ministries replaced by new ones.

The other three were Augustin Kliment, Communist former Minister of Industry, made Minister of heavy Industry; Mrs. Ludmila Jankovcova, Communist former Food Minister, made Minister of the Food Industry, and Dr. Emanuel Slechta, Socialist former Minister of Engineering made Minister of the Building Industry.

Jury Chosen for Remington Trial

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—Seven housewives and five men were selected today as the jury to decide whether former Government Economist William W. Remington lied when he denied he ever was a Communist.

The trial of the 33-year-old Remington, charged with perjury, was adjourned until Tuesday after the jury was sworn in by Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan.

The case marks the climax of two and a half years of probes, accusations and legal fights during which Remington had been ousted from his Commerce Department job, then reinstated, and later forced to quit.

His final resignation from the $10,000-a-year post came after he was indicted last June by a Federal grand jury, which accused him of falsely swearing he never was a Communist.

The Government claims he belonged to the Communist Party for various periods between 1934 and 1944 in three cities—Hanover, N. H., Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington, D. C.

Remington, from Ridgewood, N. J., first was named in 1948 by former spy courier Elizabeth Bentley as a Government source from whom she got secrets for the Russians. Remington was suspended from his job.

After a Government loyalty board cleared him in October, 1949, of the charges, he was reinstated. He filed a libel suit against Miss Bentley and a television program over which she had repeated her accusations. The program sponsor paid Remington a reported $10,000 settlement.

The indictment came nearly a year later, and the Commerce Department demanded Remington's resignation. He has been free in bail. If convicted, he could get up to five years in prison and a $2000 fine.

Several prospective jurors were excused today for various reasons, such as that they had formed opinions in the case from newspaper articles or that they had relatives connected with the Government.

Foreman of the jury is David L. Jones, a hotel (Statler) room clerk. Besides him, the men on the jury are a telephone technician, a hospital attendant, a salesman and a retired man.

Armed Forces Bar Longshore Chief on Docks

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Left wing longshore leader Henry Schmidt was barred today from work on bay area military docks.

Schmidt, a leading figure in the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, was convicted early this year of conspiring with union President Harry Bridges to conceal the latter's membership in the Communist Party. Schmidt has appealed that conviction, and is out on bail.

A spokesman for the Army Port of Embarkation said that Schmidt, because of his conviction, was considered "undesirable" and would be barred from work.

This followed earlier action by the Navy, which barred Schmidt from working at the Oakland Naval Supply Center pending investigation of his status as a security risk.

Schmidt yesterday was ordered to leave the naval installation, where he was working on a ship.

Truman Signs U. S. Rent Law Extension

The separate bill for extension of the District rent control law from January 31 to March 31 still is awaiting the President's signature.

The new Federal law gives a three-month addition to the period of automatic continuation of rent controls in communities where they are now in force. Without the new law, rent ceilings were to end December 31 in all but the communities that voted before then to keep them in force.

The new law continues the local option for communities to end controls before next March 31 if they wish, or to continue them until next June 30 by affirmative action.

The bill was rushed through the lame duck session of Congress to prevent a year-end lapse of controls in about 1670 communities with a total population of 25 millions.

These communities had failed to take advantage of the clause in the rent law under which ceilings could be kept in effect through June 30 if a city governing body took "positive action" requesting them.

More than 700 communities with a population of 25 millions had taken the necessary action and would have been assured of ceilings even if the new bill had not been passed.

Because of an amendment sponsored by Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.), city councils now can lift ceilings ahead of schedule by passing simple resolution as well as an ordinance. This change is primarily intended to clear up a legal wrangle over the manner in which Los Angeles decontrolled.

President Truman requested the three-month extension of the basic law to give the Eighty-second Congress time to look into the rent control situation when it meets next month.

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) of the Senate Banking Committee, may sponsor a bill at the next session to continue rent controls only in "defense areas" where housing shortages are the direct result of military activities or war production booms.

Woods Decontrols Los Angeles Rents After Legal Fight

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods yesterday removed rent controls in Los Angeles.

Woods said he had no other choice under the law signed by President Truman today.

He said he considered the Los Angeles action premature and said responsibility for the effects of the action "rests squarely on the shoulders of the Los Angeles city council."

Woods predicted the removal of controls "will cause undue hardship to thousands of helpless tenants."

Charles S. Rhyne, attorney for the city of Los Angeles, asked the Supreme Court yesterday to reverse a recent Court of Appeals decision that the council's action was invalid.

Winter Wheat Crop Estimate Tops Year Ago

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Government Crop Reporting Board yesterday reported that on December 1 the winter wheat crop, which will be harvested beginning next June, was much better than a year ago.

In fact, if conditions continue normal, the board estimates that that winter wheat harvest should be 899 million bushels—about 150 million above his year's 750 million.

Prospects are, the board said, for the third largest winter wheat crop in history, just below 1947 and 1948. In both years more than a billion bushels were harvested.

A total of 56 million acre are planted in winter wheat; six percent above the 53 million last year. The report forecast an average yield of 16 bushels an acre compared with 14.2 this year and 15.7 average for the 10 years, 1939-48.

Virtually every section, except the States near Washington and in the Deep South, reported seedings above a year ago. Near Washington the board predicted the following production in bushels:

(000 omitted)

	1951	1950	Avg.
Maryland	5780	6086	6878
Virginia	7820	7862	7998
West Virginia .	1155	1221	1588
Delaware	1008	1037	1228

The winter rye crop—the other chief bread grain—was only slightly better than a year ago, when the sixth smallest crop in 20 years was harvested. Acres seeded were reported as 2 percent above last year, or 3,782,000. That is 24 percent below the 10-year average of 4,997,000 acres.

Crime Probe Has Witness Indicted

Clerk Charges Pay 'Kickback'

MRS. CLARA SOLIDAY
. . . returned $7340, she says

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP). — A United States Senate crime investigating committee cracked down today on its growing list of stubborn witnesses.

It obtained the indictment of Ralph O'Hara, former secretary-treasurer of the now defunct Trans American News Service, for his refusal to testify Monday.

At the same time, State's Attorney John S. Boyle began a wholesale pickup of witnesses after their appearance before the Senate committee.

His men seized Ralph and John Capone, brothers of the late Scarface Al, and four policy wheel operators after they appeared before the committee.

"We're starting a thorough investigation of the policy racket," Boyle said. "This is the first break we've had—it's our first chance at the higher ups."

Witnesses told the committee the policy racket attracted 60 million dollars in bets in Chicago alone each year.

O'Hara refused to answer the committee's questions Monday, contending his answers would tend to incriminate him.

Committee investigators have contended that the Trans American News Service was an outfit dominated by the Capone syndicate and set up to compete with the Continental News Service.

Charged With Misdemeanor

The charge against O'Hara is that he violated a statute making it a misdemeanor for anyone who refuses to answer questions put by the committee.

The indictment contains 17 counts and the maximum penalty on each count is one year's imprisonment and $1000 fine.

The indictment was returned by the Federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes. Barnes set bond at $5000.

Two policy wheel operators, Patrick Manno and Pete C. Tremont, refused to testify before the committee earlier today. Like O'Hara, they contended their answers might tend to incriminate them.

Ralph Capone declined to answer all the committee's questions today, but he was not warned he might be held in possible contempt.

In another development, Anthony Rotondo, sought for questioning in the murder of former Police Lieutenant William Drury, was brought to Chicago from Baltimore by deputy United States marshals.

Drury was assassinated in Chicago September 25, while an investigator for the Senate committee was attempting to contact him for information on Chicago's crime setup.

Charles Delli Umberto, an ex-convict, told police that Rotondo related to him Rotondo took part in the slaying and was paid for the job. Rotondo denied this when police questioned him in Baltimore.

Rotondo is being taken to Leavenworth penitentiary as a parole violator. He was convicted of transporting forged securities across state lines.

Boyle assigned five assistant State's attorneys, eight State's attorney's policemen and the gambling squad from the police commissioner's office to make a full scale investigation of the policy racket.

The policy kings of the South Side, Edward P. Jones, 53, and Theodore Roe, gave the committee a detailed account of their gambling activities last night.

Roe, in partnership with Jones and three other persons, estimated that their wheel takes in about $8,760,000 a year. Jones told the committee his profit is about $200,000 a year from the wheel.

It was some hours after state's attorney's police seized Roe and Jones for questioning that Manno and Tremont were called to the stand. They refused to make any disclosures. Police seized them too, however, as they left the Federal building.

Roe and Jones are seeking their release on writs of habeas corpus.

The committee, delving into gangster inroads into legitimate business, questioned John Capone about his interest in the city wide bar supply. This concern supplied bars and restaurants.

Rep. Brehm Is Indicted

10, 1945 to January, 1948, at salaries ranging from $4500 to $6357.78 a year, according to the indictment.

Mrs. Craven was employed by Brehm as a clerk from February to December 1948, at salaries ranging from $6357 to $6687.72 a year, the indictment said.

Both salaries were paid by the Government.

Brehm was born in Somerset, Ohio, and practiced dentistry for 25 years before he was elected to Congress in 1942. He was re-elected in November by 4000 votes.

In his three-sentence statement Brehm said: "Now maybe we can get the facts on the record. This is the only way I know to clear the good name of all concerned."

Accusations Made By Pearson in Post

Accusations against Representative W. E. Brehm were first made by Columnist Drew Pearson in The Washington Post, September 26, 1950.

In two subsequent columns in October Pearson said that the FBI was investigating Brehm, and gave a month-by-month account of how Brehm received some of the money.

Presiding Judge Marbury declared after the verdicts against the 11 were announced that:

"The court has no difficulty in concluding there was a gambling operation in process until the entrance of the marshals . . ."

The entire case hinged on the admissability of the evidence.

After the prosecution completed its presentation, Defense Attorney Collins contended that not "one scintilla" of evidence had been produced to prove the State's charges.

The three judges granted a motion then to throw out the testimony of the five marshals concerning what was seized or observed in the raid as it related to Lewis, Mrs. Stanton, John Ralph Mitchell and Scott.

Bartender Gets 10 Years

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—A 10-year prison term was imposed today on Joseph F. C. W. Farrell, 32-year-old Rockville bartender, for the armed robbery of a Chinese restaurant operator here October 23.

He and a woman accomplice, Mrs. Georgia Gallo, 25, were accused of the $62.50 holdup. She was sentenced previously to a five-year term. Both sentences were pronounced by Judge Joseph Sherbow in Criminal Court. They were arrested in Silver Spring.

The woman, married at 15, has been separated from her husband, Louis Gallo, now in the Army. He has asked for a divorce in Washington.

Tough Anti-Wiretap Law Proposed by Senate Group

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A tough anti-wiretapping law was recommended yesterday by a Senate District subcommittee investigating the subject.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) subcommittee chairman, said the bill would be presented today to the full District committee.

The Pepper group also approved a report calling for trial board action against Metropolitan Police Lieutenant Joseph W. Shimon. It was on Shimon, now an officer of the Second Precinct, that the Pepper group focused its attention.

But Pepper said the committee gave up yesterday its idea of having Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) testify about Shimon's wiretapping.

A main effort by the group had been to show that Shimon tapped the Washington hotel phones of Howard Hughes' associates to get information about the millionaire planemaker's activities for the committee headed by Brewster during its 1947 probe of Hughes' war contracts.

But Brewster denied this to reporters, and Shimon denied it to the committee. Both said Shimon's only chore for Brewster was to follow Abner "Chick" Lappin and find out why he was shadowing the Senator. Lappin denied such shadowing. Shimon said it was to find Lappin's motives that he tapped Hughes' phones.

The bill subjects unauthorized wiretapping in the District to a maxium penalty of $10,000 fine and ten years in jail. Possession of wiretapping equipment with intent to use it unlawfully would be made subject to a maximum penalty of $5000 fine and five years in jail.

The bill would authorize use of wiretapping by District law enforcement officers on order of District Court in cases "involving the safety of human life."

The major change proposed in the hearing and written into the bill by Pepper's group exempts from the act FBI agents, military intelligence organizations and telephone and telegraph company employes, when they act "within the scope" of their employment.

The proposal to omit defense department intelligence units from the wiretapping ban was advanced by Capt. E. P. Hylant, head of the security branch of the Office of Naval Intelligence, speaking for all three defense branches. The amendment was worked out by Defense officials and Committee Counsel Gerhard P. Van Arkel.

The committee also wrote into the bill a suggestion by Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West that court orders for wiretapping be kept confidential.

In the hearing, Maj. Robert J. Barrett, chief of Metropolitan Police, said he felt wiretapping authority should be entirely confined to Federal investigators.

"I'm very much against policemen having any authority to do wiretapping," said Chief Barrett. "We don't need it. We never did need it. Since 1941 no wiretapping equipment has been owned by the department. Any equipment is owned by individuals."

Barrett emphasized that Shimon "wasn't even under our supervision" at the time of the wiretapping. Shimon at the time was special investigator for the United States Attorney here.

Neither Justice Department nor FBI officials appeared for the hearing.

During the morning hearing, Pepper ordered a reading of laws on wiretapping and conspiracy, and suggested "it seems to me from a cursory examination that these activities (the wiretapping by Shimon and his aides) would come clearly within the conspiracy statute."

Attorney Robert Lynch, who has been counsel to Shimon during the wiretapping inquiry, heard Pepper's remarks but declined comment on them.

Driver Held in Traffic Deaths Of Expectant Mother and Son

FERNDALE, Md., Dec. 20 (AP). A 27-year-old motorist was held in $10,000 bail today for hearing on charges his car ran into and killed an expectant mother and her young son.

Leroy F. Ammons, a distillery production operator from Brooklyn, Md., was arraigned before Magistrate Bernard Walter, who set December 29 for a hearing. Ammons is charged with drunken and reckless driving, manslaughter and failure to stop after an accident.

"I plead NOT guilty to that one," Ammons said when the magistrate read the last charge, "because I did return to the scene."

There was no car in sight when the bodies of Mrs. Bertha Brown, 23, and her 3-year-old son were found on Annapolis rd. last night. Police said the bodies were 125 feet from where they were hit after getting off a bus. They had been to Baltimore to see Santa Claus.

Ammons drove up to the scene after the bodies were found and was arrested. Police said Ammons' car has a damaged headlight, hood and fender.

Police took extra precautions to guard Ammons from several irate men they said wanted to "get" him.

William Brown, husband of the dead woman, said she was expecting a third child next month. Besides the dead boy, they had another son 5 years old.

New Mexico Gets Mystery 'Thing' Off Its Hands

ALBUQUREUE, Dec. 20 (AP).—Dr. Lincoln LaPaz has finally gotten rid of New Mexico's thing."

The University of New Mexico meteoretics head sent the 18-inch sphere under $1000 insurance—to the General Mills Corp. at Minneapolis.

Dr. LaPaz said a representative of the corporation had identified every external characteristic of the "Thing" during a half-hour telephone talk today. He had kept possession of the metal ball since it was found November 23 on a mountain in central New Mexico.

The General Mills representative said his corporation would answer to the Naval agencies which had asked for the ball. The corporation has been doing cosmic ray research for the Navy.

Mrs. Barbour Jailed 30 Days Because of Her Barking Dogs

Mrs. Marion Barbour, 46, whose life in a Silver Spring trailer with her dogs and cats became the subject of charges by Montgomery County officials, was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday.

The sentence was imposed by Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville. Mrs. Barbour was found guilty of maintaining a public nuisance December 4 by a jury of seven women and five men.

Following her conviction, Judge Woodward directed her to appear in court again December 18 and report what she had done with the dogs before sentence was imposed. She failed to appear and was arrested yesterday on a bench warrant.

Mrs. Barbour told the court she has disposed of the dogs, but still has the cats. She said she had been sick and that this was why she had not appeared.

"You haven't been sick for 16 days," the judge replied.

District Heights Man Hurt in Blast At Powder Factory

A District Heights (Md.) employe of the Naval Powder Factory at Indian Head (Md.) suffered extensive injuries of the right arm and left hand in an explosion yesterday at the factory.

Bucky Henderson, 37 of 7507 Gateway blvd., District Heights, was rushed to Providence Hospital here in a Navy ambulance. His condition was undetermined last night.

Details of the explosion were not available immediately.

GOP Planning Rally Here Like Its Box Supper

Republican leaders said yesterday the annual Lincoln Day observance will be held here February 5 and will be patterned after last year's GOP box supper.

This year, they said, the observance will be "geared to service in the national emergency."

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin (Mass.), and Senator Owen Brewster (Me.) said this year's celebration will be held in Uline Arena. It will be sponsored by Republicans in Congress and the League of Republican Women fo the District of Columbia.

School Bids Invited

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—Governor Battle today authorized the board of visitors of the University of Virginia to accept low bids of more than one million dollars for a new fine arts building at Mary Washington College.

Alexandria Cemetery Worker Acquitted of Raping Girl, 13

An Alexandria Corporation Court jury took less than 10 minutes yesterday to clear Virgil Shipes, former Alexandria cemetery employe, of raping a 13-year-old girl, who has since become a mother.

Shipes, 39, was accused of attacking the daughter of his Alexandria landlady in a parked automobile in May, 1949. The assault occurred, it was charged, when he drove the mother and daughter on a shopping trip and dropped the mother off at a downtown Alexandria store. The girl testified she was attacked in broad daylight when Shipes parked his auto briefly before returning to the store to pick up the mother.

Shipes, whose last address was listed as 1315 Meriden pl., nw., flatly denied the charge.

His attorney, Walter I. Young, told the jury it was "inconceivable" that the girl could have been raped in the time she was alone with Shipes.

It was Shipes' second trial on the same charge. A month ago a jury in the same court was unable to reach a verdict.

Art Show to Continue Through December 29

The fifty-fourth annual exhibition of the Washington Water Color Club at the National Museum will continue through Friday, December 29, according to Margaret Comegys, secretary of the club.

The exhibit consists of 135 water color paintings and 35 prints and other examples of graphic art. All pictures are for sale.

Jonkel was reached in Chicago, where he resumed public relations work after the campaign. Smith is an editorial writer on leave from the Times-Herald.

Jonkel admitted inspiring the tabloid, the Evening Sun said, but disclaimed any advance knowledge of the composite picture.

The Sun story quoted Jonkel:

"I told Mr. Butler about the tabloid and he wasn't very happy. But we were under a great deal of pressure from all sides to throw the book at Tydings. So we did.

"A lot of Mr. Butler's friends wanted him to use material that I didn't approve of as coming from him. So I suggested this tabloid idea. The plan was to put it all together and issue it as sort of newspaper.

"I called Mrs. Miller (Mrs. Ruth Miller, editor of the Times-Herald) and she said conceivably she could do it."

The Times-Herald said Mrs. Miller had nothing to add to the Associated Press story.

"I'm not sure who wrote the first draft, but I did see a hodgepodge of material in headquarters.

"It came in from all sides—Mr. Butler's friends, the Congressional Record and from Senator McCarthy's office. Senator McCarthy was in Baltimore twice and a girl who worked in his office, Jean Kerr, came in four times in the last couple of weeks with a whole sheaf of material.

"At the last minute, a lot of things got out of hand. I never saw any proofs in advance of publication, although the Young Democrats sent somebody over to Washington to check the material. I didn't know about the composite picture of Browder and Tydings. Neither did Butler.

"If I had known about it, I would have stopped it. That sort of thing is too sensational.

"Even if there are still a lot of things about the tabloid that I don't understand, I assume full responsibility for it. It is still my responsibility and I intend to investigate it fully when I am on more propitious."

[Charges by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) of Communist influence in the State Department were rejected by an investigating committee headed by Tydings. McCarthy's office said Miss Kerr is vacationing in Honolulu.]

[Senator Tydings declined comment on the Sun story.]

[Senator-elect Butler, reached by telephone at the Biltmore Hotel in New York City, said he wanted to read the Evening Sun story in full before commenting on details.

[He added "most certainly I never at any point wanted to throw the book at Tydings—I wanted to campaign in a gentlemanly way."

[He said he has no idea where the material in the tabloid came from or who got it up. He said he saw the publication before it went out, but in the final rush before election "it made absolutely no impression on me other than that I didn't like it.]

4 GIs Fined For Reporting False Robbery

Four soldiers from Fort Belvoir were fined $25 and given suspended jail sentences of 30 days each in Fairfax Trial Justice Court yesterday for reporting falsely a robbery to cover their losses in a card game.

The men, all of whom pleaded guilty before Judge Harry Carrico, were Pvts. Kenneth L. Nunn, 21; Billy C. Hill, 17; James C. Dervill, 17, and Joe A. Redwine, 17.

Police said they reported late Monday they were robbed of $120 at gunpoint after they actually lost about $40 to a civilian during a card game aboard a bus.

Nemm Held For Jury in Wife's Death

Evald Nemm, 50-year-old carpenter, charged with murdering his wife October 17, was returned to custody of United States marshals at Gallinger Hospital yesterday after a coroner's jury ordered him held for action of the grand jury.

Nemm babbled a confession in the strangle-slaying of his 58-year-old wife, Edith, who was found bound and gagged in their apartment at 204 5th st. se., police reported.

Nemm reportedly attempted to commit suicide early the same morning his wife was found dead by throwing himself in front of a car at 2d st and Florida ave. ne. En route to the hospital he mumbled to an ambulance doctor he had killed his wife.

Mrs. Anne Lindholm, 322 A st. se., Mrs. Nemm's sister, testified yesterday that marital difficulties had forced Mrs. Nemm to leave her husband and stay with her daughter several times.

Israel Plans to Sell $500 Million Bonds

JERUSALEM, Dec. 20 (AP).—Finance Minister Eliezer Kaplan told Parliament today Israel will float a 500 million dollar "Independence Day" bond issue in the United States next year.

He said the 15-year issue will be underwritten by an American group called Friends of Israel. The interest rate will probably be from 3½ to 4 percent.

The probable issuance date will be May 11, 1951—Israel's Independence Day.

Progress On Parking

Anything to relieve the District's constantly growing parking jam is welcome. In this connection the significance of the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency's proposal to put parking meters on two vacant fringe lots owned by the city is not the number of spaces they will add—only 150—but the fact that this is the first municipal venture in providing fringe parking. The experiment is one to which we hope the Commissioners will give their hearty indorsement.

Fringe parking has never had a fair trial in Washington—and by fringe parking we mean lots well removed from the center of the city, catering to all-day parkers at low rates and connected with the downtown area by rapid public transportation. The development of fringe parking holds virtually the only hope for relieving congestion downtown. The need is for fringe lots of considerable size, say 500 cars, in Anacostia, at Georgia and Alaska aves., at Chevy Chase Circle, at Wisconsin and Western aves., in Georgetown near Key Bridge, with express bus service to serve them.

So far the efforts of the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency have been directed largely toward promoting more privately-provided off-street parking. In this it has been fairly successful, though the new spaces have been a mere drop in the bucket. The Commissioners have been dubious about municipally-operated lots, and their tendency has been to lease city-owned land to private bidders. This in turn has resulted in high rates which have discouraged use.

Thus the present proposal in Brightwood is in the nature of a feeler. Parking meters will permit the lots to be operated at low rates and still avoid the charge of subsidy. The lots also should help answer the complaint that all-day parkers are preempting space in front of residences in the Brightwood area. The latter point is one on which there is considerable argument. Certainly streets were not intended to be used as garages, even by residents of the immediate neighborhood, and zoning regulations now wisely require provision for off-street parking in new apartment developments and the like. But greater use of fringe parking lots might well obviate the need for zoned parking on streets in heavily built-up areas.

It goes without saying that the provision of adequate off-street parking is a must for new governmental buildings, both in Washington and in any suburban dispersal plan. Beyond this, there ought to be more discussions between the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to see whether plots of Federal land, possibly in Potomac Park or near the Pentagon, could be diverted to fringe parking.

Impasse Over Haya

Guatemala has acted wisely in postponing its call for a meeting of Western Hemisphere Foreign Ministers over the case of Victor Raul Haya de la Torre until the International Court clarifies its decision. Such a call inevitably would have diverted attention from the more important hemisphere conference on defense and economic matters. At the same time the Haya case—and the bad relations the presence of Haya as a political refugee in the Colombian Embassy in Lima has precipitated between Peru and Colombia—is bound to remain an irritant in hemisphere unity.

The trouble is simply this. Morally there is everything to be said for Colombia's insistence on the right of asylum, a right supported by most Latin nations. Haya, as the outlawed Aprista leader in Peru, has a large idealistic following, and there is no question in this newspaper's view that he is being persecuted for political reasons rather than for the "common crimes" which Peru charges. But, legally, there is little reason to suppose that the new decision of the International Court will be any more satisfactory than the last, because Peru has not ratified the pertinent convention on the right of asylum.

Meanwhile the ruling oligarchy in Peru has smelled blood; the incitement has gone so far that it would be hard for Peru to recede. And in the last analysis there is no international enforcement machinery which could induce Peru to accept a decision she did not wish to accept. Hence the search must be for some middle ground to enable Peru to save face, for Haya will remain an issue irrespective of what the International Court decides.

Peru has tartly rebuffed the United States for its suggestion of good offices. But mediation, under a person of the standing of Sumner Welles, would not imply abandonment of the Peruvian interest. Would it not be possible for a mediator, with the full cognizance of the International Court, to work out an arrangement whereby Haya would be given a safe conduct out of the country, then tried in absentia, and if convicted, have his sentence commuted to the time he has already been confined? That would recognize the Peruvian interest, and at the same time would take into account the public opinion of the hemisphere. We urge the State Department to press such a proposal before some hothead precipitates another War of Jenkins' Ear.

Confusion

A curious kind of confusion appears to have gripped the American people and their counselors. It is a confusion arising out of a beating on the field of battle where we took up arms in a just cause—a public war which, alas, was pursued with enthusiasm only by us. There is nothing to be ashamed of in the Korean reverse; better in this instance to have fought and lost (if we yet have) than never to have fought at all. So history, we are convinced, will record, and so will a thought on the state of things that would have been created as a result of nonaction.

However, our confusion is not the normal confusion of people suddenly faced with a new situation. It has something in it of hurt pride—the hurt pride, let's face it, produced by thinking of ourselves as capable, as the saying goes, of licking our own weight in wildcats. For that kind of pride the Greeks had a word, hubris, meaning a swollen sense of superiority which invites the displeasure of the gods. An example is General MacArthur's undelivered speech to the VFW in which he said, "It is in the pattern of the Oriental psychology to respect and follow aggressive, resolute, and dynamic leadership."

That this is the kind of pride which has been wounded is shown by our reaction. In the inevitable discomfiture we are in danger of going off half-cocked instead of seeking and applying the lesson. There are those of us who find relief in the primitive pastime of a scalping expedition. This may provide personal satisfaction, but it supplies nothing else. Some think we ought to retire into our shells and let the rest of the world go hang. With Korea going sour, then the hell with everything! This is the counsel of frustration. The responsibility of great power is still with us, and cannot be bottled up, unless we wish to compound our perils. Yet others, seeing our relative nakedness, come to the same conclusion out of fear—though fear, as we know in our private lives, is the worst of all counselors.

A sense of perspective in our policy should be the fruit of our experience in Korea. If we absorb instead of react to it, the experience will not be in vain, but will provide a necessary discipline of our youthful energies and of the obligations of power. A reassessment is called for of political obligations in terms of our military capabilities on the assumption that the United Nations is not yet ready to carry out police functions on the Korean order elsewhere. Russia did not react to the rebuffs it sustained in Iran, in Berlin, and in Greece by quitting the conflict. It tried something else. Aims remained the same, only methods changed. A leaf out of this book is in order by way of dispelling the current confusion in our midst. If the confusion continues, the people will feel that there is no leadership in the Capital capable of controlling events, and this is a dangerous feeling to encourage.

On Violating Treaties

The Soviet notes to the governments of France and Great Britain, protesting the rearmament of Western Germany as a violation of the existing Franco-Russian and Anglo-Russian treaties, as well as of the Potsdam agreement, cannot be explained in any such simple phrase as barefaced hypocrisy. After all, as has been wisely said, hypocrisy is the homage that vice pays to virtue. But the men in the Kremlin—and this perhaps is the incurable evil in them—have no sense of their own corruption. Their moral indignation in this matter is altogether genuine. To understand this we must remember Lenin's maxim that morality is whatever advances the Communist world revolution, and immorality whatever retards it.

The incontestable truth, of course, is that the ink on the Potsdam agreement was scarcely dry before the Russians set about building up a vast military organization of Germans in the Soviet zone of occupation. They chose, to be sure, to call it a police force, but its members were given a kind of training and equipment utterly unknown among any police force in any civilized country. Its weapons included tanks, armored units, artillery and field mortars—even a navy. The higher commands were assigned to veteran German Communists whose experience had included service in the Spanish civil war. Red Army officers served as observers and advisers. The rank and file were recruited by methods unknown to ordinary police departments, principally by enforced enlistments, and were subjected to a discipline utterly different from normal police practice. At last reports the strength of this organization was estimated at about 50,000, but is doubtless much larger now.

On May 23 the United States Government in a note transmitted to the Kremlin asserted that this East German police force has "the character of an army" and that such an army could not have been created "without the deliberate approval of the Soviet government." Its existence is, therefore, clearly in defiance of the explicit understanding at Potsdam that Germany was to be totally disarmed and demilitarized. After pointing out that, in contrast to the Russian behavior, the agreement had been kept to the letter by the United States, France and Great Britain, the note went on to observe that

> By this and other like actions the Soviet government has destroyed world confidence in the sincerity of its promises and has created throughout the world widespread doubt as to its pacific intentions.

Similar protests were dispatched to Russia at the time by the governments of France and Great Britain.

The latest Russian note is an unblushing paraphrase of these protests, evidently in propaganda preparation for the denunciation of the treaties. The Russian position concerning them is precisely analogous to its position concerning aggressive war, which was explained in some detail on this page November 23. The Soviet reasoning on German rearmament may be summed up thus: "Whatever agreements conflict with our purposes we are permitted to evade; but we insist upon holding you to the letter of what we ourselves may ignore."

Security In Korea

What is euphemistically described as "security screening" of news dispatches from Korea actually is military censorship, and it is necessary. The only questions are why it has been so long in coming and why General MacArthur's headquarters does not call it by its rightful name. Most correspondents and newspapers would have welcomed military clearance of dispatches long ago as protection against involuntary breaches of security. An unwarranted burden is thrown upon reporters when they are left to decide what should be withheld for military reasons. This "voluntary" system has broken down more than once.

What actually precipitated the clampdown seems to have been the disclosure by the British news agency, Reuters, of the progress of the evacuation from Hungnam—a story picked up by other news services. This dispatch gave sufficient detail so that the enemy could have made use of it to inflict heavy damage on the assembled naval fleet. It was a flagrant breach, and the fact that it happened emphasizes the merit in Lieut. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson's assertion that security is more important in defensive action than in the offensive.

At the same time it is hard to understand the complaint of General Stratemeyer that the disclosure that F-86 jet fighters are present in Korea constituted a major security breach. There may of course be considerations that are not apparent. But swept-back wing F-86s already have been in combat. No kind of censorship would have prevented the enemy from learning about them.

In any event, there can be no question about General MacArthur's right to impose censorship. Whenever there is censorship there is always danger that it will be used foolishly to bottle up information of little security value or to cover mistakes. Such abuses, of course, would be sure to rebound. But so long as the censorship is confined to matters of genuine security importance and correspondents are notified what is deleted and why, the procedure must be accepted.

Price Standards

The Economic Stabilization Agency's voluntary price control plan does not aim to freeze prices at December 1 levels. It is simply a request to sellers to make no post-December 1 price increases and to cancel increases already made that violate fair pricing standards as officially defined. Specifically, a price increase would be permissible if a company's net profits before taxes did not equal its average profits during 1946-49. Even companies whose profits exceeded base period earning averages could, under the fair pricing formula, raise the prices of individual articles selling at a loss either by an amount necessary to make sales profitable or by the amount of the increases in their production costs since June 24, 1950—whichever is lower. These exceptions leave a lot of leeway for price increases, since the cost of raw materials and labor has risen sharply since the start of the Korean war.

As a matter of fact, to hold the December 1 price line firm for some manufactured products it would be necessary to reduce the prices of basic materials used in producing them below December 1 levels. Moreover, the ESA's fair price standards fail to make provision for hardship cases—companies whose earnings in the base period were abnormally low and new companies that have expanded rapidly in the last few years. Such companies are not likely to embrace a voluntary plan that discriminates against them in this manner.

However, it is futile to point out the defects of this voluntary control plan, because it is taken for granted that mandatory general price controls will be imposed as soon as the ESA is ready to administer them. The experiment with voluntary controls will, nevertheless, serve a useful purpose by giving advance notice of intentions to disallow price increases that Government officials consider unfair. Fears of mandatory price rollbacks will doubtless check profiteering—in other words, price increases made for the sake of greater profits that are not required to cover a rise in production costs. Meanwhile stabilization authorities will be afforded time to develop an improved system of mandatory controls and to complete plans for over-all wage stabilization—an essential feature of any program for curbing inflation.

Korean Massacres

If the reports are true, why no front page caption for the massacres of civilians, including women and children, by the South Koreans? The first mention you gave the incidents, to my knowledge, was on page 6M of your December 17 issue and was captioned, "Two United States Priests Protest . . .' I think you could very well have placed on the front page, "One Hundred Fifty Million Americans Protest . . ."

It has been said that the United Nations troops are now fighting in Korea to preserve, among other things, decency. Are South Korean massacres more decent than others? Those same South Koreans are imploring the United Nations to hold off the bloody hordes from the North. Why? So they can match, drop for drop, the quantity of mothers' and children's blood spilled? Surely some of my buddies are not fighting for this!

Should not the United Nations demand the immediate arrest of the persons responsible for the South Korean massacres? Should not these crimes be thoroughly investigated and reported to the world? Should these criminals get off easier than a murderer does in the United States, or easier than the North Korean, Chinese, and Russian butchers will when they are eventually brought to justice?

Child's blood is child's blood, no matter who draws it!

Job for Dr. Graham

There has been much adverse comment recently by many members of the press concerning the practice of appointing to responsible positions in the Government those former holders of elective offices who "have been rejected by the voters at the polls." Almost invariably the name of Dr. Frank P. Graham appears among those mentioned as a man for whom a position is in mind.

In all fairness, it is conceded none of these comments have contained any reflections upon the integrity and statesmanship of Dr. Graham. However, the mere fact that a man of such high integrity, unimpeachable character, and indisputable quality can be included among those "rejected by the voters at the polls" should raise considerable doubt as to whether such persons should be discriminated against in making appointments to offices which are not elective.

Only a few years ago, a large segment of both the press and the Senate of the United States was quite ready to reject the expressed demands of the qualified electors of another sovereign State when there arose the question of whether Senator Theodore G. Bilbo should be seated or not. It is quite true that racial prejudice and hypocrisy are poor qualifications for a member of the highest legislative body in the land; it is equally true, however, that a man who practices neither and opposes both should not be opposed for appointive office on the lone premise that the voters of his State have refused him an elective one.

It should be remembered also that a candidate who fails to be elected is not necessarily rejected personally by the voters.

Truman And Hume

Having just read an article in the Sydney (Australia) leading newspapers of President Truman's latest outburst of bad temper in reference to Paul Hume's article describing Margaret Truman's vocal capabilities, which to my mind contained nothing offensive, I feel compelled to voice my contempt for the language chosen by Mr. Truman.

How long must Americans living abroad be humiliated by such ill-chosen words and threats by the President? This most regrettable outburst has been given much unfavorable publicity, not only in the papers but also on the radio here in Australia, and has caused much humiliation and embarassment to the Americans living in this country. E. C. HANSEN.

As a born American living in Canada I am writing to you to express my sincere regret that a paper of the reputation and standing of The Washington Post should have published as much as you did of President Truman's very unfortunate letter to your reporter Paul Hume. Despite his tolerant attitude I feel that he is very much to blame for giving publicity to a matter that was not important to the public but attracted a great deal of attention.

Living in another country, the repercussions and criticism resulting were hard to take. We may make mistakes individually or collectively but this unfortunate lapse and lack of dignity put the whole country in a very undesirable position in the eyes of other nations. HARRIET F. CRAIG.

Acheson's Appeasement

Your columnist Drew Pearson, in his December 9 column, in an effort to show that Mr. Acheson is not an appeaser, pointed out that he (Mr. Acheson) holds to the policy of a last-ditch stand in Korea, even against top military advice which had shown how such a stand would be doubtful of accomplishment and in any event would result in "terrible casualties."

I wonder how many beach-head operations either Mr. Acheson or Mr. Pearson have experienced. Their stand is admirable, provided they participate instead of yap at the heels of MacArthur whose valor, integrity and sagacity have been proven time after time. All of which goes to prove the old saying that if those who make wars had to fight them there would be no war.

JOHN B. KIMBERLY, Jr.
Washington.

It is now fully established that the Eighth Army's drive to the Manchurian border was the only thing that saved the U. N. forces from total destruction; it forced the Chinese to strike before they were fully ready. It is fully established, that is, unless one believes, as Pearson evidently does, that the huge mass of Red troops and material were concentrated in Manchuria merely on the off-chance that MacArthur would give them what Pearson calls an "excuse" to invade.

If Acheson's "dust-settling" policy toward China had been replaced by the realistic plan of General Wedemeyer, instead of that plan being suppressed, the Red hordes now sweeping us off the peninsula would be allies, busily engaged in menacing communism's eastern flank.

Wasting Time With Russia

Although the citizens of western Russia have for centuries been "Christianized", it is plain the Russian state church was not an institution of Western Christian civilization; it was a Byzantine holdover from the Eastern Christian church. Abundant historical evidence exists to support the conclusion that the Russian state church was a mere utensil wielded by the old Russian aristocracy for the stimulus of Western culture.

The customs, traditions, techniques of production, and the very mores of these people differ from the West to such a degree that Arnold Toynbee's qualification for the differentiation of two dissimilar civilizations is pertinent. Russian civilization is neither Oriental-Asiatic nor Western Christian. The despotic bureaucrats who direct the destinies of these masses today are the peasants of yesterday (or their sons), but now they are enthralled with a new "faith" —communism: the new state church, whose prophet was Karl Marx. And for their little "father" they have Stalin.

To this evangelist zeal must be added Karl Marx's own discovery —dialectical materialism, a conviction that there inheres in the evolution of society compulsive social-economic forces which only the Marxist comprehends. And the understanding of this dialect confers on the partisan the novel ability to so condition and mold history that mankind may now achieve the "good" life through scientific socialism.

Coincident with this frightening ideology is the geological misfortune of the Eurasian land mass: desiccation. Their land is drying out; 800 years ago the "march of the barbarians" toward the green and watered shores of this ocean of drought brought the flying cavalry of the Khans into central Europe—indeed the Mongols swept as far south as India. Russia today is responding to the geologic realities of her land just as the Mongol hordes of antiquity. Soviet imperialism thus embodies the politics of an empty stomach and a new "faith" for all mankind.

This is the force which liquidates freedom in central Europe; which liquidates 40,000 Polish army officers in the Katyn Forest; which snubs Western admiration and proffered aid, choosing instead, the way of the knout and the gun; the force seeking peace whilst mobilizing the largest force of arms known to mankind.

Representatives of Western powers have endured ignominy and humiliation whenever the agents of this force have convened with them for negotiation. Wasting precious time in parleys, the West lost the strategic initiative and strategic security. Well known it is that the Red army can be at the North Sea and Atlantic with our first defensive move. Hysterically panicked, we have with great cost in treasure and blood entangled ourselves in Korea bringing us dangerously close to the most wished-for commitment in the Soviet program of power politics: war with China.

This ruthless power has broadcast to the world (as did Hitler) the program now in motion—for this the massive evidence continues to accumulate. This evidence indicts the Kremlin as ruthless tyrants. But also this evidence indicts the executive branch of the Government of the United States as incompetent and mediocre.

This bungling bureaucracy plans to give Europeans arms they fear to use, after the facts are plain that Europe is totally lost to the "Strategy of Freedom" the moment America makes the first overt move of self-defense. This leadership plans a 1945 war for 1952 when the Russian tyrants control Europeans, through fear—right now. JOHN BENNETT.

Stretching Our Resources

By Malvina Lindsay

Belt Tightening Decade

JUST AS WE had comfortably settled back into our old prewar habits of careless waste, the call to thrift has begun to resound. How soon before we will again be snapping off electric lights, saving string and paper bags?

For lowering of living standards—one of the most difficult of all adjustments for human beings—faces nearly everyone as Congress appropriates more and more millions for defense. True, there will be more jobs, more overtime, more members of families working, more money changing hands. But there also will be less civilian goods, more and stiffer taxes, and if financial experts are right, more depreciation of the dollar.

On all sides one hears the reaction to this: "I'll just have to save more." This is the last ditch defense against giving up luxuries, comforts, conveniences—a prospect that in the last depression sent some graduates of the jazz decade's school of prosperity to jumping out windows.

How much of a cushion against pinching austerity could a determined widespread attack on waste, public and private, provide? A very big one if the attack reached into the corners of every kitchen, office, factory, store, Government bureau and congressional committee. But to make it would require two missing stimuli; enough citizens willing to bother about checking on public expenditures, and a people conditioned to thrift rather than happy-go-lucky waste.

AS YET there is not the breathless rush in National defense that came after Pearl Harbor, and that occasioned such rapid profligate use of money and goods. There is yet a chance for defense preparations to be carried on with a normal watch on the dollars.

True there are already fantastic stories coming out of the Pentagon, such as the one that enough paper napkins have been laid in to service present and future GI's for 88 years, but these are no doubt inspired or imagined. However, now that Americans have committed themselves to a huge and costly defense program that will go on for years, and that will crimp their own living standards materially, it would seem ordinary self protection for them to insist on getting the most for their money.

However, they are not in general prepared in attitude or temperament to do this. That is why they may find their own belt tightening very difficult, especially if it is prolonged. Much as Benjamin Franklin is still revered, it is not his thrift that finds discipleship. There are no copybooks carrying the maxim, "A penny saved is a penny earned," no readers that tell of the financial adventures of those three boys, Shallow, Shellfish and Wise.

AND UNDER ordinary conditions the expansive, dynamic American attitude of "Let's earn more," rather than "Let's save more," seems to work successfully, in spurring production at least. But now the tremendous demands for goods for a defense economy that may continue 10 or 15 years, as well as the needs of the encroaching poverty stricken masses of the world, make it necessary for all Americans both to save more and to produce more.

Hence many of them will have to learn thrift again, and there is the usual cry that the schools take over. One educator at least, Dr. Harold C. Hunt, general superintendent of schools of Chicago, is willing to accept the challenge. He believes the schools aren't doing enough in teaching Americans to be responsible citizens in the handling of their finances.

He cites surveys showing that only 2.7 percent of classroom time is spent on financial-security topics. Yet Americans are showing increasing concern about their future "security." And their living plans are increasingly tied up with industrial pension programs, Government Social Security, holdback pay for taxes, war bonds, insurance.

Dr. Hunt would have more courses on family expenditures, savings and budgeting, in junior and senior high schools especially, aimed at developing the citizen's responsibility as producer, consumer and taxpayer, and at counteracting the idea the Government should look after all his wants.

The need of such training will be emphasized as we advance further into a decade that even from the most hopeful outlook will demand of everyone much self-discipline and sacrifice, and that will call for more intelligent stretching of all our resources, personal and national.

Danger From Tito

Yugoslavia is a Communist nation. However may be Tito's feelings toward the Kremlin, or toward the Korean situation, he is a Communist. We are sending aid to Mr. Tito, with hopes that he may come to our aid when (and I do not say "if") anti-Communists and anti-Communist nations are finally and devastatingly attacked by Russia and her toys. Our papers tell us that Mr. Tito will fight Mr. Stalin and help us to defeat, once and for all, the entire thread of communism from the face of the earth.

Mr. Tito will then resign himself to the fact that his tiny nation of farms and villages will be the only Communist nation in the world, and with its tiny resources will, in all probability, never be able to rise against the rest of the world, and make itself a Communist domain. Mr. Tito will fight against the only possibility he has to achieve his ends, however far he may have drifted from cooperation with that possibility.

Dogs will fight among themselves, but when approached by a human, will turn collectively to thwart the intruder.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

General Eisenhower's Mission

THERE have been two favorable developments since the Atlantic Ministers met in New York in September. These developments make it reasonable to hope that General Eisenhower can succeed in the difficult and dangerous work which he has so nobly undertaken.

Lippmann

The first is the American mobilization. The second is that at Brussels our European allies have, to judge by the communique, brought the question of German rearmament within the realm of statesmanship and diplomacy.

This combination of growing strength with growing wisdom gives General Eisenhower something to work with.

THE guarantee which the United States has given to western Europe rests primarily on our power to deter rather than to defend. The essence of the deterrent power of the United States is that if it came to war America would inflict greater injuries on Russia than Russia upon America; America itself would be less vulnerable than Russia; the striking power of America against Russia would grow greater than the Russian power to strike against America.

When we speak of our power to deter we mean that before the Russians could decide to invade western Europe they would have to face the fact that they themselves would be fearfully injured, that a conquest of Europe would be for them the beginning and not the end of the war, and that American power would grow as theirs declined.

SINCE 1945 the balance of power between the Soviet Union and the United States has been sufficiently in our favor to have deterred the Soviet Union from sending its own forces across the military frontiers agreed to at Yalta. The cardinal purpose of the American mobilization in 1950 is to maintain this specific form of the balance of power—by making the American base of production more secure, by making the striking power of America capable of delivering not only a big raid but a sustained and mounting assault.

There is good reason to think that a direct Soviet aggression in the form of an invasion of western Europe by the Red Army or by the satellite armies would be as desperate a gamble as Hitler's. Like Hitler, the men in the Kremlin would not be able to finish their war because they could never defeat their biggest enemies. We hope and believe that the Russians, unlike Hitler, will respect the realities of the balance of power. If they do not, we shall all suffer, but they will not suffer the least. If they do respect the realities, then they will remain as they have since 1945, deterred because the ultimate balance of power is against them. It will remain against them unless they can seduce the United States into exhausting and indecisive peripheral wars,—or until they have secured their own defenses against American aerial invasion and have achieved the offensive power to break through the American defenses inside the United States.

THIS brings us to the Brussels agreement. The crucial problem of high strategy there arose from the fact that for several years to come at the very least western Europe has to be defended in order that it might raise the forces by which it could defend itself. Much of the confusion about French and German rearmament in this country arises from a failure to understand that between the decision to rearm Germany and the presence of effective German forces several years must elapse. During these years the provocative effect upon the Russians will be at its maximum, while the European power to resist the Russians will be little greater than it is today.

If I read correctly the Brussels communique, our European allies have been able to repair much, perhaps most, of the mistake we made at the New York meeting in September. That was the mistake of demanding a firm commitment to rearm the Germans before we and our allies were within sight of being rearmed ourselves, and before we had any understanding with the Germans. This was the worst form of provocation—namely provocation with nothing behind it. It has divided Europe, has unsettled Germany, and has given the Russians all the openings and all the time they need to prepare their own counteracting moves.

AT Brussels the question of German rearmament has been put back into a new and sounder perspective. German rearmament has been made secondary to the rearmament of the Atlantic powers, and it has been made contingent upon the political and diplomatic actions still to be carried out. "The Council also reached unanimous agreement regarding the part which Germany might (italics mine) assume in the common defense . . . the Council invited the governments of France, the United Kingdom, and the United States to explore the matter with the government of the German federal republic."

This says that on the critical question of German rearmament there was unanimous agreement on a plan but that there is no decision to execute that plan. There is to be first a diplomatic negotiation with Germany. Then, though the communique does not say so explicitly, it means to say also that before there is active rearmament of Germany in a serious way, there will be a meeting with the Russians.

THIS is a sound policy. The time which will apparently "be lost" in talking with the Germans and then with the Russians about German rearmament will be more than offset by the time gained here for American rearmament. A few German divisions cannot defend Europe but they could provoke a war. On the other hand an increase of American striking power not only defends Europe far better than a few German divisions, but it is far less provocative. There is much to be gained, therefore, and nothing to be lost by a pause in Europe for diplomatic action before the issues of German rearmament are irrevocably decided.

Thus it might be said that General Eisenhower's prospects are better than they would appear if we look only at the pathetically few ground divisions he will have under his command. He has behind him a mounting American power to strike in retaliation which may, which should if the Kremlin is rational, be deterrent, and he has—quite evidently—a determination by the governments of Europe not to suspend diplomacy but to use it.

As General Eisenhower himself is a soldier but not a militarist, he will be able to see the necessity and the wisdom of using the kind of strength we really have to support the kind of diplomacy which fits our strength. And so, his greatest victory may still be ahead of him—that of having defended Western society without a war that would destroy it.

Fifth Admiral Named in Navy In Emergency

President Truman nominated Vice Adm. Lynde D. McCormick, Vice Chief of Naval Operations, to four-star rank yesterday—increasing to five the number of full admirals in active service.

A Pentagon spokesman said the President's declaration of a national emergency lifted the legal limit on the number of top-ranking admirals and generals and that McCormick was promoted to give him equal rank with the Vice Chiefs of Staff of the Army and Air Force, Generals Wade H. Haislip and Nathan F. Twining.

At the same time, Mr. Truman nominated Rear Adm. Malcolm F. Schoeffel, a Navy aviator, to be chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, and named Rear Adm. Albert G. Noble, now ordnance chief, to be chief of naval materiel, with the rank of vice admiral.

Spokesmen for the Army and Air Force said there are no plans at present to create any additional four-star generals under the emergency waiver of the limit.

USAF chiefs, however, have long contended they should have additional top-ranking officers. They are limited to four now—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, Gen. George C. Kenney, Commandant of the Air War College, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, assigned to the Secretary of Defense, and Twining.

The Army also has four, but it has two five-star generals holding active posts—Douglas MacArthur, Far East commander, and Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Army four-star generals are J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff; Mark W. Clark, commander, Army Field Forces; Thomas T. Handy, commander in Europe, and Haislip.

Admirals already holding four-star rank are Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, Arthur W. Radford, Pacific Fleet commander, William Fechteler, Atlantic Fleet commander, and Robert B. Carney, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean commander.

Hospitalization Asked For Criminal Defectives

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—It was recommended here today that criminal defectives be given indeterminate sentences. The suggestion came from the committee on medico-legal procedure of the legislative council.

Criminals defined as "defective delinquents" would be confined in the new state institution to be built at Jessup for treatment, not punishment.

U. S. to Use 187 Paints Instead of 500

Government streamlining moved forward yesterday with announcement that Uncle Sam will use only 187 different paint colors henceforth instead of a previous 500 shades.

A realese by General Services Administration said the new standardization of acceptable paint colors was the fruit of 20 years research by Government and industry scientists.

"The specification is a landmark in our efforts to standardize materials used by Government and thus to bring about substantial savings," Jess Larson, GSA administrator said.

Federal purchases of paint total about 100 millions dollars annually.

In February, the Government will release a book, setting forth the 187 different varieties, with detailed specifications. It will sell for $4.50 a copy.

Latin Follies

By Marquis Childs

U. S. Pays For Shortsightedness

THE DECISION to hold a conference of the American republics as soon as possible comes under the heading of better late than never. But there is no use concealing the fact that it is very late indeed to start thinking about what has been so aptly called our last line of defense.

Childs

A mixture of indifference, defeatism and bungling has produced the inevitable result. The unity that exists today is largely a carry-over from the Good Neighbor policy of the past.

In the past five years the United States has intervened first on one side and then on the other in the domestic affairs of our Latin-American neighbors. Too often the effect of this intervention has been to reward our enemies and penalize our friends. The intervention has been clumsy and obtrusive in many instances.

The primary example is Argentina. In Argentina the aim of United States policy was first to try by obscure means to unseat the dictator, Juan Peron. Without far more drastic measures than this country was willing to apply, the effort was bound to fail.

It left behind chiefly a sense of nagging irritation, with the friends of freedom in Argentina diappointed and disillusioned. Recently Peron was given a sizable Export-Import Bank loan, the main objective of which is apparently to enable United States firms to go on doing business in the Argentine.

IN THE present period with everybody looking around for someone else to blame, it is easy enough to point the finger of scorn at that ol' devil, the State Department. But Congress, where pressure groups have been busy lobbying to serve their own interests, must take a considerable share of the blame.

Copper is a beautiful example. About 47 percent of the copper used in this country is imported, most of it coming from Chile. During World War II the import tax of 2 cents a pound was suspended and the suspension was continued until June 30 of this year.

The State Department worked hard to persuade Congress to extend the suspension or wipe out the tariff entirely. The chief effect, it was pointed out, would be to increase the cost of copper to the American consumer by 2 cents a pound. Producers in this country would use the increase in the cost of foreign copper to boost their own prices. The two largest United States companies also control most of Chile's copper production. Today in the gray market copper is said to bring almost double the price of 20 cents a pound prevailing before the Korean war.

Tin, which is the chief source of foreign earnings for Bolivia, is another case in point. As demand and supply began to come into balance, with Malayan mines in full production again, Bolivian producers were fearful that their mines would be closed with resulting serious unemployment. An approach was made to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for long-term contracts for tin which would go into the Government stockpile.

But that was in the period of dreamy complacence when stockpilers were working—if they worked at all—on the assumption that foreign sources of supply could be drawn on in a future war as in World War II. Now the world demand for tin, including the suddenly galvanized pressure for stockpiling, is pushing the price higher and higher.

VENEZUELA is almost wholly dependent on petroleum for dollars to buy essential United States machines and other imports. The coal lobby, in league with the independent oil producers, has been working to get some sort of tax or tariff applied which would at least keep down the amount of Venezuelan oil coming into North American ports. In recent months it has been on the upgrade.

They seem about to get their way if only by default. The Good Neighbor trade agreement with Mexico is being terminated as of the end of this year. That agreement calls for a reduction of the tariff on oil from 21 cents to 10½ cents a barrel and this reduction extended to oil imports from every country. Therefore, unless something is done, the tariff on oil will go back to 21 cents.

All this bespeaks the most monstrous folly. And it is folly not alone from the viewpoint on injuring our Latin-American neighbors and alienating opinion there. It has been a major contribution to the present inflation. And, perhaps most important of all, it ignores the need to conserve our own dwindling resources and to build up avenues of supply for vital materials from outside the United States. For example, if Middle East oil were to be lost to the West, the Venezuelan supply would be of vital importance.

The coming inter-American conference, which will probably be held in Washington, will have a full agenda. The need to cooperate on measures to check the spread of communism, counter the danger of internal sabotage and at the same time to implement inter-American defense has long been obvious.

But the No. 1 goal should be to end these economic monstrosities that today imperil the security of all the Americas.

Malta Prime Minister Enrico Mizzi Dies

VALETTA, Malta, Dec. 20 (U.P.). Prime Minister Enrico Mizzi of Malta died today. He was 68.

Mizzi, leader of the Nationalist party, formed a minority government in September after a government crisis. Opposition parties agreed to support him so long as he did not introduce "contentious" legislation.

The Show Can Go On as Far As Zoning Board Is Concerned

Despite protests of neighbors, the little theater group called Theater Lobby was given permission yesterday by the District Board of Zoning Adjustment to put on plays at 1756 N st. nw.

Spokesmen for the group said it could rehearse and put on plays without a zoning change. But to advertise their productions and sell tickets they needed a special use permit.

Opposition came from nearby homeowners, two church groups and restaurant owners who objected to the additional noise and traffic they feared the theater group would bring.

The theater group spokesmen said they planned no more than three series of performances a year and couldn't get more than 75 spectators into the premises if they tried.

In other actions yesterday the board:

1. Permitted the National Scientific Laboratories, Inc. to continue its research and experiments in electronics and nuclear physics at 2010 Massachusetts ave. nw., provided that within 10 days it seek a permit to make needed fire safety changes.

2. Postponed for a month a hearing on the application to build a school on the edge of the Woodley estate. The 1½ acres in question front on 29th st. nw., at Woodley rd. The continuance was asked by the applicants.

In a reported account of a zoning action last week it was stated that the District Zoning Commission had rezoned land at 18th st., South Dakota ave. and Taylor sts. ne., to permit construction of semi-detached houses. Zoning officials stated yesterday that the action permitted construction of row houses and a laundry pick-up station at one end of the triangle.

The President's Calling List

President Truman had the following White House appointments yesterday:

11 a. m.—Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of House Armed Services Committee.

11:05 a. m.—James Magher, president Touchdown Club with Thomas Webb, chairman of dinner committee.

11:15 a. m.—Representative Compton White of Idaho.

12 noon—Henry F. Grady, Ambassador to Iran.

12:15 p. m.—CAB Chairman Delos Rentzel.

12:30 p. m.—NSRB Chairman Symington with C. R. Smith, American Airlines president.

3 p. m.—Representative Lynch (D., N. Y.).

3:15 p. m.—Democratic National Chairman Boyle.

Young Democrats To Sponsor Forum

The Young Democrats of the District will sponsor a round-table forum on the current international crisis at their meeting at 8:30 p. m. today in American Legion Hall, 2437 15th st. nw. Professor Francis E. Jones, jr., of National University Law School, the president of the club, will act as moderator.

Auto Union Resists Rollback; Valentine's Policy in Peril

By J. A. Livingston

ALAN VALENTINE, administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency, needs a Little Steel formula. His rollback of passenger car prices to December 1 has got him in double trouble.

Naturally, General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, and Nash don't like it. Nor does labor. Management and labor—the very groups on whom Valentine must depend for his tenure as stabilizer—are allied against him.

Livingston

The companies felt "discriminated against." Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, wasn't quite so tolerant. He charged Valentine with upsetting stable labor relations in a key defense industry.

In freezing auto prices, Valentine commits himself to "stabilizing"—freezing—auto wages in some way. And if there's one thing Reuther has fought against, it's a wage freeze. When Reuther saw inflation coming, he jumped at G. M.'s offer of a five-year cost-of-living contract plus an annual 4-cents-an-hour automatic wage increase. He was protecting his workers against rising prices. Now Valentine threatens to take that protection away.

Reuther promptly warned that any abrogation of the cost-of-living clause would upset the entire contract. That puts Valentine on the spot. If auto workers get restive, if they strike, the strike won't be against Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, but against Alan Valentine, head of ESA. Neither Reuther nor Wilson likes being singled out as a guinea pig—having the auto industry selected for price control before a broad general policy has been established.

VALENTINE TAKES a different view. True, he's singling out autos. But he hopes that his action on autos will set a general wage-price pattern. If he can control auto prices and wages, presumably he'll be able to control prices and wages in the steel, electrical equipment, printing and other industries. Nonetheless, the action may prove to be precipitate.

No doubt Valentine was miffed when General Motors refused to rescind its price increases. But after all, he could hardly have expected otherwise. If they had yielded to him, they'd have been saying in effect: "We did not show proper regard for the public interest. We did not have sufficiently compelling reasons for price advances, and Mr. Valentine has shown us the light." No major company could make such an admission.

Valentine's great problem today is this: He has not picked on a basic industry in which to set a price policy. Auto prices don't influence the cost of living, as, say, food prices, or steel. In addition, it forces Valentine to set a wage policy before either he or the Nation is ready for it. He's got to get out from under the auto industry's cost-of-living adjustments every three months.

IN WORLD WAR II, the country inched into a wage policy. The Little Steel formula, which stabilized wage rates, was devised after months and months of trial and error, after War Labor Board hearings in many cases.

That formula was not reached by fiat. It was not an armchair judgment. It was arrived at when it became obvious to labor, management, and public representatives of the War Labor Board that the wage-price spiral had to be stopped, that some universal policy had to be set down. You might almost say that everyone submitted to it in self-defense.

Furthermore, the formula was developed by the tripartite board. It was not a one-man verdict. It was written by the public and management members with the labor group acquiescing, after prolonged hearings. It set forth a hold-the-line policy, which everybody wanted. In that respect it was a relief.

Finally, it settled a labor dispute. Valentine's auto order seems likely to create one.

MRS. MIMI ROMEDENNE
... three cheers for American shoes

PARIS MAY be tops in fashion from the ankle up, but take it from Mimi Romedenne, there's no shoe like the American shoe.

Mme. Romedenne visited Washington last week on the first lap of a tour which will take her to Kansas City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Houston, St. Louis and back to New York. Despite her enthusiasm for this country's shoe leather, she will not wear out much of it on her trip. A Paris employe of Trans-World Airlines, Mme. Romedenne will make the two-and-a-half-week journey entirely by air.

ALTHOUGH this is her first trip to the United States, she is already well acquainted with the country through her wartime contacts with Americans. A worker in the French underground during the German occupation, Mme. Romedenne became an interpreter at the 191st General Hospital in Paris after the liberation, and later was a secretary in the Army Courts Martial Division.

This year, her ties with the United States were strengthened by her 22-year-old son, a Fulbright student at the University of Denver. She will spend seven days with him during the Christmas holidays.

"HE SPEAKS French with an English accent now!" Mme. Romedenne learned to her surprise over the long-distance telephone after she reached this country. Another son, in Paris, age 13, speaks English "correctly every now and then," the mother explains.

Her own linguistic equipment is confined to French and English, but Mme. Romedenne assures American friends that these two tongues will take a modern traveler to every corner of the globe.

Hedda Hopper's Hollywood

They're Still Discovering U. S. History as Movie Subjects

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—Dore Schary, enthusiastic over early American history as exciting material for the screen, is starring Robert Taylor in "Pioneer Woman." It's a romantic yarn about a hard-bitten, woman-fearing Indian scout who guides a group of women across the prairies during the gold rush days. Charles Schnee wrote the screen play from an original story by Frank Capra. Bill Wellman will direct the technicolor production . . . Pan Berman is so happy over the way "Father's Little Dividend"—sequel to "Father of the Bride"—turned out that he's already huddling with Spencer Tracy about doing a sequel to the sequel. You could call the third one "Baby's Little Playmate" . . . Virginia Mayo and Mike O'Shea are back from Arizona, where they hunted unsuccessfully for a cattle ranch to buy.

The Raymond Masseys can't be together for Christmas. She's in the East and he's here doing a picture. However, his younger son flies out for New Year's. Ray told me of writing a speech on acting, which he was to deliver after receiving an award in Canada. Doing some research in an encyclopedia, he came across a cliche-filled article he thought rather nauseating. Asking himself, "Who could have written this thing?" He looked at the author's initials—R. M. Then he remembered having done the article himself 10 years previously . . . When I asked Jane Russell what she was giving husband Bob Waterfield for Christmas, she told me, but warned it was a big secret. "Well, what's he giving you?" I said. "Oh, a mink coat, which I've been wearing for three months," she replied. I asked if she weren't delighted to be making a picture with Vic Mature. "I love him," she replied, "but don't you think we look like brother and sister?"

Big "Yankee" Sendoff

Dining with Hal Wallis and Joe Hazen was a gay, happy event. They're not the worried type of producers. Without the pressure of turning out 30 or 40 films a year, they do only the stories they like. After putting new players under contract, they let other studioes make stars of them. During the dinner, one said to the other, "you know I think, instead of four or five pictures a year, we'd earn more money by just making one." "Perhaps," said the partner, "but we wouldn't have nearly as much fun." . . . The M.G.M. publicity boys certainly are giving a magnificent sendoff to "The Magnificent Yankee." It's world premiere here had a star-studded audience. . . . Clark Gable is taking a sabbatical from films until June. He'll then do "Lone Star," with Z. Wayne Griffin producing. Most of the picture will be shot in Texas.

Casablanca Wants Bogey

Humphrey Bogart never has been able to live down that "play it for me, Sam" routine he did in "Casablanca." Now the Casablanca Hotel, Miami Beach, wants him to appear there with Julie Wilson and do the bit for the floor show. The management wouldn't mind at all if Lauren Becall came along and sang as part of the deal. . . . Bob Young says he and his wife always try to persuade their four daughters to go to Yosemite for a white Christmas; but the kids insist on staying home. "That means not only more presents," said Bob, "but also new clothes for each of them, as they go to a lot of parties during the holidays." . . . Greer Garson is happy about playing a shady lady in her next picture, "The Law and Lady Loverly." Wish somebody would change that title.

Guests by the Peck

Gregory Peck, who likes plenty of guests when he has them, has invited 30 people to Christmas dinner. Among them are Mel Ferrer, Dorothy McGuire, Raymond Massey, and the Bob Mitchums. . . . Leslie Caron, the French ballet dancer making her Hollywood debut in "An American in Paris," will have her parents here for New Year's. . . . Before leaving Columbia, Producer Bill Dozier wrote his resignation on 34 pages of paper—which should have been asbestos. "I could work with Harry Cohn for the rest of my life," said Bill, "but I couldn't tolerate inefficient go-betweens." . . . Producer Sam Marks, who arrived from Paris Friday, is leaving Metro to take a berth at Columbia.

Fireworks at Christmas

Fireworks, used chiefly on the Fourth of July in the northern part of the United States, come into their own at Christmas and New Year's in much of the South. The Spanish and French colonists of Florida and Louisiana are credited with having established the southern practice prior to 1776, notes the National Geographic Society.

Good Music Lost On Lazy Writing

By Richard L. Coe

"PRELUDE TO FAME," at the Trans-Lux, is a well-recorded British film, made in Italy, about a 10-year-old boy who receives international acclaim as a conductor. The story, however logical in idea, is poorly, illogically written, and, with the exception of several strictly musical interludes, the sum total is artificial.

Whether Aldous Huxley's story, "Young Archimedes," from which this has been adapted, was written before a similar real life yarn or after, I've not been able to discover. The actual case of a prodigy-conductor that comes to mind from recent fact is the career of 8-year-old Ferruccio Burco, who conducted briefly in this country three seasons ago. This Italian child's mother was a little-known opera singer, his father a painter. What's since become of him I don't know, nor can the erudite Paul Hume carry the matter further.

The picture imagines the lad as the son of Italian peasants unable to do much about his musical gifts. These are quickly recognized by a British philosophy professor, living with his family in Italy, a man who instantly observes the child's inherent ability but realizes that he should be allowed to mature slowly. Not to take over someone else's life. She persuades the parents, who happen to be her tenants, to leave the lad in her care. Quickly she pushes him into active musical prominence and attempts to cut him completely from his family and a natural boyhood.

"PRELUDE TO FAME," J. Arthur Rank organization presents a screen play by Robert Westerby from "Young Archimedes," by Aldous Huxley. Released by Universal-International. Produced by Donald B. Wilson. Musical director: Muir Mathieson. Directed by Fergus McDonnel. At the Trans-Lux.

How he cracks under the strain and how the philosopher is once more drawn into his life, to solve it with action that takes him back to his family, forms the dramatic action.

Because the role of the rich woman is so overwritten and her character established from one's first instant with her, the plot is knocked absurdly out of shape. Some scenes are most sloppily written; why, for instance, is the child's existence such news to the orchestra members when, in the next scene, we are told his performance has been announced all over Naples? This sort of lazy writing by Adapter Robert Westerby recurs constantly, and the result to one's belief is disastrous.

Musical Lad Scores

The musical moments are finely recorded and Jeremy Spenser, who plays the lad, does what seems to a non-conductor a persuasive job in his technical scenes. Weber's "Oberon" Overture is given without the audience close-ups so beloved of timorous directors, and there's a fine beginning with the child picking out Bach's fugue in C minor after having only just heard it for the first time on a record. Other excerpts include Beethoven's Eroica and the Polvetzian dances of Borodin's "Prince Igor," a finale from London's Queen Hall.

Much of the picture appears to have been made in Italy, though the performers are all British. The orchestras are those of the Royal Philharmonic, under David McCallum, and the San Carlo Theater of Naples, under Muir Mathieson. Once again the writers have missed the musical bus.

THE GAYETY reports that there'll be a special New Year's Eve performance of Edward Arnold in "Apple of His Eye" on that Sunday evening.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER'S program here the week of January 8 will include her three longest "monoplays." . . . Gruenther, Collins, Pace Are Flying Here

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who will be Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff in the Atlantic Pact army, flew from Paris today and left almost immediately for Washington.

When Gruenter's plane landed at Rhinemain Airport, he was greeted by Gen. Thomas T. Handy, United States commander in Europe; United States Army Secretary Frank Pace and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, United States Army Chief of Staff. The latter two accompanied him to Washington.

"CINDERELLA" will be acted this afternoon at 2 in the Hiser-Bethesda Theater by children of the Honeywell Foundation, proceeds going to the Suburban Hospital.

"SUNSET BOULEVARD" tops the National Board of Review selections of the year's "Ten Best," with another award to Gloria Swanson as the top actress of the year . . . Others on the list: "All About Eve," "The Asphalt Jungle," "The Men," "Edge of Doom," "Twelve O'Clock High," "Panic in the Streets," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "No Way Out" and "Stagefright" . . . Your humble servant will attempt to construct his own list on Sunday; 'twill be similar, but by no means identical . . . Top male acting award went to Alec Guiness, whose "Kind Hearts and Coronets" rated fourth among foreign films.

Truman Yule Message Sent to Armed Forces

President Truman is sending this holiday message to members of the Armed Forces:

"This Christmas finds many thousands of you abroad, far from loved ones and the close ties and relationships which add to the spirit and warmth of the holiday season.

"Wherever you serve, your response to heavy duties and responsibilities is proof that your mission, as representatives of a free nation, is to strengthen and to give hope to all who seek peace on earth.

"May the real spirit of Christmas abide with you, and may all of us, in concert with all free peoples, come nearer in the New Year to realizing man's ultimate dream of liberty, justice and freedom."

Radio Station Thanked for Tip By 'Uncle Joe'

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 20 (AP).—This week a Charleston radio station broadcast an announcement that said in case of atomic attack, the city's safest spot would be Fort Moultrie.

The fort, the broadcast said, will be equipped with medical supplies and will be able to treat persons who have been exposed to radiation.

Today the news director of the radio station received a postcard that read:

"Dear Sir: Thank you for your broadcast stating where the people of Charleston, S. C., will take refuge when I use "the bomb." A note has been made. Your country is very kind to keep me posted as it does of all its movements. I am sending you a case of vodka for the tip."

The postcard was signed: "Uncle Joe."

International Seizes Laborers' Local 74

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The International Hodcarriers and Building Laborers Union (AFL) yesterday seized control of Washington Local 74 and placed a supervisor in charge of union affairs.

The international union, with headquarters here, acted only a week after the House Committee on Un-American Activities had disclosed, through a series of public hearings, that a Communist cell of approximately half a dozen members had captured control of the 3000-member local more than two years ago.

Leo Nazdin, president of the Laborers' District Council, which serves as the collective bargaining agent of the seven laborers' locals, here, was placed in direct charge of Local 74 by orders of the parent international union.

Thomas, Sampler to Stay

Present officers of the local, including admitted former Communists such as Henry Thomas, president, and Thomas G. Sampler, secretary-treasurer, will not be removed, it was authoritatively learned, but will be permited to function under Nazdin's overall supervision. Nazdin's orders are, in effect, to make sure that all Communist influences are cleaned out of Local 74.

The international union had at first intended to place a "trustee" over the local after suspending all officers of No. 74. Instead the international took a milder step, permitting the officers to remain under "supervision", after representations by an aide of the House committee. The committee has been concerned by the outburst of reaction against Thomas, Sampler, and other self-confessed former Communists.

Punitive Action Opposed

The Construction Contractors Council, which negotiates for the employers, had announced it will halt its $10,000-a-week payments into health and welfare fund for the laborers unless Thomas is removed as a trustee. The AFL Building Trades Council, which includes most of the building craft locals, has expelled Thomas as a delegate.

Staffers of the House committee fear that punitive action against Sampler, who initiated the hearings, and Thomas, who cooperated in his testimony, will prevent other Communists, here and elsewhere, from volunteering as witnesses in the uncovering of Red undercover activities in this country.

A committee aide, it was learned, asked the international union not to oust Thomas and Sampler. Another aid is known to have officially requested that the Construction Contractors Council rescind its ban against Thomas as a welfare fund trustee. The council has taken the request under consideration.

Thomas Retrial Canceled

Last night, a few hours after formally being named supervisor of Local 74, Nazdin canceled a second projected rank-and-file trial of President Thomas.

In Night Talks

Rail Accord Reported Imminent

By the United Press

Government mediators put on last-minute pressure for a settlement of the rail dispute last night amid reports that negotiations will be adjourned for the holidays if no agreement is reached by today.

Negotiators indicated the end was in sight, perhaps during the night.

Representatives of the carriers and four operating railroad brotherhoods went back into session with Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman and the three-member National Mediation Board at 9 p. m. They already had conferred a total of nine hours today.

A union spokesman said they planned to stay "till daybreak" if necessary to crack the lengthy deadlock.

Other sources close to the talks confirmed settlement might come quickly on the basis of a three-year contract for the 500,000-odd dissident rail workers.

These were the terms suggested: A 23-cent hourly pay hike for the four brotherhoods' yardmen, 5 to 9 cents an hour for roadmen and a cost-of-living escalator clause providing a 1-cent-an-hour increase for each one-point rise in the Government's cost-of-living index.

Such a package for the four unions has been on the table since the switchmen accepted a similar offer in September. Their refusal to take the offer—proposed by Steelman as a compromise—resulted in the so-called "wildcat" strike last week of trainmen, who had been negotiating with the carriers for 21 months.

Virginia State Employes May Get Pay Raise

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—State employes may be given salary increases to help meet the rising costs of living—if the State can find a way to pay for such general raises.

Governor Battle today confirmed reports he is giving serious consideration to the problem, especially as it concerns employes in the lower pay brackets. He also made it plain he is not optimistic the necessary money can be discovered.

Sex Charges Against Father Are Dismissed

Sexual psychopath charges against Robert L. Brown, 28, 1243 10th st. nw., were dropped in District Court yesterday. Brown was charged under the sexual psycopath statute with taking indecent liberties with his 7-year-old daughter.

Judge Edward A. Tamm ruled that the child could not qualify as a witness. Dismissal of the charges was recommended by the Government.

The family will go to Colorado Springs, Colo., where the Catholic Daughters of America has found Mrs. Supe a job

Vepco Gives 6% Wage Hike To Employes

RICHMOND, Dec. 20 (AP).—Virginia Electric & Power Co. announced today a 6 percent wage increase for "practically all" its employes, effective the last payroll of this year.

The increase affects approximately 4500 employes, both union and nonunion, throughout the system, and will add about $500,000 to the annual payroll, the company said.

"We did this because of the possibility of wage freeze in the spring, which might catch the employes at a time when they might normally be entitled to some increase," said William E. Wood, executive president. "All contracts have been extended for another year."

Brodie S. Herndon, secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Utility Workers Union, said "both the offer and the acceptance were made in good faith without bargaining," but added: "The union recognizes the possibility that the voluntary wage freeze, or later compulsory one, might roll back wages before the effective date of the Vepco offer of an increase," he said.

MIT Given $5,250,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—The Alfred Sloan Foundation, Inc., has made a gift of $5,250,000 to establish a school of industrial management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, it was announced tonight.

YMCA, Like Average Citizen, In Need of Money

The YMCA's biggest worry isn't much different from the average citizen's, according to its annual statement issued yesterday.

General Secretary Randolph E. Myers reported to the Y's board of directors that his "biggest worry is how to raise sufficient funds to maintain the program of services."

He said the growth of the city's population and the increase of transient visitors had "trebled in recent years without any corresponding increase of income."

Myers pointed to four main achievements of the "Y" in 1950:

1. Provided dormitory accommodations for 1750 foreign visitors.
3. Planned an extensive celebration of the International "Y" centennial for 1951.
4. Raised one million dollars to meet the Y's needs.

Wu, Party Reach Prague En Route to Peiping

PRAGUE, Dec. 20 (AP).—Special envoy Wu Hsiu-chuan and his party arrived from London by plane tonight en route back to Peiping from New York, where they had presented the Chinese Communist case to the United Nations.

The eight-man delegation was greeted at the airport by Deputy Prime Minister Zdenek Fierlinger and Chinese and Russian diplomatic representatives. The delegation is expected to remain here a few days before flying to Moscow on their journey home.

Segregation Ban Upheld in Circuit Court

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—The Fifth United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that Birmingham, Ala., may not restrict its residental sections on the basis of race or color.

The Court of Appeals upheld a decision by Federal District Judge Clarence Mullins, who enjoined Birmingham from maintaining color and race restrictions in housing.

Judge Wayne G. Borah wrote the Circuit Court decision, with Judge Leon McCord concurring. Judge Robert L. Russell dissented.

A group of Negroes had attacked Birmingham zoning laws as unconstitutional. Borah said the Fourteenth Amendment prevents state interference with property rights, except by due process of law.

Property "is more than a mere thing which a person owns," Borah said.

It includes the right to live in the property for lawful purposes without discriminatory regulations, he added.

In dissenting, Russell said that "the finding of the city commission—that in the prevailing situation 'breaches of the peace, riots, destruction of property and life,' which neither the city nor other law enforcement officers could prevent, would follow attempts to violate zoning restrictions — was entitled to some consideration."

Langer Holds Up Mrs. Rosenberg's Senate Approval

By the United Press

Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.), blocked Senate confirmation of Anna M. Rosenberg as Assistant Defense Secretary yesterday and threatened to hold up all Presidential nominations until some North Dakotan gets some first class Federal job.

But the burly, gravel-voiced Senator relented long enough to permit the Senate to confirm Charles E. Wilson as Defense Mobilizer.

He also agreed to permit votes today on Mrs. Rosenberg and Stephen J. Springnam, appointed to a term as Federal Trade Commissioner.

Mrs. Rosenberg's confirmation is believed assured. The Senate Armed Services Committee turned up another "Anna Rosenberg" who acknowledged she had been at Communist front meetings the Defense Department appointee had been accused of attending.

Not since North Dakota was admitted to the Union in 1889, Langer shouted, has his State received a decent Federal job yet "one New York man after another" has pulled down juicy patronage plums.

NEW "WONDER DRUG"
Relieves Acid Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn . . . Fast

Enjoys Big Evening—Feels Like A Million Next Day

C. G. MILLER, Manhattan Beach, Calif. writes: "I used to suffer with heartburn after a big evening. Now I take two AMITONE tablets before going to bed, and wake up feeling like a million." Take this tip, feel good fast, feel fine longer.

AWARDED EXCLUSIVE PATENT BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

AMITONE alone contains the "automatic regulator," Glycine. Look for the U. S. Government Patent Number (2,429,596) on every package.

WORKS AS NO OTHER ANTACID CAN

Brings Longer-Lasting Comfort Thanks To Amazing Glycine In Exclusive Patented Formula

Start now to enjoy your food again, eat what you want without fear. For just two AMITONE tablets will bring relief such as you've never had before with any type of antacid medication!

AMITONE works on an entirely new principle . . . medically proven in 4 years of clinical work involving thousands of cases. A costly amino-acid known as Glycine is the secret of AMITONE'S faster, longer-lasting relief.

As used in AMITONE, Glycine acts as an "automatic regulator", keeping excess stomach acids in correct balance for long periods of time. Thus AMITONE not only gives you almost immediate relief, it actually aids your normal digestive process, protects you against a return of your distress, gas pains and heartburn!

Safe—You Can't Over-Alkalize

So revolutionary it has been awarded a U. S. Govt. Patent (2,429,596) the AMITONE formula is completely safe no matter how many tablets you take! AMITONE contains no salts, laxatives, baking soda, can't cause alkalosis or "acid rebound."

Melt On Tongue—Taste So Good

AMITONE tablets melt on your tongue, go to work immediately to bring soothing relief anytime, anywhere, day or night. And AMITONE tablets not only taste better than any antacid you've ever tried, they taste good—have a refreshing minty flavor!

Join the thousands who have already discovered this sensational guaranteed relief. Get AMITONE today and enjoy your food again!

How AMITONE Relieves And Regulates . . . No More "HURRY-WORRY STOMACH"

AMITONE'S patented formula brings relief two ways. 1st—it quickly neutralizes the excess acids—relieves the gassy pressure (see arrow). 2nd—the "automatic regulator", Glycine, then takes over and keeps digestive juices at "good digestion" level for prolonged comfort.

It's this unique action that stops the needless suffering of "Hurry Worry Stomach" which doctors say is the result of modern high pressure living, fast eating, worries.

Annexation Appeal Voted By Fairfax

Fairfax County's board of supervisors agreed yesterday to appeal a Fairfax Circuit Court annexation decree awarding Alexandria 7½ square miles of county territory.

The decision to appeal to the Virginia Supreme Court unanimously on the motion of Supervisor Maurice Fox. Attorneys for the county reported earlier they had studied evidence in the case and felt an appeal was "advisable."

An appeal by the county automatically will stay the final decree of the lower three-judge court, which made the annexation effective January 1. Under the decree, handed down Tuesday, the territory would be ceded to Alexandria at an approximate cost of $500,000.

At its meeting in Fairfax yesterday, the board accepted without action a communication from Walter Crain, former chairman of the county's government study commission.

Crain indorsed "in principle" the suggestion of David Lawrence, magazine publisher, that the county conduct a preliminary survey on means of changing the present government over to a county executive form, approved by voters in referendum last November 7. He disagreed, however, with some of Lawrence's suggestions as to how the survey should be conducted.

He said he would be "reluctant" to invite any government technicians to assist in the survey, as has been suggested by Lawrence.

"Government planners in this field are notorious for their tedious red tape and overstaffing," Crain commented.

Crain said he was "concerned" about the law which, under county executive government, would set up specific county departments but which "places in jeopardy" a number of functions and operations of the county government not provided for in the county executive form. His letter was received by the supervisors for further study.

The supervisors also heard, from Police Chief Carl McIntosh, that between 300 and 500 auxiliary policemen will be needed to carry out the county's defense program.

Jury Convicts Man Who Hit Wife With Skillet

William E. Murphy, 32, of 311 Virginia ave. se., yesterday was convicted by a District Court jury before Judge David A. Pine, on a charge of assulting his wife on the head with an iron skillet.

The wife, Ida Mae, testified the assault occurred November 10, when she would not prepare her husband's supper. Murphy said the skillet dropped.

Mothers Select Toys for Their Children

new Congress soon after it meets in January, it was learned today. This represents a big stepup from the 84 million dollars originally sought for the rest of the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The three-year program contemplated by the bill would cost the Federal Government 55 percent of the $3,100,000,000 total, and the rest would be put up by the States and cities. Shelters would be paid for on a 50-50 basis.

The House, by unanimous vote, wrote in a provision which would terminate the law on June 30, 1954,, unless Congress by concurrent resolution votes to end it earlier. It also voted to require that the civil defense boss—former Florida Governor Millard F. Caldwell—must certify in writing that he has evaluated FBI reports on each prospective employe of the agency.

Voted down were amendments to establish a volunteer "home defense army" of sportsmen who possess guns and to help finance underground parking garages which could double as shelters. The Senate Armed Services Committee's version of the bill calls for loans for such purposes.

The Senate is expected to take up the measure before Christmas, probably on Friday.

Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) said the Senate Republican Policy Committee decided at a meeting late yesterday to seek a number of changes in the Administration bill. But he emphasized that GOP leaders will not oppose the "basic idea" of the legislation.

Taft said committee members felt generally that the bill needs more time for study and has "not been well thought out by the Army."

Silver Spring Blood Donors Give 165 Pints

The Christmas Spirit, or war losses in Korea, or maybe just better organization was credited with a surge in blood donations in Silver Spring, Md., yesterday.

Donors gave 168 pints, compared to 23 pints on the last donation days in July.

"This is my Christmas present to the boys in Korea," a Red Cross aide reported one donor said as he rolled up his sleeve.

"This proves," said another collector, "that the people in this country are conscious of the needs in the present emergency, despite the quoted skepticism you hear from political leaders."

A third representative said the bloodmobile visit was much better organized than the last one. "The Silver Spring businessmen got behind and pushed this one in advance," he noted.

Yesterday's donations were largely from "industrial groups," according to the collectors.

Teachers' Sick Leave Bill Signed By President

President Truman yesterday signed the bill revising the District public school teachers' sick leave law.

It would eliminate the presnt charging of holidays, and weekends, against sick leave allowances. Sick leave would be charged only for absence on normal working days.

The bill would also refund a total of $2362.50 to 160 teachers who hired substitutes between July 1, 1949 and October 13, 1949. The law giving them paid sick leave benefits, was signed last October 13, and took effect retroactively to July 1, but made no provision for retroactive payments at the time.

Study Urges Rule Reform In Rockville

Modernization of Rockville's charter was urged yesterday in a survey of the town's governmental functions made by the Bureau of Public Administration, University of Maryland.

The charter should be rewritten and many obsolete sections deleted, the report states.

It also urges a charter giving more home rule and a town manager, with closer liaison between the town and the county purchasing office. The town now purchases through bids, the report noted, but tends to favor local merchants too much. Budget making procedures should be formalized by the charter and by ordinance, the report says, contending that under present arrangements, the budget is binding upon no one.

Pointing out that the present mayor and council are an efficient administration, the report suggests that a merit system be provided because some future administration might become tangled in politics.

A detailed investigation should be made of what would be a fair payment from Montgomery County in lieu of taxes on the county property within the town limits, the report said. It also suggests need for a city hall building big enough to serve as a community meeting place and indoor recreation center.

The study was made by Christian L. Larsen and Richard D. Andrews of the bureau staff at the request of the town council. It was under the joint sponsorship of the bureau and the Maryland Municipal League, of which Larsen is executive secretary.

VA Fires Broadside At GI Radio School

The Veterans' Administration struck back yesterday at the Washington Radio School which has charged the VA with "ruinous" practices in negotiating school contracts for training GIs.

Frank M. Page, assistant to the director of training at the VA, told the special House Committee Investigating Veterans' Education that the Capitol Radio Engineering Institute of Washington:

1. Paid salaries to some school officials which were too high from the Government's viewpoint. The VA, he said, sets a limit of $10,000 for officials of profit-making schools.

2. Figures depreciation costs on a "faulty" basis.

3. Disagreed with VA on the number of student hours taught.

Chairman Olin Teague (D., Tex.) ripped into the VA, saying he had received enough complaints about its methods of negotiating contracts with schools to convince him "there is something wrong somewhere."

Representative Alvin Weichel (R., Ohio) said "if everyone—the VA and the schools—are sincere about presenting cost of operation figures there would be none of this trouble."

"That's a pretty broad statement, Mr. Congressman, retorted Morris Hariton, accountant who had handled some books for the local radio school.

"I know it is," said Weichel.

School Bond Issue Urged For Arlington

A committee of the Arlington Democratic Council yesterday urged "immediate consideration" of a new county school bond issue—and said the Arlington School Board should set the amount.

It was the first Democratic reaction to the November 7 election defeat of a $7,450,000 school construction bond issue proposed by the Arlington School Board.

A recent Republican committee report recommended a $3,515,000 school bond issue.

The Democratic council's school committee said the school board should determine school need, "the priority of need and the amount to be provided," subject to "due consideration for public opinion."

According to the 5-man Democratic group, increasing scarcity of materials makes "immediate consideration . . . of a suitable bond issue" necessary.

Members of the committee are Joseph J. Mahoney, jr., chairman; Marian Sumner, Howard Massey, Leo Urbanske, and Harrison Mann.

County Completes Census For U. S. School Aid

Nearly half of Arlington County's 15,130 public school pupils are the children of persons who were drawn to the Washington area since 1939 to work for the Federal Government.

This was announced yesterday by the county school department after a survey of parent occupations.

The results will be used in Arlington County's formal application for a share in $69,500,000 of Federal school aid to communities in which Federal activity has swelled the schools.

Out of the total estimated average daily attendance of 15,130 pupils, 7371 have parents who entered Federal service here since the 1939 defense program began.

Arlington is applying for its share of one fund of $46,500,000 to aid school construction and one of 23 million dollars to help pay for school operation in areas crowded with Federal workers.

Other figures gathered for the Federal application: Arlington has good classrooms for 11,217 pupils; 1996 students attending on half-day sessions; 1181 in rented classrooms in churches and housing units, and 812 in converted playrooms.

In Fairfax, the county school board already has authorized the school superintendent to apply for Federal aid on the basis of population figures previously compiled by school officials. The request was approved after a new court suit temporarily entangled a $10,500,000 school bond issue which, according to school officials, would have taken care of existing needs.

Ministers Reject Liquor Vote Idea

The Arlington Ministerial Association has defeated a motion—suggested by the county Women's Christian Temperance Union—for a county referendum to end sale of alcoholic beverages in Arlington.

Association members voted down the motion Tuesday night by a two-thirds margin after hearing the Rev. George Tittmann, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, describe the proposal as politically "hopeless." The Rev. Mr. Tittmann said Virginia's liquor control program "is about the best you can get in the country," and said he doubted such an isssue was the legitimate concern of the association.

Petain, Vichy Leader, May Be Released

PARIS, Dec. 20 (U.P.)—An informed source said today that Marshall Henri Philippe Petain, who headed the Vichy French regime during World War II, might be freed from prison "within a few days."

The report followed a denial by the French High Court of an appeal to grant Petain a new trial. The 94-year-old "Hero of Verdun" in World War I has been imprisoned on Ile D'Yeu since he was convicted of treason shortly after the war ended.

Jury Finds VA Official Innocent on Sex Count

Echinoderm: Star Fish to You

The Washington Post

. . . After 42 years, Austin H. Clark abandons sea creatures

By John Gregory
Post Reporter

The sign on the door reveals little. It says only: Austin Hobart Clark, Echinoderms.

Inside one finds a white-haired man, who looks like Herbert Hoover, standing in the midst of a clutter of books, papers, boxes of star fish and liquid-filled vessels containing things with long tentacles like strands of spaghetti.

Clark has been curator of echinoderms at the United States National Museum since 1920. He retires on December 31 after 42 years of studying sea creatures for the museum.

"The things in the bottles are crinoids. They are ocean living animals that look like plants, he quickly explained.

"The papers and things are rapidly eroding into the trash basket. There has been much more." He explained that it was scientifically arranged clutter from which he can always find what he needs.

Latest Monograph Shown

He quickly found a large volume. "This is my latest monograph on echinoderms," he said, adding that he had named and classified hundreds of echinoderms—sea urchins and the like—from the bottoms of all the seas between Australia and Siberia.

Clark, 70, was born in Wellesley, Mass. He was graduated from Harvard College in 1903. "They didn't like biology there at that time," he said. "Embryology and histology were the things, but I liked my animals whole. Wasn't very popular, but I stuck to it."

In 1906 he joined the Bureau of Fisheries and went on a year-long expedition in the north Pacific aboard a fishery steamer. "We made the first extensive list of birds in Korea," he said.

Aside from investigation in Europe, Clark has been at the museum since 1908, studying, naming and classifying echinoderms sent him by colleagues all over the world.

Northing for Red Regime

"I once classified some echinoderms from northern Russia. The study was published in Russian but that was Czarist Russia. Haven't done anything for the new regime," he said.

With the impending publication of a Hebrew encyclopedia in Jerusalem, Clark's works will have appeared in seven languages.

He believes in making his spare time productive. One of the productive projects has been a 16-year- study of Virginia's butterflies. "I've covered every county at least twice. Ran into a couple of stills but got out all right, thanks to Mrs. Clark. Mountaineers are very chivalrous to women."

Wife Shares Interest

His wife, Leila Gay Clark, librarian at the Smithsonian Institution shares the interest in butterflies.

However, their two grown sons, Austin and Hugh, have taken to other fields. "They did the leg work for a book I wrote on Washington's butterflies and it apparently killed their professional interest in biology," he said.

In his seven-year-old grandson, though, there is much potential, Clark said. "He is terrifically interested in butterflies."

Clark's plans for the future are simple. "The same thing I've been doing. Don't want to get fossilized. I've always left the fossils to the boys upstairs," he said, pointing to the second-floor quarters of the geologists and paleontologists.

The World's Greatest Christmas Stories

How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Bar

Part I

This is a three-part story from "The World's Greatest Christmas Stories," a new anthology edited by Eric Posselt.

Today's story is by Bret Harte (1839-1902), American author who was born in Albany, N. Y., and won fame in California as writer of such western tales as "The Luck of Roaring Camp."

By Bret Harte

IT had been raining in the valley of the Sacramento. The North Fork had overflowed its banks, and Rattlesnake Creek was impassable. The few boulders that had marked the summer ford at Simpson's Crossing were obliterated by a vast sheet of water stretching to the foothills.

The up-stage was stopped at Granger's; the last mail had been abandoned in the tules, the rider swimming for his life. "An area," remarked the Sierra Avalanche, with pensive local pride, "as large as the State of Massachusetts is now under water."

Nor was the weather any better in the foothills. The mud lay deep on the mountain road; wagons that neither physical force nor moral objurgation could move from the evil ways into which they had fallen encumbered the track, and the way to Simpson's Bar was indicated by broken-down teams and hard swearing.

And further on, cut off and inaccessible, rained upon and bedraggled, smitten by high winds and threatened by high water, Simpson's Bar, on the Eve of Christmas Day, 1862, clung like a swallow's nest to the rocky entablature and splintered capitals of Table Mountain, and shook in the blast.

AS NIGHT shut down on the settlement, a few lights gleamed through the mist from the windows of cabins on either side of the highway, now crossed and gullied by lawless streams and swept by marauding winds.

Happily most of the population were gathered at Thompson's store, clustered around a red-hot stove, at which they silently spat in some accepted sense of social communion that perhaps rendered conversation unnecessary. Indeed, most methods of diversion had long since been exhausted on Simpson's Bar; high water had suspended the regular occupations on gulch and on river, and a consequent lack of money and whisky had taken the zest from the most illegitimate recreation.

Even Mr. Hamlin was fain to leave the Bar with $50 in his pocket—the only amount actually realized of the large sums won by him in the successful exercise of his arduous profession.

"Ef I was asked," he remarked somewhat later—"ef I was asked to pint out a purty little village where a retired sport as didn't care for money could exercise hisself, frequent and lively, I'd say Simpson's Bar; but for a young man with a large family depending on his exertions, it don't pay." As Mr. Hamlin's family consisted mainly of female adults, this remark is quoted rather to show the breadth of his humor than the exact extent of his responsibilities.

Howbeit, the unconscious objects of this satire sat that evening in the listless apathy begotten of idleness and lack of excitement. Even the sudden splashing of hoofs before the door did not arouse them. Dick Bullen alone paused in the act of scraping out his pipe, and lifted his head, but no other one of the group indicated any interest in, or recognition of, the man who entered.

It was a figure familiar enough to the company, and known in Simpson's Bar as "The Old Man." A man of perhaps 50 years; grizzled and scant of hair, but still fresh and youthful of complexion. A face full of ready but not very powerful sympathy, with a chameleon-like aptitude for taking on the shade and color of contiguous moods and feelings. He had evidently just left some hilarious companions, and did not at first notice the gravity of the group, but clapped the shoulder the nearest man jocularly, and threw himself into a vacant chair.

"Jest heard the best thing out, boys! Ye know Smiley, over yar—Jim Smiley—funniest man in the Bar? Well, Jim was jest telling the richest yarn about . . ."

"Smiley's a . . . fool," interrupted a gloomy voice.

"A particular . . . skunk," added another in sepulchral accents.

A silence followed these positive statements. The Old Man glanced quickly around the group. Then his face slowly changed. "That's so," he said reflectively, after a pause, "certainly sort of a skunk and suthin' of a fool. In course." He was silent for a moment, as in painful contemplation of the unsavoriness and folly of the unpopular Smiley. "Dismal weather, ain't it?" he added, now fully embarked on the current of prevailing sentiment. "Mighty rough papers on the boys, and no show for money this season. And tomorrow's Christmas."

THERE was a movement among the men at this announcement, but whether of satisfaction or disgust was not plain. "Yes," continued the Old Man in the lugubrious tone he had, within the last few moments, unconsciously adopted . . . "yes, Christmas, and tonight's Christmas Eve.

"Ye see, boys, I kinder thought—that is, I sorter had an idee, jest passin' like, you know—that maybe ye'd all like to come over to my house tonight and have a sort of tear round. But I suppose, now, you wouldn't? Don't feel like it, maybe?" he added with anxious sympathy, peering into the faces of his companions.

"Well, I don't know," responded Tom Flynn with some cheerfulness. "Perhaps we may. But how about your wife, Old Man? What does she say to it?"

The Old Man hesitated. His conjugal experience had not been a happy one, and the fact was known to Simpson's Bar. His first wife, a delicate, pretty little woman, had suffered keenly and secretly from the jealous suspicions of her husband, until one day he invited the whole Bar to his house to expose her infidelity. On arriving, the party found the shy, petite creature quietly engaged in her household duties, and retired abashed and discomfited.

But the sensitive woman did not easily recover from the shock of this extraordinary outrage. It was with difficulty she regained her equanimity sufficiently to release her love from the closet in which he was concealed, and escaped with him. She left a boy of three years to comfort her bereaved husband. The Old Man's present wife had been his cook. She was large, loyal, and aggressive.

Before he could reply, Joe Dimmick suggested with great directness that it was the "Old Man's house," and that, invoking the Divine Power, if the case were his own, he would invite whom he pleased, even if in so doing he imperiled his salvation. The Powers of Evil, he further remarked, should contend against him vainly. All this delivered with a terseness and vigor lost in this necessary translation.

"In course. Certainly. Thet's it," said the Old Man with a sympathetic frown. "Thar's no trouble about thet. It's my own house, built every stick on it myself. Don't you be afeard o' her boys. She may cut up a trifle rough — ez wimmin do — but she'll come round." Secretly the Old Man trusted to the exaltation of liquor and the power of courageous example to sustain him in such an emergency.

AS YET, Dick Bullen, the oracle and leader of Simpson's Bar, had not spoken. He now took his pipe from his lips. "Old Man, how's that yer Johnny gettin' on? Seems to me he didn't look so peart last time I seed him on the bluff heavin' rocks at Chinamen. Didn't seem to take much interest in it. Thar was a gang of 'em by yar yesterday—drowned out up the river—and I kinder thought o' Johnny, and how he'd miss 'em! Maybe now, we'd be in the way ef he was sick?"

The father, evidently touched not only by this pathetic picture of Johnny's deprivation, but by the considerate delicacy of the speaker, hastened to assure him that Johnny was better, and that a "little fun might 'liven him up."

Whereupon Dick rose, shook himself, and saying, "I'm ready. Lead the way, Old Man: here goes," himself led the way with a leap, a characteristic howl, and darted out into the night. As he passed through the outer room he caught up a blazing brand from the hearth. The action was repeated by the rest of the party, closely following and elbowing each other, and before the proprietor of Thompson's grocery was aware of the intention of his guests, the room was deserted.

The night was pitchy dark. In the first gust of wind their temporary torches were extinguished, and only the red brands dancing and flitting in the gloom like drunken will-o'-wisps indicated their whereabouts. Their way led up Pine-Tree Canon, at the head of which a broad, low, bark-thatched cabin burrowed in the mountain-side. It was the home of the Old Man, and the entrance to the tunnel in which he worked when he worked at all. Here the crowd paused for a moment, out of delicate deference to their host, who came up panting in the rear.

"P'r'aps ye'd better hold on a second out yer, whilst I go in and see that things is all right," said the Old Man, with an indifference he was far from feeling. The suggestion was graciously accepted, the door opened and closed on the host, and the crowd, leaning their backs against the wall and cowering under the eaves, waited and listened.

For a few moments there was no sound but the dripping of water from the eaves, and the stir and rustle of wrestling boughs above them. Then the men became uneasy, and whispered suggestions and suspicion passed from the one to the other.

"Reckon she's caved in his head the first lick!" "Decoyed him inter the tunnel and barred him up, likely." "Got him down and sittin' on him." "Prob'ly biling suthin' to heave on us. stand clear the door, boys!" For just then the latch clicked, the door slowly opened, and a voice said, "Come in out o' the wet."

The voice was neither that of the Old Man nor of his wife. It was the voice of a small boy, its weak treble broken by that preternatural hoarseness which only vagabondage and the habit of premature selfassertion can give.

IT WAS the face of a small boy that looked up at theirs—a face that might have been pretty, and even refined, but it was darkened by evil knowledge from within, and dirt and hard experience from without. He had a blanket around his shoulders, and had evidently just risen from his bed.

"Come in," he repeated, "and don't make no noise. The Old Man's in there talking to mar," he continued, pointing to an adjacent room which seemed to be a kitchen, from which the Old Man's voice came in deprecating accents. "Let me be," he added querulously, to Dick Bullen, who had caught him up, blanket and all, and was affecting to toss him into the fire, "let go o' me, you d . . . d old fool, d' ye hear?"

Thus adjured, Dick Bullen lowered Johnny to the ground with a smothered laugh, while the men, entering quietly, ranged themselves around a long table of rough boards, which occupied the center of the room. Johnny then gravely proceeded to a cupboard and brought out several articles, which he deposited on the table. "Thar's whisky. And crackers. And red herons. And cheese."

He took a bite of the latter on his way to the table. "And sugar." He scooped up a mouthful en route with a small and very dirty hand. "And terbacker. Thar's dried appils too on the shelf, but I don't admire 'em. Appils is swellin." "Thar," he concluded, "Now wade in, and don't be afeard. I don't mind the old woman. She don't belong to me. S'long."

He had stepped to the threshold of a small room, scarcely larger than a closet, partitioned off from the main apartment, and holding in its dim recess a small bed. He stood there a moment looking at the company, his bare feet peeping from the blanket, and nodded.

"Hello, Johnny! You ain't goin' to turn in agin, are ye?" said Dick.

"Yes, I are," responded Johnny decidedly.

"Why, wot's up, old fellow?"

"I'm sick."

"How sick?"

"I've got a fevier. And childblains. And roomatiz," returned Johnny, and vanished within. After a moment's pause, he added in the dark, apparently from under the bedclothes—"And biles!"

25 Students Hurt In Collapse of Human Yule Tree

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 20 (U.P.). Twenty-five pupils at nearby Susquehanna High School were injured yesterday when their "human Christmas tree" collapsed as they climbed to their places.

None was hurt seriously, although six pupils were taken to a hospital for treatment. Some 60 other pupils escaped injury in the mishap.

The scaffolding on the "human Christmas tree" collapsed as the pupils climbed to their positions with pine branches in their hands.

School Secretary Dors Stintzcum said the accident occurred after most of the pupils had climbed the 35-foot high scaffolding, shaped like a Christmas tree, to have their pictures taken.

Husband Follows Way Of Wife and Children

ENCINO, Calif., Dec. 19 (U.P.).—Grief-stricken Raymond Bennett, 36, committed suicide in the same station wagon and in the same manner in which his common-law wife killed herself and her four children, police reported today.

The body was found slumped over in the vehicle, named the "Brat Wagon," six days after Mrs. Margaret Howney, 27, killed herself and her four young children by running a vacuum-cleaner hose from the car's exhaust pipe through a rear window.

King Does Foxtrot With Palace Maid

LONDON, Dec. 20 (AP).—A housemaid danced with the King at Buckingham Palace last night. It was the annual royal household servants ball.

King George VI and Queen Elizabeth dropped in on the party. His Majesty singled out Miss Isabel Ross, maid in Princess Margaret's quarters in the palace, and they did a neat foxtrot around the floor.

Sonny Boy West Kayoed, Undergoes Brain Surgery

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Blue Plate Special:

ANY DAY NOW the professional survey people will rush into print on behalf of the television networks to proclaim again that TV is not the big bogey man of college football attendance. They will flourish the latest figures that show a drop of only 3.5 percent in paid customers despite the telecasting of last season.

They'll have to be artful, though, to gloss over the true breakdown which sort of indicates that TV was a colossal pain in the neck to graduate managers who watch the football revenues of their schools.

POVICH

Only in Texas were the crowds better to any great extent last season, and it was a whopping 11 percent increase. But TV in that State is sparse, with only five stations telecasting and unable to blanket more than a small portion of Texas. And besides, only Texas games that are a certain sell-out go video.

In the East and the Far West which are dense with video sets, it was a different story. Eastern colleges were hurting with a 10 percent drop in crowds. In the Far West it was a 12 percent decline. Hit the hardest were the smaller schools which had to compete with the interest in major games on video. They have reason to hate that coaxial cable.

FOR WINNING ONLY four Pacific Coast Conference titles in his nine years as hear coach at the University of Southern California, Jess Cravath gets fired. He has reason to think he was working for the wrong school.

At the end of a season in which he lost six games, won only three with his Navy team, Coach Eddie Erdelatz gets a new five-year contract at a substantial pay hike. He was working for the right school. The difference of course is that Erdelatz won the big game—against Army.

Out at Detroit, Bo McMillin gets fired as coach of the Lions of the NFL and has reason to rue the day that the Lions signed Doak Walker and Leon Hart, the two all-Americans from SMU and Notre Dame. They played great football for him, but cost him his job. An optimistic board of directors of the Detroit team expected McMillin to win the divisional title with that pair. He didn't, and got the axe.

HERE IT IS, 48 hours without a mention of Happy Chandler in this pillar so to keep the topic alive we mention it quick—Happy Chandler.

Chandler's enemies are trying to extract some satisfaction out out of the announcement by the Chicago White Sox that they would not change their ballot in the next vote on the Commissionership. Young Charley Comiskey, after a session with his mother who is boss of the Comiskey clan now, says his vote will stick.

He adds, though, that nobody else actually knows how he voted in the secret balloting at St. Petersburg, although it was reported he was agin Chandler. Thus any switch he might choose to make in the next ballot will also be his own secret.

Mrs. Comiskey had it clear after the St. Petersburg voting that she was a Chandler supporter. If the White Sox come up with a pro-Chandler vote at the next meeting, it would be no loss of face for young Comiskey who could stoutly maintain then that he had voted for Chandler in the first place.

BUDDY O'GRADY, Georgetown's basketball coach, did the sporting thing the the other night when he booked American University without the customary stipulation from G. U. that American discard its zone defense.

In previous years, Elmer Ripley, O'Grady's predecessor, would play American only on condition that Coach Staff Cassell leave his team's zone defense in the dressing room. Ripley maintained it made for a dull game. Others maintained Ripley was scared to play against it.

O'Grady told A. U. it could use "any defense you can think up," and then watched his Hoyas beat Cassell's team, 65-62, in a game that was neither dull nor without glory for both teams.

American U. is still hungering to play George Washington and Maryland which have snubbed the Eagles for most of the last 10 years in refusing to schedule them. It can hardly be on an eligibility basis since A. U. is freely scheduled by Georgetown and Navy. Perhaps its because GW and Maryland are plain scared of A. U.'s good basketball teams.

D. C. Fighter On Table 3 Hours After Bassett Bout

NEW YORK (Thursday), Dec. 21.—Sonny Boy West, highly regarded 21-year-old Washington lightweight, underwent an emergency brain operation at St. Clare's Hospital early this morning and was in "very critical" condition after being knocked out by Percy Bassett in 29 seconds of the seventh round of the St. Nicholas windup last night.

Sonny Boy's Father Flies to New York

Sonny Boy West's father, Frank West, 633 L st. se., flew to New York early today while the brain operation on his son still was in progress.

Dr. James Daniels, brain specialist, performed the delicate surgery and West still was on the operating table after more than three hours. A blood clot was indicated.

"It looks bad," Dr. Vincent Nardiello, New York Boxing Commission physician, said grimly with West still unconscious an hour after the fight.

Doctor Nardiello, assisting in the operation told the Washington Post he expected to spend the night at the hospital.

Hit Head on Floor

West went down hard and seemed to hit his head on the ring floor as he smacked the canvas after Bassett finished him with a right to the head.

In the ring, Dr. Nardiello administered a stimulant, an injection of caffeine sodium benzoate. He couldn't revive him and ordered him removed to the hospital on a stretcher.

A small crowd of only 895 paying $1567 witnessed the bout but thousands were watching on television. It was seen in Washington over Station WTOP-TV.

The tragic aftermath of tonight's bout recalled the death of Lavern Roach in the same ring last February 23 after being 'knocked out by Brooklyn's Georgie Small.

According to Ring magazine, there have been eight boxing deaths in 1950 throughout the world, amateur and pro. Only two were in the United States. The first was Roach and the second occurred December 7 at Merced, Calif., when featherweight Samuel (Johnny) Lopez of Richmond, Calif., died after being knocked out by Joe Madrid of Stockton, Calif. Last year there were 18 ring deaths.

West, who by-passed amateur bouts and started as a full-fledged pro at 17, quickly vaulted into fistic prominence. Within 18 months, the NBA had him ranked the sixth leading lightweight.

Champ KO'd Him

He annexed the District lightweight title soon after entering the ring. West entered tonight's windup with a record of 45 victories in 53 fights and one draw.

Bassett, 22, noted as a hard slugger, was registering his forty-seventh win in 49 pro starts. Thirty of those were scored on knockouts.

Around Washington, West was called the best fighter to come along in a decade and was compared favorably with famed Middleweight George Abrams.

In February of this year, it was felt that West was sent in "over his head" against Lightweight Champ Ike Williams. Williams chopped him down with an eighth-round knockout in that nontitle bout in Madison Square Garden.

West was a hasty sub for Bernie Docusen and took a bad beating around the head from Williams.

Detroit Names Parker to McMillin Job

By Charles C. Cain

DETROIT, Dec. 20 (AP).—Raymond (Buddy) Parker, who started his National Football League career as a player with the Detroit Lions in 1935, was named today as head coach of the Detroit team.

The 37-year-old Texan was elevated from his backfield coach's job with the Lions to succeed Alvin "Bo" McMillin, who resigned Tuesday as head coach and general manager.

The Lions' front office announced that End Coach George Wilson and Line Coach Aldo Forte, who rounded out the Lions' staff last season, also signed one-year contracts today.

W. Nicholas Kerbawy, publicity director and assistant to former General Manager McMillin, was named business manager under the new setup.

Lions' President Edwin Anderson said "we confirmed Parker's appointment in a telephone conversation with him at his home in Kemp, Tex., today. He was signed for one year."

Salary terms were not disclosed, but a usually reliable source said that Parker signed for considerably less than the $30,000 a year McMillin was getting.

McMillin, who still had two years left on his five-year contract when he resigned, will be paid the full $60,000 due him, the source said.

Parker came to the Lions as backfield coach last season after 13 years service with the Chicago Cardinals—first as a player and then as head coach.

He was co-coach of the Cardinals in 1949 along with Phil Handler, but resigned after the club ended the year with a 5-6-1 record.

W. Virginia's Workman Scores 44

Special Dispatch to The Post

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 20.—Mark Workman, 6-foot, 11-inch junior, went on a 44 point scoring splurge here tonight as he led West Virginia to a 95-66 victory over George Washington University.

Workman's performance was called a Southern Conference scoring record pending a search into the record books. Chet Giermak of William and Mary scored 38 against G. W. in the 1949 Conference tournament.

Playing all but the last minute and 34 seconds when he fouled out, Workman shattered his own single game scoring record of 39, set only 3 weeks ago against West Virginia's Wesleyan.

It was West Virginia's sixth straight victory this season, four of them against Conference opponents.

The Colonials were a beaten ball club after the first 15 minutes when they lost their top scorer, Art Cerra, who suffered a twisted ankle in a scramble under the basket. G. W. trailed by only 30-26 at the time, but the half found the visitors behind at 43-42, and they never recovered. Early in the second round, West Virginia stretched its lead to 54-35.

Risen Scores 23 in 94-76 Rochester Win

By Herb Heft

Post Reporter

Rochester put its Royal whammy on Washington again last night and walloped the Caps for the twelfth straight time since 1948 as only 715 customers looked on at Uline Arena. The score this time was, 94-76.

The Caps cut a 15-point deficit down to 5 points with four minutes left, but the strain was too great. The Royals, running wild past Washington's backcourt press, outscored the Caps, 14-1, in the last three minutes to lock things up.

Arnie Risen, 6-foot, 9-inch former Ohio State All-America, led the Royals with 23 points despite the defensive efforts of Ed Mikan, Chick Halbert and Ed Bartels.

Risen also was fine under the backboards, and in the late minutes when the Caps were threatening to catch up, he broke up three passes into the Caps' pivot slot, and started the Royals on their pull-away spurt.

Schnittker Held to 3 Points

Risen had an enthusiastic helper in Bill Calhoun, 6-foot, 4-inch guard whose preprofessional experience was limited to A. A. U. teams in San Francisco.

Calhoun scored 19 points, eight of them in the third quarter, and he did a masterful job of holding the Caps' star, Dick Schnittker, to a measly field goal and free throw. That, perhaps, is what hurt Washington most.

Bill Sharman was Washington's top scorer with 15 points. He was followed by Mikan who scored 13 although he played barely half of the game.

Mikan was a hustling player last night, trying desperately to show up his mates of only three weeks ago, before he was sold to the Caps.

Coach Bones McKinney gave Ed a chance, starting him opposite Risen, who beat him out of the center job at Rochester, and Ed's shooting was fine. He scord 4 field goals from the pivot slot in the first quarter, but he let Risen scored 11 in the first quarter.

Caps Run Out of Gas

Washington led at that point, 24-18. Then Mikan was taken out for a rest and Halbert sent in. By the time Mikan returned with 2 minutes left before the half, Rochester had taken control, 44-39, and Washington never did catch up.

Mikan played only briefly afterward. It was, 46-41, at intermission, and 63-54 at the end of a third period which saw Washington missing four fifths of its shots.

Rochester opened it up to 76-61 midway in the fourth quarter when Alan Sawyer, with four side court set shots, led a Cap rally that cut the deficit to 80-75. That's when the Caps ran out of gas.

It was the seventeenth loss against eight victories for Washington, the Eastern Division's cellar team. Rochester, third in the Western bracket, has 13 wins (five over Washington) and 10 losses.

TV Drama a Tragedy For West's Family

Having a television set has its drawbacks. That's what the grief-stricken family of Sonny Boy West learned here last night.

Oldest of seven children, the fighter critically injured after being kayoed by Percy Bassett, had a sizeable TV rooting section of relatives at the family home, 633 L st. se. It included his parents and grandparents.

His 16-year-old sister, Norma, reported that they all felt good when "Alfred" won the first two rounds. She admitted their joy was short-lived when Bassett started to belt West.

But the real drama, and the real tragedy, in the living room occurred when their Sonny Boy went down—hard. There was no crying, Norma related, after all they just felt bad that he had been knocked out.

Then Dr. Vincent Nardiello stepped into the ring and gloom over Sonny Boy's losing a fight quickly became concern over his condition.

Only for fleeting seconds did the TV camera focus on the prostrate fighter. It went away all too quickly for the West family. That's when panic set in and the terrifying vigil.

The youthful stricken fighter has a 19-year old wife, Jessie, and a 14-month-old daughter, Sharon. They were spared the living room scene.

Sonny Boy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank West, jr. His father is a plumber. Grandfather Frank West, sr., who lives with his wife, Effie, next door at 635 L st., is retired Navy Yard worker.

West's brothers and sisters include Robert, 18; Norma, 16; Ardell, 11; Dorothy, 9; Frank, III, 4, and Carlton, 1.

A distraught aunt said West went to Van Ness grammar school and Randall Junior High.

"He's a such a good boy," she said, "he wouldn't drink or smoke. All he wanted to do was be a good fighter."

'Hawks Win for Leaving Coach

MOLINE, Ill., Dec. 20 (AP).—The Tri-City Blackhawks gave their temporary coach Johnny Logan a send-off tonight with a 86-83 victory over Syracuse in a National Basketball Association game.

Logan, who took over the coaching job five days ago, has received orders to report as an Army reserve officer December 27. The 'Hawks have not yet announced a replacement for him.

Army Athlete Killed in Korea

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20 (AP).—Capt. Arthur H. Truxes, jr., West Point distance runner in 1944 and 1945, was reported killed in action in Korea today.

Truxes, killed November 30, is the third West Pointer to lose his life in Korea. The others were Lieut. Tom Lombardo of St. Louis and Lieut. John G. Trent of Memphis, both former Army football captains.

Truxes, from this city, received orders last June to return to this country in August to train for the 1952 Olympic pentathlon. Instead he requested transfer from Tokyo to Korea.

At West Point, he captained the cross-country team for two years; won the 2-mile event in the Penn Relays in 1944 and twice won the cross-country at Van Cortlandt Park before his graduation in 1945.

Players Fight as Baltimore Wins

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Baltimore Bullets defeated the Minneapolis Lakers, 91-84, tonight in a National Basketball Association contest enlivened by a first half fiist fight.

The referee threw out Red Rocha of Baltimore and Bob Harrison of Minneapolis soon after the contest started, when they started swinging at each other in the middle of the court.

Big George Mikan of Minneapolis again was the big show with an output of 39 points.

Complains to Commissioner Young

Air Force Colonel Fears Laverne Baxter's 'Judo Tactics' May Kill Some Wrestler Here

By Jack Walsh

Post Reporter

YES, VIRGINIA, someone does care what happens to big, bad wrestlers.

In fact, Col. Hugo J. Odenthal, retired Air Force officer of 703 N. Jackson st., Arlington, is so concerned about the possibility of a fatality on the mat he wants the District government to take action.

The serious-minded colonel drew a prompt reply from Commissioner John Russel Young. Mr. Young even may make a move, too. Personally, though, the commissioner said he questions whether "the activity of wrestling as practiced today in the professional ring can be properly classified as sport."

Said the colonel:

"What really has me upset, though, is the introduction of choking and judo holds. No fooling, people can get killed carelessly indulging in those sorts of things."

In his letter to Commissioner Young, Colonel Odenthal was incensed particularly by the actions of a "character named Laverne Baxter." He wrote, "Baxter and his partner were engaged in an Australian tag match which for sheer savagery was, in my judgment, a new low in the art of wrestling or for any other sport."

Colonel Odenthal says he goes to Turner's Arena here "once in a while." Mainly, he sees his wrestling on his television set.

Without knowing the above, a Turner's spokesman said, "All our squawks come from 'freebies.' These people who watch wrestling on TV don't get the right slant. You know why? They get all choked up, that's why. See, they can't yell to relieve their feelings when they're home. They don't have any outlet.

"On the other hand, our customers forget their troubles like the boss and a nagging wife and relax by yelling at those monsters we turn loose."

If the retired Air Force officer's sensibilities have been affected, those of Mrs. Florence Turner, only lady wrestling promoter in the country, have not.

Mrs. Turner almost seemed indignant when she said, "Do you think I'd put on anything dangerous or brutal? I can't remember any pro wrestling fatality, can you? Oh, about 10 years ago Wrestler Mike Romano died in the ring at a ballpark match here but it later was found out that he had a heart attack."

Her punch line concerned the villainous Baxter. "Baxter," she said, "why, he never hurt anybody."

Baxter Tricked By Mr. America

La Verne Baxter lost to Gene (Mr. America) Stanlee last night by a wierd twist.

Baxter pinned Stanlee to the mat. The referee, Nate Brown, patted him twice on the back (three taps on the back by the ref in wrestling is the equivalent of a ten count in boxing). Then Mr. America reached around and patted Baxter on the back himself.

Baxter, thinking he had won, got up and raised his hand in triumph. Mr. America promptly slugged him, knocked him flat, and pinned him. The time was 12 minutes and 30 seconds.

Baxter had previously used his controversial throat blow and the referee threatened to disqualify him.

N. C. State Suffers 1st Loss, 68-61

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 20 (AP).—With sophomore Forward Larry Hennessey pumping in 33 points, unbeaten Villanova toppled North Carolina State from the ranks of the undefeated tonight, 68-61.

The sophomore-studded Villanova team led virtually all the way. Hennessey scored from all angles. In one scoring spree, he made good on nine of 10 shots.

Soph Forward Sam Glassmire, 5-10 "Shorty," did an outstanding job of guarding State's Sammy Ranzino. The N. C. State ace, who had averaged 24 points per game until tonight, did not loop a field goal until 15 minutes of the first half had passed. His total for the evening was 11 points.

It was Villanova's third victory over N. C. State in as many years.

For State, ranked third nationally in a preseason Associated Press poll, it was the first loss in eight starts.

Jeff Will Get $30,000 To End Pact

By Bob Myers

Los Angeles, Dec. 20 (AP).—The 9-year-old coaching regime of Jeff Cravath sank at the University of Southern California today, torpedoed by powerful "win or else" alumni sharpshooters.

Cravath abandoned the stricken ship, effective January 1, climaxing an anti-Cravath, old grad offensive that mounted with intensity as the Trojan grid fortunes wallowed and pitched during the past season.

Cravath, senior coach in point of service in the Pacific Coast Conference, stepped down with nothing but good words for the university, athletic officials and his players.

As salvage, he will be paid an estimated $30,000 which the wealthy alumni agreed to dig up to buy off the two years remaining on his contract.

Cravath, 47, made no direct mention of the pressure brought against him by the alumni, but it is no secret that a series of secret sessions ended with one last night in which it was agreed to demand the coach's resignation and buy up his contract.

Had Four Title Winners

Athletic director Willis O. Hunter, obviously surprised at the swiftness of the final oust-the-coach crusade, said no thought has been given to s successor.

Cravath, one of the greatest linemen in Trojan history and the only alumnus ever to occupy the head coaching position, took over at USC in 1942.

He guided USC to four Pacific Coast Conference championships and into four Rose Bowl games. He won the first two but lost the last pair, to Alabama and Michigan.

The 1950 campaign was the most disastrous. The Trojans lost five games, tied two and won two.

Disappointing losses were to Navy, California and UCLA. The final game was a big victory, 9-7, over traditional rival Notre Dame, and many felt the win might squelch the wolves' howls.

Cravath's overall record at USC was 54 wins, 28 losses and eight ties. He was captain of the USC team in 1926 and a pupil of the late legendary Trojan coach, Howard Jones. Prior to coming to USC, he coached at Denver University and San Francisco University.

Cravath's name thus was added to such other coaching casualties this year as Blair Cherry of Texas, Wes Fesler of Ohio State, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and others.

It's "Win or Else"

Just the other day Cravath confided to an intimate, just as Cherry and Fesler had done. "It doesn't make much difference whether you like to coach football and at the same time try to help good kids along, or whether you are the greatest coach in the business. You gotta win and win—or else you're through."

Tech Upsets W-L High

McKinley Tech upset Washington-Lee High last night in the final quarter to win, 51-45.

The defeat was the first loss for W. and L. against four victories. The Virginia school led, 42-39, at the end of the third quarter. Then Bill Breen, Star Kernan, and Joe Carr led a last quarter Tech upsurge which netted 12 points Tech meanwhile limited W. and L. to three.

Breen of Tech was the game's high scorer with 21 points. Jim McFadden of W. and L. had 14.

Minors' Mogul Says People For Chandler

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—Frank D. Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth Cubs in the Piedmont League (Class B) today criticized major league clubs for their efforts to remove A. B. (Happy Chandler as commissioner of baseball. He added he doesn't believe the American people will stand for Chandler's removal.

"I believe that Happy Chandler will be commissioner of baseball just as long as he wants to because the American people are in his corner . . ."

In baseball since 1913, Lawrence spoke out as one of the first old-line minor league moguls to comment for the record on the recent decision of the major league owners not to renew Chandler's contract as commissioner.

"I don't believe they will put Chandler out for Chandler is the only hope of the players themselves and I sincerely believe that the American people are unanimously on Chandler's side."

Lawrence referred to the major league club owners who paved the way for the Chandler ouster as an "organized minority." He said:

"The organized minority of major league owners have been running the great American game. . . . They make all the rules . . . The minor leagues have no say and have not had any really since I have been in baseball for 40 years, as a club owner since 1923."

Lawrence made his remarks in a statement to the Norfolk Virginian Pilot.

With 3 'Basketball Matches'

Goldie, Old Hand at 'Turkeys,' Tries 'Seasonable' Promotions

Goldie Ahearn, heretofore noted for his boxing "turkeys," is branching out with more "seasonable" promotions, he announced yesterday.

Goldie Ahearn

"Next Thursday night at Uline Arena, I'm promoting three 'basketball' matches," said the erudite Mr. Ahearn, "an all-star card.

"In the feature, it's the Scrantonians against the All-Stars. On the Scrantonians is Dolly King, the All-American from Loong Giland, and some other great players from N. Y. C., New York University, you know.

"I'll tell you some of the All-Stars, but you'll forgive me, I may say a couple of them wrong. Frankly, it is new to me, I don't know a 'besketball' from a boxing glove.

"Jack Nichols will play. So will Steve Bekkeros (Bagarus), who used to play for the Redskins. And Earl Lloyd and Johnny Nordlinger (Norlander), who used to play for the Caps.

"There will also be a girls match and another between two midget teams. Yeah, midgets, kids, not the kind wot rassles. This one is on the level, none of the rasslin' crowd is muscling in.

"You know, here is the height of the 'besketball' season, it's seasonable. Later, I'll have boxing and girls baseball, and even football.

"Is it a 'besketball' benefit?" Goldie was asked. "Sure," he said, "my benefit, can you think of a more worthy one?"

Wisconsin Aide Visits Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 20 (AP).—Line Coach Milt Bruhn of Wisconsin had an appointment today to discuss the University of Minnesota football coaching job with Athletic Director Ike Armstrong.

Armstrong made clear that Bruhn has not applied for the position from which Bernie Bierman resigned recently, nor has it been offered to him.

Bruhn is in town for tomorrow's meeting of the Wisconsin Alumni Club of Minneapolis. It followed naturally, Armstrong said, that a meeting would be arranged. Bruhn is a Minnesota graduate.

Easier Age Rule Proposed By High Head

By Bill Gilbert
Post Reporter

The District Board of Education yesterday took under consideration a proposed change in the eligibility age of high school athletes aimed at conforming with rules of suburban schools.

Under the change, proposed by Albert E. Steinem, board chairman of athletics, a student not 19 years old before September 1 of the school year would be eligible for participation in all sports of that term.

Under the present rule, the eligibility of the athlete is based on the date that the season starts. A student not 19 before September 1 is eligible for football; one not 19 before December 1 can play basketball; and one under 19 before March 1 is permitted to compete in baseball and outdoor track.

However, under the present rule, a student who is not 19 before a season starts but who reaches his nineteenth birthday during that season is ineligible for competition in other sports later in the year.

Steinem's proposal is under discussion by the school principals and they will report on it at the next board meeting, the third week in January.

The eligible age, originally 21, was cut to 18 in 1936, then the present rule was put into effect. The number of major subjects a student must pass in order to remain eligible was reduced from four to three a year ago.

College Crowds Off 3.5 Pct.; East, Far West Hit Hardest

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—College football attendance held up surprisingly well in 1950, dropping off only 3.5 percent a game from the all-time high of last year according to an Associated Press survey. Big league baseball was off 14 percent.

The East and Far West where television takes its deepest bite suffered severe setbacks but a sharp increase in the Southwest held up the over-all average. The Midwest was up slightly and the South dipped about 3 percent, close to the national trend.

Returns from 89 schools, covering 448 home games showed today that the major collegians played to average crowds of 26,678 last fall as compared to 27,651 in 1949.

The figures ranged from 36,744 in the Midwest and 35,868 in the Southwest to 19,807 in the East.

The Southwest average was up 11 percent, the Midwest 2 percent and all the others dropped from the South's 3 percent to 10 percent in the East and 12 percent in the Far West.

Poor weather, particularly the late November snow and wind storms, hurt the gate in the Midwest and East, but most schools were inclined to blame television competition.

In the Southwest live telecasts are permitted only when a game is an assured sellout in advance. Many of the Midwest schools, with the exception of Notre Dame, did not televise.

Excel Excels Again at Charles Town but Bettors Stay Wary

Joe Culmone Gives Up Try For Record

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20 (AP).—Jockey Joe Culmone gave up all hope today of booting home enough winners this year to beat Walter Miller's 44-year-old racing record.

"I'll have to settle for the national title this year and let it go at that," the 19-year-old Sicilian sensation said sadly.

Culmone watched from the sidelines again at Tropical Park, his 370 winners placing him well ahead of his nearest competitor, Jockey Willie Shoemaker, who rode his 358th winner at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, yesterday.

The Sicilian was booked to ride two horses at Tropical tomorrow, but track officials weren't at all sure he'd be back in the saddle.

The Nation's leading jockey hasn't ridden since he was injured in a spill Saturday while driving to break Miller's record of 388 wins set in 1906.

Culmone was released from the hospital Sunday, but a specialist said an old ear fungus infection returned, delaying his plans to resume riding.

"My ear, which has been bothering me, is going to be okay according to the medics, but I must avoid getting dirt in it," the jockey explained.

Officials pointed out that Culmone would have to bring home 19 winners in the nine days of racing left this year to break Miller's record.

Shoemaker Gains On Idle Culmone

By The Associated Press

Willie Shoemaker, still hopeful of overtaking Joe Culmone as the leading jockey of the year, rode two winners at the Fair Grounds track yesterday to move within 10 victories of the idle pacemaker.

Here's how Culmone and Shoemaker stand for the year, plus Walter Miller's all-time record figures:

	Mounts	1st	2d	3d
Culmone	1612	370	276	205
Shoemaker	1564	360	252	219
Miller (1906)	1384	388	300	199

Underrated Colt Pays Fat $10.60

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

CHARLES TOWN, Dec. 20.—J. K. Wynkoop's Excel, drew more support today than in recent starts, but still remains an underrated horse.

With a $10.60 mutuel price tag attached, the 4-year-old came through with a strong stretch drive that earned a head decision over Jim Arthur's Tampero. B. F. Christmas' Idle Mr. was third in the test named the Fulton Purse.

Excel's unpopularity with the majority of bettors might stem from the fact he has four white legs. At any rate, he was in the money twice at 15-1 before winning in his most recent outing at 13-1. Among those he whipped was Tampero, the favorite in today's feature.

Saddled by Trainer W. P. Bell, now being dubbed "Ben Jones of the minor tracks," and ridden by Willie Miller, currently in his best form, Excel turned in time of 1:52 for the mile and one-eighth, only a fifth of a second over the track record.

Jockey Really Helps

Miller was an important factor in the victory of the Sun Again gelding. Tampero shook off early contention to open what looked like a commanding lead. However, approaching the stretch, Excel gradually moved toward the pacemaker.

Entering the final straightaway, Tampero swung far out and, just as it seemed Excel would have to follow him, Miller snatched the 4-year-old to the inside. In the final drive, Excel showed extreme courage, wearing down the public choice in the concluding strides.

Daily double stock, extremely high here during the early stages of the meeting, shrunk to a new low—$12 on the 7-1 combination. H. J. Elliott's Corinth, at $5.40, took the first, and J. H. Elliott's Falsely, at $5.80, accounted for the second.

Long shot players, who have been going great guns, had to take back a bit today. Favorites were successful in five of the eight races. The day's longest payoff came on M. M. Schwebel's Craigs Crest, which paid $22.60 after surviving a foul claim.

AT CHARLES TOWN

DEAR FOLKS:

Owner-Trainer E. B. Townsend and his good 2-year-old Tamale were honored rather belatedly here at the recent Bowie meeting, Townsend's Tamale finished in a dead heat with Brookmeade Stable's Steadfast in the Edgar B. Horn Memorial Purse. Naturally, the Maryland Racing Writers Association had only one silver plate and Townsend agreed to wait. Joe Paoli has leased the well-appointed Cherry Hill (Md.) horse farm owned by the heirs of Henry L. Straus, president of the American Totalizator Co., who was killed in a plane crash. Jockey Freddie Kratz, now wintering at Aiken, S. C., remembered his friends here with Christmas cards attached to bags of pecan nuts. Answer to inquiry: Try Cook, the mare who paid the $810 win mutuel, turned the trick at Hagerstown, not here, on May 9, 1934. See you on the rail—BILL.

Marylanders Reject Tobacco Controls

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Southern Maryland tobacco growers yesterday voted overwhelmingly against Federal marketing quotas for next year's crop.

The vote was on three propositions: quotas for 1951 only; quotas for three years beginning with the 1951 crop; and no quotas at all. Two thirds of the vote in favor was necessary for the proposal to carry.

The final, unofficial vote was 2305 for and 3876 against. This figures out to only 37 percent in favor.

As a result of the election, Federal price supports for Maryland tobacco, which have been in effect for two years, will end after the 1950 crop is sold next spring.

The support level for the 1950 crop has been announced as 48.6 cents a pound, compared with 41.8 cents on the 1949 crop, sold last spring. Tobacco price supports are set at 90 percent of parity. The level is expected to go higher next year, if prices of things farmers buy continue to rise. Parity is based on the price farmers must pay for goods they must buy.

The proposed marketing quota would have cut the acreage that Maryland planters may have put in tobacco next year to 48,000 compared with 49,000 this year. The quota for 1951 is around 37,700,000 pounds, compared with this year's harvest of about 38 million.

Marketing quotas were ordered voted upon because the total supply of Maryland tobacco—this year's crop plus carry over from previous years—is more than a normal reserve. The Maryland normal reserve is estimated at 94,700,000 pounds. At present the reserve totals 97,800,000.

Operating against the proposition yesterday was the belief among many planters that their acreage was cut too much compared with the total cut. The quotas allotted to each farmer—whcih were announced several weeks ago—were based on the amount of acres he raised last year and in previous years with a small reserve held for so-called "new farms."

The vote in the Southern Maryland counties showed:

Anne Arundel—for one year, 235; for three years, 223; against, 583.

Prince Georges—for one year, 383; for three years, 357; against, 756.

St. Marys—for one year, 218; for three years, 236; against, 661.

Charles—for one year, 113; for three years, 143; against 950.

Calvert—for one year, 233; for three years, 125; against, 918.

58 Children Become Ill At Yule Party

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Dec. 20 (AP).—Fifty-eight small children were rushed here this afternoon after they became ill at a Christmas party in the Quemado Valley School, 20 miles northwest of here.

Doctors were called from Del Rio, 56 miles away, to help handle the outbreak.

None of the children was believed seriously ill, although all were being held tonight for observation.

Quemado Valley has no telephones. First word of the illness came from M. J. Potts, Del Rio businessman, who was passing through the community. He said the children, all in the first three grades of the two-teacher school, began feeling ill after refreshments were served.

The refreshments included a drink made of synthetic fruit extract to which fruit juices had been added, Potts said he understood the drink was mixed in a tin bucket.

Potts said one small boy was found by the side of the road, where he had collapsed while attempting to walk to his home several miles from the school.

East Berliner Wins 'Freedom' To Spend in Jail

BERLIN, Dec. 20 (AP).—It was a sad day for Max Zander when he sued his wife for divorce in an East Berlin court. He charged Mrs. Zander, who moved to the West during bombing raids on Berlin, deserted him.

Notified, she returned to East Berlin. She brought along letters Zander had written her, telling of miserable living conditions in East Berlin and the Soviet zone.

The court decided Mrs. Zander deserved the divorce. Then it sentenced Zander to two years in prison for "spreading false rumors, slandering the Soviet army and endangering internal peace."

Montgomery Officials Honored at Dinner

The Montgomery County delegation to the Maryland General Assembly and the Montgomery County Council were honored at a dinner last night at the Stone House Inn, Four Corners.

The event was sponsored by Mayor Ross Beville and the City Council of Takoma Park, which two years ago began a policy of entertaining newly elected officials from Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

1000 Sick Orphans Flown From Seoul To Island Refuge

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—More than 1000 ailing and miserable orphans and their attendants were flown from Communist-threatened Seoul to an island off South Korea today.

Most of the children were too small or too sick to walk. Their ages ranged from 6 months to 13 years.

The children came from an orphanage supported by the United States Fifth Air Force in conjunction with the American Red Cross, the mayor of Seoul, the YMCA and Catholic and Protestant missions.

The mass evacuation was arranged on 24 hours' notice through a Fifth Air Force chaplain, Lieut. R. L. Blaisdell of Hayfield, Minn. It was completed in two hours. The children left Kimpo airfield outside Seoul in 16 C-54 transports of the Combat Cargo Command.

Orchestra Minus Soloist Performs Brilliantly

By Paul Hume

It's very good thing now and then for an orchestra to have the stage to itself.

Concerts without soloists used to be preferred in symphony circles. Nowadays, it is the fashion to have a soloist every concert. Indeed, if there is no soloist, every orchestra in the country reports a drop in attendance.

The National Symphony held he center of attention last night in Constitution Hall, with Howard Mitchell directing one of the Bach-Beethoven-Brahms programs that have become favorites here.

The program was a relief from many such in the way it avoided the noisier aspects of these men. Bach's third orchestral suite, the one with the famous Air, opened the program. From the eight symphonies of Beethoven, his fourth in B flat was chosen. Of the four by Brahms we heard number two.

In key signatures, in emotional moods, and in dramatic content, these works give the listener the chance to relax and let the music work itself into his system. It is not the kind of evening you put in when Beethoven's Eroica is followed by the first or fourth of Brahms.

In all this unheroic music, there is such beauty of sound and idea. Beethoven never again found the vein of sweetness that fills the fourth symphony. In the sixth, the Pastoral, he has other ideas to put forth, and a storm of major proportions.

Brahms, too, wrote with unequaled mellowness in his second symphony. The third has lines more tragic and profound than this tender work.

Throughout the program the orchestra played with unassailable purity of tone and style. The strings were models in their Bach and the rich pages Brahms gave them. Their work in the tricky moments of the third and fourth movements of the Beethoven was handled with clarity and skill.

The woodwinds had a field day, or night, in the symphonies, after their accustomed rest during the Bach. Arpeggios for clarinet, solos for flute, horn, bassoon, and passages for the entire ensemble were done with polish.

To the brass, from the opening of the Bach in its high trumpets, to the drama of the final coda of the Brahms, our highest praise. Mitchell conducted the music, with which he has unusual sympathy, with complete authority and appropriate breadth. It was a fine evening.

To those who may think my praise a bit thick, were you there to hear the concert?

Dr. A. D. Solomon of 7416 14th st. nw. has been elected president of the Progress Club, succeeding Bernard Margolius, it was announced yesterday.

Charles H. Becker is the new vice president of the business and professional men's club.

Reelected were Myer Brenner, treasurer; Edward E. Applebaum, recording secretary; Sidney Hass, financial secretary, and Julius Abramson, sergeant at arms.

Scientists Reveal Way to Remove Radioactivity

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—An inexpensive, simple method of decontaminating radioactive liquids, discovered by two youthful scientists, was revealed today by the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Dr. K. Z. Morgan, director of health physics of the laboratory, said the process was discovered by A. H. Emmons and Robert A. Lauderdale.

Morgan said the unit made by the pair of scientists would cost about $2.50 and would be studied by the Federal Civil Defense Administration to determine the possibility of its use in civil defense.

Emmons and Lauderdale claimed the unit would decontaminate about 10 gallons a day or the amount consumed by 20 persons in 24 hours. They said its capacity can be increased greatly by increasing its size.

6-Day, 48-Hour Week For 750 Employes Under Study by NPA

A 6-day 48-hour work week for the 750 employes of the National Production Agency has been recommended by several members of its top staff.

Commerce Secretary Sawyer, however, has sidetracked the plan temporarily. He took the practical view that a longer work week for NPA employes should be postponed until a Government-wide policy on the issue had been fixed.

EXPANSION: Only 7466 of the 218,366 new civilian jobs proposed for the Army, Navy & Air Force will be at their headquarters here. Several thousand other civilians are earmarked for nearby military activities.

Funds for the army of new jobs are carried in the $16,800,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill now before the Senate. A total of 157,000 would be in production and maintenance activities in shipyards, arsenals, and the like. The remaining 61,366 would be white-collar employes.

FT. BELVOIR: It has openings for 500 engineers, administrative and technical people at its Army Engineer Research & Development Laboratory in nearby Virginia. The jobs pay up to $6400 annually.

Needed are: stenos, administrative assts., purchase, editorial and purchase clerks, accountants, storekeepers, technical writers, architects, medical officers, and various types of engineers and draftsmen. Applicants should send Form 57's to the commanding officer at Fort Belvoir.

At Justice, William A. Underhill has been promoted to assistant to Deputy Atty. Gen. Peyton Ford. Newell A. Clapp has moved over from the Claims Division to succeed him as first assistant in the Anti-trust Division . . . At Commerce, Secretary Sawyer will hold a reception for all of his employes at 5 p. m. today . . . At Public Health. Assistant Surgeon Gen. Erval R. Coffey will head a public health mission to Thailand for ECA.

NIGHT SHIFT: Commerce's Export Control is going on two shifts and it's in the market for clerical personnel who desire to work on a 4 p. m. to midnight shift. It's an opportunity for students who attend day classes to take a full-time job. Needed are stenos ($2875), clerks and typists ($2650).

The second shift was ordered when the agency was unable to get additional office space to place people to care for its ever-increasing workload. Applicants should apply to: Mrs. Esposito, Room 7518, Main Commerce Bldg.

BUDGET CUTBACK: The Budget Bureau has whacked about 50 millions in non-defense spending from Commerce's proposed 1952 budget. The big bite came out of funds for the Bureau of Public Roads. However, the President asked Congress yesterday to approve 8 millions additional for the agency to build roads to military and defense activities.

POST OFFICE: Representative Canfield (R., N. J.) yesterday made a speech in the House in which he protested against the curtailment of postal service. He said that the Postmaster General now estimates his order will save 70 millions annually instead of his first estimate of 15 millions. Nevertheless, Canfield said the loss to business and the public at large is much greater.

PAY PLAN: Alfred Beiter, president of the National Customs Service Association, is working on a bill to tie Federal salaries to the cost of living. He would give the President the authority to revise government salaries every six months—the revision to be based on cost-of-living figures issued by the Bureau of Labor Statitstics. The base period, under Beiter's plan, would be October, 1949, the last time Congress adjusted Federal salaries.

NFFE: This large and independent union is conducting a Nation-wide membership campaign. A dozen new locals have been installed recently, according to Secretary-Treasurer Gertrude M. McNally, who said:

"It is evident that the NFFE organization drive is on in full earnest. We are going forward vigorously in our determination to build the NFFE to the greatest level of strength in its history to meet the needs of these times in terms of leadership and effective service."

Dr. Corning Holds On To Lunch Program

Move to Place Control in Business Office Defeated By 4-to-3 Vote

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The "spirit of Christmas" went sour at yesterday's meeting of the District Board of Education.

Board members, who gathered to hear school children sing Christmas carols, ended their regular meeting with a bitter quarrel over administration of the Federal school lunch program.

School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning retained nominal control through a compromise. He will administer the Federal food grants and subsidies through a committee of associate superintendents headed by School Budget Officer Adelbert W. Heinmiller.

A majority of the board's personnel committee had sought to wrest control from Dr. Corning and place it directly under Heinmiller.

Dr. Corning recommended the compromise but when the vote came only one voice—that of Woolsey Hall—was heard in its favor. Other board members kept quiet but since there was no opposition it carried.

Earlier Adelbert W. Lee's motion to turn the program over to Heinmiller lost by a four-to-three vote.

Lee and Dr. Phillip Johnson, members of the personnel committee, warned Dr. Corning that they expect improvement in the program in which Lee had charged "gross inefficiency."

"It is hard for me to hold my tongue," Lee said, and indicated he did only because it was just before Christmas. "I have a lot of material that would embarrass a lot of people. There may be some action by the Department of Justice."

Lee referred to earlier charges that some of the Federal surplus goods had been sold by an unnamed school cafeteria. He also pointed out that turkeys, butter and apples had been stolen from a truck operated by a driver who carried no bond.

Dr. James A. Gannon said it would be "a most humiliating thing to suggest that the program be taken out of the hands of the superintendent and placed in the business office which the superintendent directs in all other matters."

Gannon was joined by Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger and Hall in voting down the proposal.

The meeting opened with the singing of carols first by a group of white students from Anacostia High School and then by a Negro group from Giddings Elementary School.

In the spirit of the occasion Gannon announced as the board set about its deliberations that "for the rest of the year Lee and I will go along together."

Board President C. Melvin Sharpe also declared that he hoped the spirit of Christmas would hold through the meeting.

Before clashing over the school-lunch program, board members approved a civilian defense manual and authorized the transfer of the white Ludlow and Maury schools to use by Negro children. The move becomes effective at the end of January with white children at the two schools transferring to other schools in the Northeast area.

The board also turned down for the present a request of a half dozen Southeast organizations for a night school at Anacostia. They said that enrollments have dropped about a thousand students in other evening schools throughout the city.

Playmates Watch

Schoolboy, 8, Slips to Death Under Bus

DISTRICT TRAFFIC TOLL:
1950 deaths to date.....68
1949 deaths to date.....66
Total 1949 death toll.....72

An 8-year-old boy walking home from school on the side of an icy street was crushed to death under the wheeel of a bus yesterday as a group of his companions looked on.

The child, killed instantly in the 3100 block of Stanton rd., was Harry Murray, son of Mrs. Dorothy Murray, 2030 Stanton rd., and a pupil at Garfield School.

The Capital Transit bus was driven by Arthur L. Sidney, 32, of 3000 Massachusetts ave. se., police said.

Absence of sidewalks in the 3100 block make it necessary to walk on the edge of the street, police reported. It appeared that the boy lost his footing just as the bus, traveling in the same direction, passed by.

The driver told police he was unaware there had been an accident until he heard the anguished screams of six or seven of the boy's playmates who were walking together. An icy film covered the street when the child was struck at about 3 p.m.

Another Capital Transit bus arrived as Sidney stopped to investigate, and the driver called Eleventh Precinct Police, who in turn called an ambulance. Police said the boy was killed instantly.

No charges had been placed against Sidney early last night, pending further investigation by police.

About 6 p. m. yesterday, an expectant mother crossing Rhode Island ave. ne. in the 200 block was struck by an automobile driven by Vinko Suglick, 52, a Yugoslavian Embassy office worker of 5313 Riverdale rd., Riverdale, Md., police reported.

The woman, Mrs. Helen Ozarow, 26, of 200 Rhode Island ave. ne., was treated at Casualty Hospital for cuts and bruises of the face, arms and body, then transferred to Garfield Hospital, where her condition was said to be "fair." She is expecting a child in about two months, police said.

PUC to Meet Parents On Bus Service to School

The District Public Utilities Commission will meet informally today at 10 a. m. with parents seeking additional bus service to and from the new Abram Simon School at 4th st. and Mississippi ave. se.

The Simon School opens for classes today. The PUC recently authorized the Capital Transit Co. to service it with a bus stopping at 4th and Atlantic sts. se.

Petitions filed with the PUC by two parent groups in the Barnaby Terrace-Wheeler Terrace area asked that: (1) Noon bus service be added to morning and afternoon runs to transport kindergarten children on half-day sessions; (2) The V-8 route along Wheeler rd. be extended to carry children closer to the school.

The parents said the Atlantic st. stop was about five blocks from the school and that children are forced to walk from that point through woods and across a narrow bridge over Oxon Run to reach the school. They proposed instead that the V-8 line be extended to run along Alabama and Nichols ave. to the intersection of Horner pl. and Upsal st. se.

Last of Gang Jailed For Safecracking

Jack Albert Taylor, 30, of 104 Wooten ave., Bethesda, was sentenced to two years in prison yesterday for complicity in a Bethesda safecracking.

Taylor was the last member of a gang which, with Corpl. James O. Breeden, Montgomery County policeman, robbed the safe at the Devlin Lumber Co., Bethesda, August 26. Taylor pleaded guilty at the trial last week. Breeden was sentenced to 8 years in the case.

3 Area Men Held in N. C. Bank Holdup

Trio Arrested Hour After $1021 Haul; Loot, Gun Found On Them by FBI

CANDOR, N. C., Dec. 20 (Spl.).—Three Washington area men were captured by the FBI today as suspects within an hour after a bank here was held up for $1021.

The men were listed as Albert Eugene Carter, 20, of 813 Thayer ave., Silver Spring; Joseph Franklin Reed, 22, of Lay Hill, and Lawrence V. (Larry) Whitaker, 27, of Rockville. Whitaker was arrested in 1944 and served a year and a day for violating the National Rationing Act.

Swift capture of the men was attributed to the alertness of the Candor chief of police, who recalled seeing an unfamiliar maroon Buick sedan on the streets last night.

When he heard the bank had been held up at 11:15 a. m. by three men, one of whom held the president and two employes at gunpoint while the others emptied the safe, the chief called the Charlotte field office of the FBI. Charlotte is 80 miles from here.

An agent at Albermarle, 20 miles from Candor, was notified. He immediately set out by car for Candor and passed the maroon car going in the opposite direction some 15 miles from town. The agent turned around and pulled alongside the car in a filling station.

The men promptly confessed to the crime after the agent discovered $1021 and a .32-caliber revolver in their car, the FBI reported.

The three men were arraigned before the United States Commissioner in Albemarle on a charge of bank robbery. They were held in the Albemarle County jail in $25,000 bond each.

In Washington, Mrs. William Carter, mother of the 20-year-old man arrested, told a reporter her son left their Silver Spring home Monday night "to get his car fixed up the street." She had not heard from him since. She said he had a friend named Joe Reed, but she did not recognize the name of Whitaker.

Carter attended the Nativity School in the District and had recently been working as a plumber, his mother said. He was to have gone to work last week for a food store, she added.

Parkway Gets $1.5 Million 'Yule Present'

The unfinished Baltimore-Washington Parkway received a surprise 1.5-million-dollar Christmas present from the Bureau of the Budget yesterday.

The additional sum, in contract authority, will help speed completion of the 18-mile stretch of the super roadway from near Fort Meade to the District line.

With money previously "unfrozen" by the Budget Bureau, the total for construction between now and next June 30 stands at 4.5 million dollars.

The unexpected fund transfer was urged by the National Park Service because of higher construction costs, and the needs of national defense, a park service spokesman said last night.

Early in World War II it was estimated that the Federal section of the roadway would cost about 13 million dollars to complete.

To date, a $518,000 contract has been awarded for a dual bridge over the Little Patuxent River.

Murder Charges Against 2 Men Dropped in Court

Second degree murder charges against two men were dismissed in District Court yesterday.

The dismissal clears Welmore H. Braxton, 42, 2920 Ontario rd., nw., and Preston D. Bowles, 26, 1719 Willard st., nw. They were accused of fatally stabbing John Anderson, 54, 1931 17th st., nw., in a restaurant last June 25.

Assistant United States Attorney William P. Arnold told Judge Edward A. Tamm that a jury had been unable to reach a decision in the case after deliberating two days and "re-presentation of the case would not result in a conviction."

Better to Give Than . . .

The Washington Post

. . . TO RECEIVE—The third grade children at Chevy Chase Elementary School dropped their custom of exchanging Christmas gifts this year. Instead they sent them to patients at Children's Hospital. Delivering the gifts yesterday are Joan McFadden, 8, of 6200 Mileville pl., and Stephen Arent, 8, of 7008 Rolling rd. Stephen, a patient at the hospital last summer, suggested the idea to his teacher, Miss Anna Deanne Ducar

D. C. Pupils Go on Vacation Today; Many Parties Planned

Washington's public and parochial school pupils leave their classrooms this afternoon for an 11-day Christmas vacation.

Their departure from the schools will be the signal for the start of a number of playground and caroling parties sponsored by the District of Columbia Recreation Department.

The District public schools reopen on January 2 and the parochial schools on January 3. Arlington County schools will observe the December 21-January 2 vacation.

Prince Georges County and Alexandria public schools will close from Friday afternoon until January 3. Montgomery County schools close at noon Friday to reopen January 2.

Santa Claus came yesterday for some 100 children when the Kallipolis Grotto held its annual Christmas party for the benefit of youngsters at the Crippled Children's Society.

Nine-year-old Johnny Marshall, a cerebral palsy patient, received a special gift—a baseball autographed by members of the Washington Senators ball team. The society said that the baseball had been Johnny's request from Santa for several years.

Employes of the medical holding detachment of Walter Reed Hospital yesterday turned the tables on St. Nicholas.

They received a note, attached to one of the Canadian Christmas trees they are selling, from a Canadian girl who asked for some skates and candy.

The girl who lives in the province of New Brunswick—nearer to Santa than Washington—was sent the skates and candy from some southern helpers of Santa.

Providence Hospital yesterday opened its Christmas store for parents who are unable to provide much Christmas this year.

Parents may visit the hospital at 2d and D sts., se., to select gifts for their children.

Christmas festivities will begin early today at the Hecht Co. department store, when the store opens its doors at 8:45 a. m. for a combined customer-clerk Christmas caroling program. Customer entrances on 7th and F sts. will be open early.

Staff members of the Metropolitan YMCA will be guests of general secretary Randolph Meyers at a Christmas party at 1 p. m. today in the building auditorium, 1736 G st. nw.

The Honeywell Foundation will have the story of "Cinderella" as the subject of its annual Christmas pantomime at 2 p.m. today in the Hiser Theater, Bethesda, Md. The actors use only gestures and expressions, no speech, to impart the tale. Proceeds go to Suburban Hospital.

Parties have been planned by the D. C. Recreation Department for preschool children at 10 a. m. today at the following playgrounds and neighborhood centers:

Takoma, Rudolph, Twin Oaks, Raymond, Barnard, Turkey Thicket, Chevy Chase, Georgetown, Chevy Chase Community Building, Gallinger, Montrose, Lafayette, Macomb, Hearst, Bald Eagle, Hillcrest, Virginia Avenue, Monroe and Happy Hollow.

Parties for older children, teen-age groups and adults will be held at many of the centers later today or on Friday.

The Recreation Department will also sponsor two caroling streetcars which will tour the city two evenings this week loaded with playground youngsters. The schedule has not yet been announced.

On Friday at 11 a. m. radio station WWDC will distribute gifts at the District Home for the Aged and Infirm at Blue Plains. Part of the program will be broadcast. Contributions to the station's Christmas booth on 14th st. have provided the money and presents for the distribution.

The Naval Medical Center at Bethesda will have a Christmas party for children at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the center auditorium.

Santa Claus will desert his reindeer for a helicopter and parachute to arrive at Fort Belvoir on Saturday afternoon. His descent is expected to end at Specker Field House where there will be a party for children of station personnel.

The flying Santa will be Capt. Cecil G. Miller, fort special services officer.

To insure the District a bright but safe Christmas the city's Fire Prevention Council has sent out warnings about fire hazards. They say:

Stand your Christmas tree away from exits and fireplaces.

Make sure your tree wiring is safe and insulated. Use metal tinsel, and asbestos snow flakes on the tree. Avoid cotton.

Don't leave tree lights on when you retire or go out.

Dispose of the tree before it dries out. To make the tree stay green longer keep its trunk in water.

Lighting of Community Tree Set for Sunday, 4:30

The annual National Community Christmas tree lighting ceremony on the south grounds of the White House this Sunday will feature a "live American Christmas card."

The card will depict the U. S. Marine choristers and the lighted tree with the White House in the background. The program will start at 4:30 p. m.

The general public will not be permitted on the White Lawn for security reasons. However, ceremony officials say the program will be clearly visable from a special roped-off section just outside the fence.

Concrete Mixer Packs Punch for Builders

Punch, mixed and served from a moving concrete mixer, and two tons of barbecued spareribs were the fare for more than 3000 building industry men last night.

The high feeding featured the twenty-fifth annual Christmas party given by the Phillips Machinery & Tractor Co., at its plant, 2910 Jefferson Davis Highway, Arlington.

4000-Unit Home Building May Start April 1

D. C. Heads Approve Plan to Go Ahead With Low-Rental Public Housing

The National Capital Housing Authority expects to be ready by April 1 to seek construction on half of its 4000-unit low-cost housing program, NCHA executive director John Ihlder said yesterday.

Ihlder said approval by the District commissioners and NCHA last week of a cooperation agreement means that:

1. NCHA can seek the immediate release from the Public Housing Administration of $480,000 earmarked to plan the program.

2. NCHA can proceed, as soon as it is ready and PHA has approved loans, to start buying sites and building the first 2000 units. Ihlder said he hoped to be ready to start the other 2000 units within a year after April 1.

Nine sites for the projects have been approved. Ihlder said the authority's immediate job is to draw detailed plans, then buy the sites for 2000 units. There has been no indication, he said, that the national defense program will hamper public housing plans here.

The cooperation agreement, which took 14 months to negotiate, was signed by the Commissioners yesterday. It stipulates, among other things, that NCHA shall pay the District 10 percent of shelter rents in lieu of taxes, that the authority shall give housing preference to persons evicted by slum clearance or public housing projects, and that the District shall provide the usual municipal services to the residents.

The Commissioners had suggested amending the agreement so that they would not be required to tear down old dwellings if the housing shortage continues. The Housing act requires the elimination of one slum dwelling for every new unit built by the NCHA.

The NCHA rejected the Commissioners' proposal but stated that if a housing shortage exists when its units have been erected it would recommend that the Federal Government not hold the District to this provision.

Gaming Case Seizure of Evidence Hit

United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence yesterday protested having to hold a lottery suspect for the grand jury when the evidence apparently was seized illegally.

At the arraignment of Henry P. Hammock, 26, a janitor at 3432 Connecticut ave., Lawrence said he "might have determined otherwise" if he had "authority to do so."

Lawrence added that he hoped the case would "be brought to the attention" of District Court judges in view of the ruling, which says evidence cannot be suppressed except on motion filed in the court, causing expense and inconvenience.

Under the rule, "there could conceivably come a time when a man not guilty would be forced to wait in jail for action of the grand jury," Lawrence said.

Hammock was arrested November 10 by vice squad officers who said they followed him along Connecticut ave. and watched him pick up numbers slips at several apartments.

They had no warrant for his arrest, but found a bag of numbers slips on the front seat of Hammock's car when he stopped on South Capitol st. bridge, police said. He was charged with possession of numbers slips and operating a lottery.

Hammock's bond was set at $1000 pending action of the grand jury.

Stolen D. C. Auto, Chased by Police, Hits 3 Parked Cars

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—An automobile reported stolen in Washington, D. C., crashed into three parked cars in a police chase here today and the injured driver fled afoot.

Police said the man was armed with a .32 caliber foreign-make pistol and ammunition stolen from the car.

Police said the stolen car was clocked at 85 miles an hour as it sped southward through Richmond's West End. The chase started after the driver, halted at a restaurant just west of the city on Route 250 by a Henrico County officer, sped away and moved eastward into the city.

In Washington, police said the car, a 1950 Buick, was stolen from 6th and Indiana ave. nw., on December 11. Owner is Theodore R. James, 401 Brandywine st. se., a private detective, who said the car had a foreign-make automatic in the glove compartment.

None Injured as Oil Furnace Blows Up 3d Time This Year

The proprietor and passers-by escaped injury yesterday when the explosion of an oil furnace blew out the plate glass windows of a florist shop at 625 H st. ne.

Christmas wreaths and poinsettia plants in the shop operated by Thomas Boukis were covered with dust from the blast that took place at 11:45 a. m.

Firemen said faulty ignition set fire to gas that had accumulated in the furnace fire box. The doors and chimney were blown off the furnace located in the basement of the building.

Boukis said that it was the third time this year that the furnace in the store that he rents had exploded. Twice last January he had to replace the front glass, he said.

Central Meaning of Christmas Yields New Hope, Bishop Says

Those facing the "dark uncertainties of 1951 need a lot more than tinsel to live by," the Right Rev. Angus Dun declared in a Christmas message yesterday.

The Episcopal Bishop of Washington told Rotary Club members the holiday itself "is so wrapped in gay doings that a lot of people never get to its inside."

Specifically, he mentioned youth, asking what the future held for them.

"They clutch at life in a certain reckless way so they can taste it before the curtain falls," the bishop said.

"Christmas for many people is a few hours of happy escape," he continued, "but escape won't bring us back face to face with the realities of life.

"When you take off all the Christmas wrappings: the brown wrapper of commercial enterprise, the bright inner-wrappings of family feeling, you'll find in the center the love of God," Bishop Dun asserted.

For those who have reached the center, the bishop held out "a new glimpse into our humanity giving the world a fresh hope and horizon.

At the weekly meeting in the Mayflower Hotel, the club voted unanimously to raise $60,000 over the next 10 years to build a gymnasium for the Western branch of Boys Club of Washington, 2726 M st. nw.

L. Leroy Tuerke, president, said the money would be raised by assessing club members $30 a year over the period.

Lieut. Col. Dean, Retired Officer, Dies

Funeral services for Lieut. Col. Herbert N. Dean, USA (ret.), 71, will be held Friday at 9 a. m. in Walter Reed Hospital chapel. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Col. Dean, 9100 Flower ave., Silver Spring, died late Tuesday night at Walter Reed Hospital. He had been ill for nearly three years.

Before his retirement in 1942, Col. Dean had had 46 years continuous service in the army plus service with an Ohio National Guard unit during the Spanish-American War. A native of Homer, Ohio, Col. Dean rejoined the army in 1904.

He received his commission in 1917 and was made an administrative officer in the medical corps, a position he held until his retirement.

He served overseas in the Philippines, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone and for 10 years was adjutant at Walter Reed, leaving there in 1936.

Colonel Dean is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clara S. Dean; a brother, a sister, a half-brother and two half-sisters, all of Ohio.

Fred E. Maxey Dies; Well-Known Minister

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—The Rev. Fred Edward Maxey, 66, widely known in Virginia and North Carolina for his evangelistic and pastoral work, and since October, 1949, pastor of North End Baptist Church, died here yesterday.

Federal Safety Council Is Created by Truman

President Truman yesterday signed an executive order creating the Federal Safety Council.

The council's purpose is to sponsor safe practices, eliminate work hazards and lessen health risks among Federal employes.

Mrs. Anna S. Dickson Dead; Chaplain's Widow Lived With Son Here

Mrs. Anna S. Dickson, 86, died yesterday morning at Walter Reed Army Hospital after a long illness. She lived with her son, Stewart Dickson, in the Kenesaw Apartments, 3060 16th st. nw.

Born in Bloomington, Ill., she was the wife of the late Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, who retired from the Army Chaplain Corps in 1922. Since his retirement she has lived in Washington.

An active club worker, she was honorary president of the Chaplain's Wives Association and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. F. G. Savage of Los Gatos, Calif. Funeral services will be Friday morning at 9 in the Fort Myer Chapel. Burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery.

Program of Information on

WORLD AFFAIRS

TEST NO. 10

The Program of Information on World Affairs is sponsored by The Washington Post to promote popular interest in events of world significance. As a part of the program The Washington Post publishes each Thursday of the school year a test on one of 26 topics of world affairs. The Program makes it possible for school children, adult groups and individuals to measure their knowledge of world affairs. It also includes a guidebook with study outlines on the 26 topics. The Program is directed by J. Edward Gerald, University of Minnesota Professor of Journalism, under guidance of Edgar B. Wesley, University Professor of Education.

Answers will be printed in The Post on Saturday. Some of the test questions may involve degrees of correctness rather than indisputable facts. In such cases select the BEST answer.

N. D. Miller Dead; Served Evening Star

Neville D. Miller, 69, first and only classified advertising manager of the Washington Evening Star, died unexpectedly Tuesday afternoon on his farm at Fort Sullivan near Harpers Ferry, Va.

Mr. Miller

Long in excellent health, Mr. Miller had worked for the Star for 48 years. He had been classified advertising manager since 1902, when the department was formed. Since then the department has grown to its present staff of 48 ad takers and salesmen. His entire working career was with the Star.

A native Washingtonian, Mr. Miller was the son of Douglass G. and Sophie P. Miller. He was a graduate of the old Business High School and became an accomplished pianist.

Mr. Miller began work for the Star in 1902 as a clerk in the business office. Later he became assistant cashier, who was also paymaster. During World War I he took charge of national advertising.

While his home was at 3800 14th st. nw., Mr. Miller for many years spent summers at his Fort Sullivan farm. His property on which the fort stands overlooks Harpers Ferry and was the scene of several Civil War battles.

He was treasurer of the Evening Star's Employe Club for 15 years and was a member of the Lebanon Masonic Lodge. Since childhood, Mr. Miller had attended the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Depue Miller; a son, Davidson C. Miller, 3702 Lyons lane, Alexandria, a patent attorney, and two grandchildren, Conway and Martha Miller. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Aileen M. Burns, of the 14th st. address.

Funeral services will be held at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., at 1 p. m. Friday. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Ft. Myer Funeral For R. M. Graham

Funeral services will be in the Fort Myer Chapel at 2 p. m. today for Richard M. Graham, 55, a unit chief in the Ordnance Department at the Pentagon, who was found dead in his Alexandria apartment Monday night. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

A native of Texas, Mr. Graham had lived in Mississippi before coming to Washington 15 years ago. He was a lieutenant in World War I. He resided at 500 Jefferson st., Alexandria.

Dr. John A. Sims, Alexandria coroner, said death was due to a heart condition. Mr. Graham had been dead about 48 hours before he was found, Dr. Sims reported.

The body was discovered by the manager of the apartment house, and neighbors said they had not seen Mr. Graham since December 12.

Falls Church School Bond Study Urged

The Falls Church school board last night named a committee to survey the possibility of holding a referendum on a bond issue to provide about $110,000 needed to build an elementary school on the Daniels site on Greenwich st.

The school was to have been built with funds from the $700,000 bond issue voted last year to pay for it and a high school. Recently, however, a bid was awarded for construction of the high school for $680,000.

The board has until February 28 to decide on a bid for construction of the elementary school for $134,000. Named to the committee, which will report in about 10 days, were James S. Lay, jr., chairman; Mrs. Helen Wallace and William Glover.

OKAYAMA, Japan, Dec. 20 (U.P.). Sixteen deaf and blind children burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a dormitory of the Okayama Prefectural School for the Deaf and Blind.

Mrs. Clift, D. C. Native, Dies at 65

Mrs. Helen MacLeod Clift, 65, wife of the late James W. Clift, a Patent Office examiner-in-chief, died Tuesday in York Village, Me. She had lived at 4116 Harrison st. nw. until two years ago.

Mrs. Clift

Mrs. Clift, who had been traveling the past two years, suffered a stroke last summer and had been hospitalized in Maine since.

She was a native of Washington, daughter of the late Edwin Markham and Mary Gilmore MacLeod. Mrs. Clift was educated at George Washington University and studied voice in New York and Berlin, Germany. She had sung with the choirs of several Washington churches.

Mrs. Clift was a member of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Episcopal Church. She belonged to the Chevy Chase Women's Club and the Daughters of the American Revolution and Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Her husband, who died in 1944, was a member of the Patent Office Board of Appeals. Surviving are two nieces, Miss Helen L. MacLeod of Washington and Mrs. Lawrence Hardy of Lexington, Mass., and two nephews, Edwin M. MacLeod of Takoma Park, Md., and Ellis MacLeod, a University of Maryland student.

Funeral services will be at 11 a. m. Friday at St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church, 16th and Newton sts. nw. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

T. J. Horrigan Suffers Fatal Heart Attack

Thomas J. Horrigan, 57, retired Department of Agriculture employe, died of a heart attack Tuesday at his home at 729 15th st. se.

A native of the District, Mr. Horrigan attended St. John's College here. He retired in 1948 as a senior mechanic with the Bureau of Plant Industry at Beltsville after 22 years' service.

Mr. Horrigan served with the Twenty-ninth Division in France in World War I and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Myrtle M. Horrigan, and two brothers, Dr. David E. Horrigan, Daytona Beach, Fla., and John F. Horrigan of Washington.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Friday at the Saffell Funeral Home, 475 H st. nw. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery with military honors.

R. L. Hickerson Dies; Was on County Board

Robert Lee Hickerson, former member of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners, died Tuesday at his Germantown (Md.) home following a heart attack. He was 85.

A lifelong resident of Montgomery County, Mr. Hickerson was a magistrate for 25 years, served on the County Board of Commissioners (1921-29) and was a charter member of the Germantown Grange, a member of the Farm Bureau and Montgomery Council of the Knights of Columbus.

He was born in Barnesville and attended academies in Darnestown and Rockville. His first position was as teacher in a one-room school in Brookeville, Md., after which he purchased a farm near Germantown, which he operated for 50 years.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Genevieve Boland Hickerson; three sons, Robert L. of Philadelphia, Charles Poole of Norfolk, Va., and Henry B. of Germantown, and two daughters, Miss Rachel E. of Washington and Miss Elinor M. of Germantown.

Requiem mass will be said at 9:30 a. m. Friday in St. Rose's Church, Clopper, Md. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Oswald Edert Dies; Was Retired Florist

Oswald Edert, 80, retired florist and gardener, died yesterday at his home at 101 Halley pl. se., after an illness of three months.

A native of Germany, Mr. Edert came to this country in his 20s, and lived briefly in Baltimore before moving to Washington.

He had his own florist shop here for a time, and later worked for a number of commercial florists. He spent 10 years as florist and gardener at Dumbarton Oaks, and 27 years in a similar capacity at the Army War College before his retirement in 1937.

A member of the Concordia Evangelical Reformed Church, he and his wife, Mrs. Johanna Edert, recently celebrated their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary. She is his only close survivor.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p. m. Friday at Chambers Funeral Home, 517 11th st. se. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Last-Minute Shoppers Still Have a Chance to Score With the Little Woman

By Evelyn Hayes

ARE YOU ONE of the last-minute shoppers who are now crowding the stores, finding your list too long and your time too short? If so, you'd better finish off that list today. To save you time and trouble (although it's more than late shoppers deserve) we're doing a quick go-round on last-minute gifts.

For several reasons, cosmetics or beauty gifts are a good last-minute idea. There's no question of size or color or becomingness to worry about. What's more, in many cases they come all wrapped so you don't have to lift a finger on that score. This I consider a small present to you!

IF YOU'RE STILL in a quandary about the teen-agers on your list, remember they all like cosmetics because such gifts make a young girl feel grown-up. Try toilet water or cologne in a light scent—such as Matchabelli's Duchess of York—at Raleigh Haberdasher. Another perfect gift for the plaid-mad teens is Elizabeth Arden's "Highland Beauty," a tartan make-up kit, lined with suede, containing lipstick and harmonizing Pat-A-Creme. Special note: there's a loop on the back of the case so it can be worn on a belt! At Woodward & Lothrop.

Teen-agers would also go for a perfume-bracelet—this a simulated gold or silver chain bracelet dangling a minute perfume atomizer (which they say is leak-proof)—and which could be filled with her favorite scent. (This would be a matter of a few drops!) Get this at Hecht's.

ALSO FOR the young—and that includes the ageless who are young in spirit—is a Matchabelli hat box topped with a little bow of veiling with two tiny crown stickpins holding tiny vials of Stradivari and Duchess of York—also at Hecht's.

One of our favorite gifts—last-minute or no—is Mary Chess' scented lacquer to perfume-paint the insides of bureau drawers and closets (How feminine can you get) at Jelleff's. This comes in a selection of Mary Chess distinctive scents—a gift for almost any girl at any age.

For the career girl there's a Charles of the Ritz luggage case fashioned of make-believe saddle leather, lined with waterproofed stuff—and holding everything a girl needs for cleansing the old face or putting on a new one—A really good gift, this will look as though you spent just weeks thinking it up—Woodward & Lothrop.

OR BUY HER a purse size flacon (the flacon is good looking, too!) of one of Dior's de luxe scents—Miss Dior or Diorama—at Garfinckel's—here you'll also find Hattie Carnegie perfumes and colognes, always fabulously packaged. The big bottles are beautiful pieces of crystal in themselves.

For the woman who always likes a surprise—Frances Denney has composed a Magic Song—this a book-like package containing bubble bath, cologne essence and sachet in Magic Song scent. She'll use the book-box for handkerchiefs, pins and this-and-that long after she has used up the contents. At Lansburgh's.

ALMOST ANY girl (indicating gender, not age!) would like a purse atomizer filled with Angelique's White Satin — this shaped like a Ronson lighter—at Raleigh Haberdasher. Then there's Dana's solid cologne which comes in a tube that looks like an oversized lipstick—gift-wrapped — it's own refill within — in Dana's well known Tabu and other scents. At Kann's.

In the oh! and ah! department: Elizabeth Arden's dream fountain, three little horses and a mini-fountain providing the Christmas stage-setting for a big bottle of Blue Grass. This at Elizabeth Arden's on Connecticut ave. Also at that shop is a Chirstmasy-decorated letter box with a nice haul of Blue Grass gifts. The box will be an unusual and useful catch-all box later on.

HOSIERY THESE days is definitely in the "beauty-gift" category and most welcome. There's a de luxe affair at Raleigh Haberdasher in rayon satin holding three pairs of sheer Tabarin hose—a plush gift, this. Or you might like to buy a hosiery case solo and let her choose her own hose. Hecht's has a nice three-section accordion case in pastel rayon satin with a matching handkerchief case. Can be used separately or together—both modestly priced.

And—for any woman on your list—any time of the year—there's the new glamorous Pullman slipper set at Garfinckel's. The little case is black quilted rayon satin lined with scarlet. The space-saving slippers, flattering concoctions of black lace elasticized so they fit many sizes, are the last word in comfort and yet as decorative as a Christmas bauble.

Live Baby Stars at Doll Luncheon

MISS LAURINDA STEELE, aged 2 months and 2 weeks, with a small bow in her wisp of hair, upset protocol at the Women's Advertising Club "baby doll" luncheon at the Washington Hotel yesterday.

To all intents and purposes she outranked Senora Rafael de la Colina, wife of the Ambassador of Mexico; Mme. Feridun Erkin, wife of the Ambassador of Turkey, and Mme. Thor Thors, wife of the Minister of Iceland. The three, who attended as honor guests, presented Miss Dorothy Carr, president of the club, with dolls to be given to children at St. Vincent's Orphanage.

Each club member also brought a "baby doll" for the St. Vincent children. But Mrs. Earle Steele brought her baby and, in a white satin bassinette trimmed in pink carnations and nursery-colored Christmas balls, she nearly stole the luncheon spotlight from the interesting dolls brought by Senora de la Colina, Mme. Erkin and Mme. Thors.

SENORA de la Colina brought a doll representing Chiapas, one of Mexico's 28 states, each of which has its own costume. This doll, a triumph of embroidery, wore a magnificently hand-embroidered dress, but even her hands and face were satin-stitched. Her black braids were a further embroidery-thread device. She supported on her head a miniature replica of the jicara, the dried out and painted pumpkin shell in which fruit or vegetables or water are carried by the natives.

A dancing girl was Mme. Erkin's contribution. This doll's elegant red chiffon costume is trimmed in sequin and gold embroidery. A silver belt with jewel-encrusted buckle about her waist caught her white blouse topped by a bolero jacket. She wore a great deal of jewelry—a sequin chain with pendant, "ruby" necklace, a ring and earrings. Her plaited hair was blonde and brunette. Mme. Erkin commented that contrary to popular opinion, there are many blondes in Turkey.

MME. THORS was unable to bring a doll in native dress, but the beauty she contributed made up in splendor what it lacked in native color.

THE SOROPTIMIST Club was entertaining children and elderly ladies yesterday at the same time the Women's Advertising Club was entertaining a baby.

At the club's annual Christmas Party at its Willard Hotel luncheon meeting, a group of children from the National Industrial Home and the residents of the Aged Home for Women were guests. The party was sponsored jointly by the Civics and Social Committees.

The children from the Industrial Home School numbered 16 and the aged home group were 12, the entire population of the home. Both children and aged were guests of the hotel for lunch, and were presented with such gifts as shoes and candy and individual presents by the Soroptomists.

Also present at the luncheon were August Mascaro, director of the Western Branch of the Washington Boys' Club with two of the boys, Cornelius Kelliher, 13, and Raymond Cox, 12.

MISS Carolyn McKnight, 11, a student of Mrs. Rose Robinson Cowen's Children's Studio, entertained the gathering with "Why the Chimes Rang."

CENTRAL UNION Mission childern sang Christmas carols at the Zonta Club's luncheon yesterday at the University Women's Club, 1515 New Hampshire ave. nw. At the meeting $65 was collected for the children's shoe fund. Additional money was set aside for the Aged Woman's Home, and a gift of spending money will go to each of the 12 residents.

Dr. Inez E. Wilber presided at the luncheon meeting and announced a party to be held at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Scates December 27.

Society Attends Reception Following All Saints' Ceremony

President Truman a Guest at Clifford Wedding

By Marie McNair and Elizabeth Maguire

PRESIDENT TRUMAN attended the wedding of Miss Margery Clifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Clifford, to Lieut. William H. Lanagan, jr., USMC, of Washington and San Francisco, in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday. Mr. Clifford, old friend of the First Family, is the President's former Special Counsel.

During the ceremony the President received an urgent message from the White House which necessitated his return to his office and prevented him from attending the reception at the Clifford home on the Rockville Pike. (Mrs. Truman had already left Washington to spend the Yule holiday in Independence, Mo.)

The Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry read the service at 4:30 p. m. and Mr. Clifford gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown, a Lanvin model of champagne satin and Alencon lace fashioned on princess lines with long sleeves ending in points over the hands.

Miss Anne Hadley, daughter of Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Vice President, was a bridesmaid. Others were Mlle. Sophie Mayer, niece of the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet; Miss Nancy Anderson, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson; Miss Helen Lanagan, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Termohlen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Termohlen; Miss Jane Lingo, daughter of Comdr. and Mrs. B. Harrison Lingo; Miss Marjorie Liddell Tauscher, Miss Nancy Clapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verner W. Clapp, all of Washington. Randall Clifford, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids and flower girl wore crisp gowns of apricot net made like that of the maid of honor; their hats were tulle with velvet leaves, and all attendants carried artificial African dairies.

Maj. Victor J. Barringer, USMC, of Washington and Fort Benning, Ga., served as best man. In the group of ushers were Marvin Braverman, Lieut. Samuel L. Eddy, jr., USMC, Lieut. Col. Robert F. Scott, USMC; George Elsey, George A. Horkan, John E. Horton, Marvin Coles, all of Washington, and Richard T. Brown, jr., of Philadelphia, cousin of the bridegroom.

TWO HEATED MARQUEES had been set up on the Clifford lawn for the reception—one as checkroom, the other for buffet tables, as well as a platform for dancing to Erwin Devron's music. Many of the more than 500 guests stayed for supper.

The bride's attendants, with the best man and ushers as partners, opened the dance with the just marrieds, tall blonde Gery and her taller, dark-haired husband, following them on the floor.

Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Vice President, at her first large party since she returned in November from Kentucky, received almost as much attention as the bride.

MRS. DEAN ACHESON, wife of the Secretary of State, was there and among others were the Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Brannan, Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson; Mrs. J. William Fulbright, Averell Harriman, Special Assistant to President Truman, Mrs. Estes Kefauver, and Mrs. Marquis Childs.

Among those seated at small supper tables which ringed the dance platform were Stuart Symington, chairman, National Security Resources Board, and Mrs. Symington; Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff, USAF, and Mrs. Vandenberg; Marine Commandant Gen. Clifton Cates and Mrs. Cates; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mrs. Millard Tydings, and the Postmaster General and Mrs. Jesse Donaldson.

THE BRIDE and bridegroom left for New York on their honeymoon and will go to Palo Alto, Calif., where they have bought a house. The bridegroom is stationed at Stanford University.

The bride attended George Washington University and studied music for the last year with Mme. Freschl in Philadelphia.

Lieutenant Lanagan, son of Mrs. William H. Lanagan and the late Colonel Lanagan, attended the University of California and Purdue University.

DEBUTANTE DOINGS:

PRETTY Katherine Floyd-Jones Sherman made her bow to society in Washington yesterday at a tea dance given by her aunt, Mrs. Frank Slingluff, at the Sulgrave Club.

Miss Sherman, who's a student at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N. Y., was introduced in New York on Thanksgiving Day at the Gotham Ball and will be presented again at the Debutante Assembly New Year's evening in New York.

Miss Sherman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Sherman, who live in Caracas, Venezuela. Mrs. Sherman is here for her daughter's debut and stood with Mrs. Slingluff and the debutante to greet the guests.

THERE WAS holiday atmosphere at the Sulgrave Club yesterday with red and white flowers on the tea table; ropes of cedar festooned up the stairs and scarlet poinsettias splashing color throughout the drawing room suite.

Miss Sherman—Tatina to family and friends—was charming in a bouffant white tissue taffeta frock made with strapless bodice and short sleeves. She held an arm bouquet of white carnations and white lilacs. Mrs. Slingluff and Mrs. Sherman both were in blue, the former wearing delphinium blue lace and the debutante's mother in ankle-length pale blue satin with a cluster of violets at the waist.

Mrs. Walter W. Stokes of Cooperstown, N. Y., aunt of Miss Sherman, came down for the party.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH BRYAN 3d gave a dance at the 1925 F Street Club last night to introduce to society their daughter, Miss Joan Bryan. Before the dance, the debutante's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barnes, formerly of Providence, R. I., entertained 40 guests at dinner in her honor.

Among the young people at both parties were Miss Sheilah Kane of New York, a classmate of Miss Bryan who is a freshman at Smith College; St. George Bryan 2d, brother of the debutante, who is a freshman at the University of Virginia, and his classmate, Richard Bullington of Richmond, Va.

TEN BUDS WERE presented last evening in one bouquet. As honor guests at the Junior Assembly's annual ball at the Sulgrave Club, the debutantes were presented by Miss Laura Belle Wyatt, chairman of the assembly.

Dressed in white and standing alphabetically, the 10 were Miss Sarah Woodley Alexander, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Alexander; Miss Caro Butler, daughter of Comdr. and Mrs. William Joseph Butler; Miss Louise Melissa Cahill, daughter of Mrs. James A. Cahill and the late Dr. Cahill; Miss Rose Antoinette Caudle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Lamar Caudle; Miss Sara Norfleet Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Given Dickinson; Miss Jane McAtee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camden Riley McAtee; Miss Betsy MacCubbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hobart MacCubbin; Miss Bette-Barron Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Smith; Miss Elizabeth Cortright Wetherill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wetherill; and Miss Sarah Daingerfield Zantzinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chew Zantzinger.

ARMIGER L. JAGOE, Mrs. Robert V. Kelley, J. Berry Wallace, Mrs. Jacques M. Kelly, Miss Flavia Lee, James T. Clark and Howard W. Smith, jr., members of the assembly's executive committee, also received with the honor guests.

The debutantes wore long white gloves and carried old fashioned red and white nosegays presented to them by the assembly. At midnight, a cotillion figure was danced to the tune of Eighteenth Century Drawing Room, and led by Miss Dickinson and Mr. Jagoe.

Debutantes and postdebutantes participating included Miss Cornelia Bingham, Miss Carol Cunningham, Miss Joyce Ebel, the Misses Winifred and Elizabeth McGowan, Miss Betsy Goodloe Porter and the Misses Helen and Eileen Walker. The post debs, who were honor guests at the 1949 ball and are now members of the assembly, wore black gowns to this year's ball.

After the cotillion a buffet supper was served from a table centered with red and white poinsettias, and punch was served in the drawing room.

POST-DEB luncheon hostesses yesterday were Sue Eileen Walker and Helen Griffith Clark Walker, who entertained at the Congressional Country Club yesterday in honor of Miss Dorethe Alexandra Parmly, debutante daughter of Col. and Mrs. Eleazar Parmly of West Point, N. Y., and granddaughter of Mrs. Elvin R. Heiberg of Washington.

Miss Nancy Ann Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Adams of Bethlehem, Pa., a Philadelphia debutante this year, shared honors with Miss Parmly.

Others were Cornelia Bingham, Patricia Williams, Betsy Goodloe Porter, Joan Pennington, Marilyn O'Neill, Carla Spaatz, Pearce Butler, Gwendolyn Fairlamb, Franchon Hinrichs, Ann Wilson, Georgianna Glenn, Sophie Buchanan, Elizabeth Boysen, Elizabeth Cortwright Wetherill, Rose Caudle, and Suzanne Post.

At another table Mrs. Ralph Walker, mother of the young hostess entertained for Mrs. Eleazar Parmly, Mrs. Harrison Slaughter, Mrs. James A. G. Pennington, and Mrs. Raymond D. Lewis.

MISS ELIZABETH MacCUBBIN, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hobart MacCubbin, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Watergate Inn.

Mrs. MacCubbin attended, and other guests — all this season's debutantes — included Barbara Cranston, Sally Robinson, Sue Ann Rouse, Louise Cahill, Caro Butler, Elizabeth Cortwright Wetherill, Suzanne Johnson, Margaret Woll Hines, Mary Ann Robb and Noel LaMotte.

PARTY PARADE:

Wives of officers and directors of the Board of Trade attended a tea given yesterday by Mrs. Thornton Washington Owen, wife of the board's president. The tea, held at Mrs. Owen's residence at 4 o'clock, was a preliminary to the tea which wives of Board of Trade members are planning January 4 in honor of wives of newly elected members of the House and Senate.

Assisting at Mrs. Owen's tea were Mrs. Thomas Groom, Mrs. Everett Boothby, Mrs. Leon Chatelain, jr., Mrs. Frederick P. H. Siddons, and Mrs. John A. Reilly. Other guests, numbering about 60, included Mrs. John L. McMillan, Mrs. Robert Freer, Mrs. E. D. Merrill, Mrs. Edward C. Baltz, Mrs. Dwight R. Russell Cooke, Mrs. Robert Fleming, Mrs. Francis Kane, and Mrs. C. J. Mack.

CONGRATULATIONS TO:

Word has come from Paris of the birth of a daughter last week to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bohlen. Mr. Bohlen, former Counselor of the State Department, now holds the rank of Minister at the American Embassy in France. The Bohlens have two other children, Avis and Charles.

Margaret Truman's Story:

Not Even Mr. Cupid Will Keep HST's Daughter From Singing

MARGARET TRUMAN says that not only is there no serious romance in her life at the moment, but that she couldn't even contemplate becoming seriously interested in a man who would want her to give up her career.

In an article by Barbara Heggie which tells "What Makes Margaret Sing," in the January Woman's Home Companion, the President's daughter states, "He'd have to understand how much it meant to me and not mind my being away on tours and all that sort of thing. There aren't many men like that."

But between Margaret and the altar there stands more than her career. She presents a specialized problem to any young man who'd like to take her dancing. There is not only the escort of Secret Service men, and the preliminary visit with Mrs. Truman in the parlor at Blair House, but also the fear that he will be suspected of ulterior motives.

"She misses a lot of beaux that way," a Washington deb told the author. "You know the President worries a good deal about it. More than once he's come right out and said that living in the White House is just about the biggest handicap a girl can have."

BUT MARGARET isn't spending as much time in "that old barn" since she made her professional singing debut. New York has been to Margaret a glorious escape into a life which has at last permitted her to pare her activities down to her one genuine enthusiasm, music.

And her enthusiasm is genuine the author discovered, though her career has been the center of a highly controversial discussion. Once, stung by a casual remark which seemed to imply that her singing was just a whim, Margaret's usual easy good humor cracked.

"Why would I be working so hard and cooking my own meals if I wasn't serious?" she snapped. "I not only don't like to cook, I loathe it!"

AS ONE FRIEND of the family put it, "If it had been possible for Margaret to start just as other young singers must start—on her own merits—she would have been only too delighted to do it."

As for Margaret's sentiments on this subject, she says, "You see, even when I was a very small girl I used to think of myself as the one who'd be famous. It was always Mother and Dad who were going to be proud of me."

Barbara Heggie says: "For years Margaret has been doing a slow burn over the conflict between public life and personal privacy. By preference she neither drinks nor smokes, but when Princess Margaret was criticized in the press for smoking she came instantly to her defense. 'Why shouldn't she smoke?" she demanded. 'They're her lungs, aren't they?' "

MARGARET revealed to the writer that she does not particularly enjoy returning to Washington where, as she says, she has to concentrate on watching her step all the time. However, she rewards her parents' unselfishness in letting her go her own way by spending every weekend she possibly can with them in Blair House.

For the 1950-51 season Margaret's tour includes 20 concerts. She gets $1500 for a recital and $3000 for a radio appearance.

Miss Louise Riggs to Be February Bride

The former Surgeon General of the Navy, Charles Edward Riggs, and Mrs. Riggs, announce the engagement of their daughter, Louise Catherine, to Dr. Roman Smoluchowski, son of Mrs. Marion Smoluchowski of Pittsburgh and the late Prof. Smoluchowski of Cracow, Poland.

Miss Riggs is the granddaughter of the late Arthur E. Pugh of Washington. She is a graduate of the National Cathedral School for Girls and during the war was with the American Red Cross in Italy. She is now on the editorial staff of "Physics Today" in New York.

Dr. Smoluchowski studied physics in Poland and Holland. After teaching at Princeton University he joined the General Electric Research Laboratory during the war. He is now a professor at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh. The wedding will take place in February.

Recently Divorced Man, Extreme Introvert by His Own Admission, Is Anxious About His Young Son's Growing Devotion to Another Man in Mother's Life

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My wife and I were divorced recently, tnough the decree isn't yet final. She was granted custody of our 7-year-old son, while I was given permission to see him or have him visit me as often as he or I desire.

Alice and Johnny, I'll call them, live about 100 mile from here, and due to my irregular professional hours, I am able to visit him only twice a month, and then only for a few hours, as I cannot afford the expense of a weekend stay at a hotel. When he and I are together I tell him stories and take him to ball games and movies, but I haven't much knack of being a pal, for I am an extreme introvert — frustrated, negative and depressed.

Johnny is his mother's pampered pet, needless to say; and she told me recently that, because he needs masculine companionship, she has taken a man as a paying guest to help with expenses. This man is a troubleshooter in the oil fields and a little on the rustic side. Alice met him through friends and now they go out together socially. I wouldn't be surprised if they marry after our divorce is final.

Johnny has become extremely attached to this fellow, I'll call him Bill, and tells me how much fun they have together. I am not jealous, exactly, but I do worry about the uncultured companionship and environment he provides my son. After only a short association, a marked crude change is showing in Johnny's manners and deportment.

My major problem is how to deeply develop and retain my son's respect, affection and confidence, when he sees me only twice a month. He comes to my present home, which is with my mother, only when I drive up to fetch him. I have asked him to come on the bus to save time, but he says he doesn't like to ride on the bus. Does this signify indifference to me? I am sure you realize how susceptible I am to such ideas, and how insecure I feel about his attachment to me. I know I badly need specialist counsel, but I am hardly able to meet my routine expenses, and shall be humbly grateful for any help you can give me.

R. P.

DEAR R. P.: The business of Johnny's hero worship of Bill is merely a peg of sorts on which you've lately draped your chronic depression and anxious conviction of being a failure as compared to average fellows—a problem that has been with you for many years, and that grows weightier as time goes on.

You are a troubled soul, a confused, conflicted, neurotic male, not yet emotionally weaned from a possessive dependent mother, it seems. Because of your immature personality, which is more infantile than adult, you weren't able to endure the demands of psychological closeness to wife and child. And furthermore, you involuntarily resented the burden of supporting them—an economic drain that seemed to subtract from your hopes of well being.

Thus the divorce from Alice was more of a relief than a heartbreak to you, but in the aftermath you are nagged by guilt feelings for having shunted off Johnny, indirectly; and your sense of guilt is proportionate to your secret sense of relief at shedding the mantle of parenthood. Best proof of your obscurely rejecting attitude towards Johnny is your "time-saving" proposal that he customarily travel 100 miles by bus to see you; and your concomitant failure to realize that such a journey is too much to wish on a 7-year-old already indefinably disturbed by a family smash-up.

However, it is an encouraging sign that you identify yourself as an extreme introvert, melancholy and insecure, definitely in no condition to be a pal to your son. A disposition to be honest with the self, about the self, is the first long stride towards mental health, when one is painfully mired in neurotic difficulties — as you are.

Furthermore, if a parent is a failure by conventional standards, yet is able to be self-accepting about it, not trying compulsively to excuse, deny or camouflage inglorious truths about his showing, not hostile to others' disapproval, nor bitterly discouraged with himself, etc., he has in that very attitude a certain dignity, a quality of composure that tends to win the heart of children. They incline to side emotionally with such a parent against his (or her) critics, if any; and to find him an exceptionally interesting personality, as they reach the age to be friends with him on an equal plane.

Johnny's hero-worship of Bill won't diminish his fondness for you, unless you fight his devotion to the other fellow, in which case the lad might withdraw from you psychologically, to safeguard the integrity of his feelings. As a matter of fact, the more Johnny likes people, the more menfolk he knows who are genuinely good hearted and trustworthy, the closer he'll feel to you in spirit as time goes on, regardless of whether he sees you much or little. But as you say, you need specialist help in handling fear—and my advice is to obtain it somehow, soon.

Experiment Grace

Pale Hands We Love Come From Real Care

By Ann Lawrence

(Eighth day of Grace's beauty program.)

WE ALL wish we had those pale hands the poet wrote about. No matter what our work is, one of the essentials of good grooming in well-cared-for hands.

Grace's hands had been getting the same treatment as the rest of herself. None. Remember, she paints her house (the outside, at that), wallpapers the rooms, works in the garden. All this with no more thought to her hands than a little cover-up polish once in a while.

Now that she wants steady work, she knows how her hands will be noticed—even in that first interview. No boss wants rough, toil-worn, broken-nailed hands fussing around his desk.

Because Grace's nails were so broken, it was impossible to shape them right now. The manicurist, however, evened them off, cleaned away the cuticle and put on a coat of polish—over a base coat, of course. For added protection, a shield coat of clear polish was applied.

When Grace's nails have grown a little, they will be given contour—which due to her typing (75 words a minute, if you please) will probably follow the natural line of her fingertips.

ON THE SUBJECT of her fingertips, Grace told us that during cold weather she has a great deal of difficulty with cracking. Dirt enters and then when the skin heals over, there are ugly streaks of black underneath. To combat this, it was suggested that she do the following: scrub her fingers with a brush and soapy water each night, dry them, then clean them again with cleansing cream to remove all the grime.

Then she will scrub them again and go to bed with a pair of porous fabric gloves soaked in oil—olive, castor or baby. This will help soften the skin and give the cracks a chance to heal thoroughly without sealing in dirt.

SMALL STATLER GUESTS—Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins, personnel director of the Statler Hotel, decided in 1945 that a nice Christmas project for the department's recreational council would be the dressing of dolls for needy children. Feminine Statler employes have been stitching away ever since. The dolls form a cross-section of the hundred which are being distributed to children in local institutions. Mrs. Perkins is holding an ermine-clad doll

Meet Tom Thumb's Bride

Santa Has Helpers on Sixteenth St.

By Flora Gill

THE BRIDE'S gown, of slipper satin, was fashioned with fitted bodice, full skirt, and seed-pearl-trimmed sleeves with pointed cuffs. Her veil fell from a matching satin cap and she wore heirloom pearls, probably a gift of the groom.

If there is a groom!

There was no groom of the proper size in the Statler Hotel yesterday for the bride happens to be a doll.

But there were a gypsy, and several ice skaters, and a number of other ladies, 100 in all, including the Queen of Hearts.

In 1945 Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins, the Statler's personnel director, decided that a worthy project for her department's recreational council would be the dressing of dolls for needy children. Ever since, the Statler's feminine employees have been stitching away during the Christmas season, elevator operators, waitresses, office girls, housekeepers, everybody.

Some dolls are blondes, some, brunettes. Otherwise they are fairly uniform—bought by the Recreation Council with funds set aside for the purpose. After being dressed, they are distributed to the children through various agencies.

SOME OF THIS year's dolls should be given only to a museum, for they're visual delights, much too elegant for handling. Nevertheless they will be played with, and by children in institutions suggested by the Post's Bill Gold. Bill listed, at Mrs. Perkin's request, the Industrial Home School Annex and District Training School in Laurel. Some dolls already have been distributed through the Soroptomist Club and through Bill Herson and Mrs. Perkins will deliver most of the others by cab today.

Only one doll will be reserved. This elegant creature, dressed and donated by a D. C. furrier, is larger than most of her sisters and, along with a handsome white lace gown, wears a great deal of fur, including a white ermine coat, with matching hat and muff. The details of her dress are meticulous—her gown has a workable zipper and her pearl necklace a workable rhinestone clasp. She is valued at $100, and Mrs. Perkins says proceeds from her sale will go to the Heart Fund, or a similar philanthropy.

But the other dolls go to little girls. The Queen of Hearts, for instance. The Queen and the bride and a straw-hatted doll were made by Statler employe Mrs. Virginia Norton, a seamstress. The Queen, like the bride, wears white satin, but has hearts strewn over her gown.

SPRING MILLINERY fashions in straw occur on the heads of two dolls dressed by Miss Margaret Faith, manager of the Statler's Coffee Shop.

Mrs. Gertrude Phillips, who works in the upholstery shop produced a creature of such elegance, that her pettiskirt would be a splendid gown for most debutantes—it has blue rosettes and embroidery and even a hand-tatted edge!

A WELL-DRESSED GYPSY, done by Mrs. Eva Monde, secretary to the housekeeper, wears a lace blouse, a black velvet bolero lined in gold lame and silk paisley print skirt.

Miss Jean Carroll of the sales office doesn't sew so she bought her doll's clothes. But she gave it a new hair-do—cut bangs and even groomed it with pomade.

Two Statler departments produced dolls on roller skates. Miss Lynette Weitzel, office manager of Capital Air Lines in the Statler, handknitted a complete outfit in pink and blue for her skater—sweater and jumper and cap. Mrs. Nora Allen, telephone supervisor, dressed her skater in pink and white polkadot cotton with blue bolero jacket and pink bows in her hair.

Dollar Bill Won't Smell Exactly Like a Lily, but May Be More Welcome

DEAR ANNE:

I am planning to give my sister some money for Christmas and wonder if you can suggest any novel way to present it to her. Could I make a corsage of it, and how?

T. H. P., Bethesda, Md.

How about making a calla lily corsage of new dollar bills? Fold each bill in half, crosswise, then twist it into funnel shape and hold with Scotch tape. Next, wrap yellow yarn or gold foil paper around one end of a pipe cleaner until it reaches the thickness of a pencil and extends about 1½ inches in length. Push unwrapped end down through funnel opening, allowing the yellow end to stick up at the top as does the spike of the lily. Group the bills to form a corsage and tie with yellow and green ribbon. Use a small round lace paper mat as backing for your bouquet if you wish.

DEAR ANNE:

In the Thanksgiving article on Pennsylvania Dutch cookery in The Post, reference was made to the sampling of cookies baked by the mother of the boys, but no recipe for cookies was given. Will it be possible to give us some of these recipes, which we hope will include a Moravian favorite?

V. S. DeB., Washington.

MONDEL SCHNITZ

½ cup sugar
¾ cup flour
½ teaspoon lemon extract (or juice of ½ lemon)
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs
2 tablespoons ice water
2 tablespoons sugar for topping

Almonds need not be blanched. Merely slice finely. Sift flour and baking powder together. Cream eggs and sugar thoroughly. Add extract and water. Beat hard. Add sliced nuts and flour. Beat lightly until thoroughly mixed. Pour into greased 8x8-inch cake pan. Sprinkle sugar over top. Bake in moderate oven until brown. Cool in pan. When cool, cut in slices.

MORAVIAN CHRISTMAS COOKIES

8 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon ginger
2¼ cups brown sugar
2 cups shortening
1 quart molasses

Sift flour, soda, salt and spices together. Add sugar and mix well. Work in the shortening with a pastry blender or two knives. Add molasses and vinegar and mix thoroughly. Chill. Roll very thin on floured board and cut with fancy cookie cutters. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Makes 150 cookies.

PETUNIA!

A little paint, a print or two—
It doesn't take a lot
To give a little sparkle
To an awkward, empty spot!

Right, Petunia! When you paint the space between your windows darker, it's a fine background for your favorite pictures.

Bank Declares Extra, Elects 2 to Board

By S. Oliver Goodman

Directors of the National Bank of Washington yesterday declared an extra dividend of 3 percent, the first extra for the institution in more than 15 years.

Also announced was the election of Edward Costigan and H.

Custigan

Murphy

Gabriel Murphy to the board of directors.

The regular semiannual divident of 3 percent also was declared. Both disbursements are payable January 2 to stock of record December 20. The "melon" for stockholders reflects progress of the bank since stock control changed hands in mid 1949. Deposits as of October 4, 1950, were in excess of 84 million dollars and loans showed a sharp increase.

The two new directors are additions to the board, making a total of 11.

Costigan is president of Corson and Gruman, paving contractors in Washington. He has been a resident here for 60 years. He is a director and secretary of Fort Lincoln Cemetery, a director of National Kaolin Co. of Macon, N. C., and is active in the Knights of Columbus, Elks, Board of Trade and the Rotary Club.

Murphy is an insurance executive and just last June purchased a large minority interest in the Washington Baseball Club. He is on the team's board of directors and is also a member of the board of Emergency Hospital and Dumbarton College. A graduate of Georgetown University, he served from 1931 to 1941 as its graduate manager of athletics.

FORGE ELECTION: John N. Smith, jr., advertising and promotion manager of the Bureau of National Affairs Inc., has been elected president of the National Capital Forge of the American Public Relations Association. Other new officers include John T. O'Brien, vice president; Howard P. Hudson, secretary, and Francis P. James, treasurer. Named to the board were Warner H. Hall and Edward R. Place.

PROMOTIONS: John R. Neale and James F. Willett, assistant vice presidents of the American Security & Trust Co. have been promoted to vice presidents. Both are natives of Washington and have been associated with the bank since 1930 and 1929, respectively. Also announced by President Daniel W. Bell were the promotions to assistant trust officers of Henry E. Foulds, Malvern F. Morse, Alfred T. Souder and Jesse S. Cheyney.

Neale

ELECTED TO BOARD: Three new directors were elected by members of the Northern Virginia Automotive Dealers Association for 1951. They are J. Leo Sugrue, Alexandria; Harold Erwin, Fairfax, and Walter Eyles, Arlington. C. H. Mason, Alexandria, was reelected to serve as the group's representative at director meetings of the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

PLANE ORDER: A 16-million-dollar order for 10 Super Constellations has been placed by Trans World Airlines with the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Delivery is scheduled for the spring of 1952. The new airliners will be larger and more powerful, according to TWA President Ralph S. Damon. They will seat 75 passengers and advanced air conditioning and cabin pressurization will enable them to fly 5000 feet higher than the present Constellation.

NEW OFFICERS: C. Carney Smith of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. was elected president of the D. C. General Agents and Managers Life Insurance Association. Other new officers include J. Mitchell Owens, Hancock Life, vice president; William J. Haggerty, Occidental Life, secretary-treasurer. Elected directors for a two-year term were Nathan Bushnell, Prudential, and Charles Rice, Mutual Life of New York.

ODD LOTS: District Wholesale Drug Corp. and Brenner Photo Co. announced Christmas bonuses will be distributed to employes . . . Cast Iron Soil Pipe Institute will open offices at 1627 K st. nw., after January 1 . . . Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index rose 3 cents this week to $6.80, highest level since September 20, 1948 . . . Kaiser-Frazer Corp., announced a new line of custom-styled Kaiser models to be known as the "Golden Dragon" series . . . Ben Wright has resigned as public relations director of American Airlines to accept an executive position with Field and Stream magazine . . . Automobile Manufacturers Association estimates this year's auto output at 8,015,750 units, 30 percent above last year's record.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (AP).—Grains recovered today from an early case of jitters induced by the Government's order setting "voluntary" price ceilings at December 1 levels.

The market sold off for fair-sized losses during the morning, practically all the selling being attributed to the price ceiling order. Later, short-covering, buying on the part of export houses and reinstatement of sold out long positions sparked a rally.

Wheat closed ¼ to ½ higher; corn, ⅛ lower to ½ higher; oats, ¼ lower to ⅛ higher; rye 1¾ to 2½ lower; soybeans, ⅛ to 1¼ lower, and lard, 30 to 38 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Agricultural products were not mentioned in the Government's price ceiling order. However, some traders thought it possible that finished goods made from agricultural raw materials might come under the order's provisions.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 2.10 a bale lower to 2.30 higher today in an erratic trading session marked by wide price swings.

Soon after the opening the market was engulfed by a wave of liquidation, touched off by the request by the Economic Stabilization Agency for voluntary freeze of all prices at levels prevailing December 1, 1950. Losses extended to about 18 a bale and then prices quickly snapped back more than 13 a bale as mills entered the market aggressively to cover contracts against textile operations. By the close, prices were as much as 85 a bale above the lows of the day.

The majority opinion among dealers was that price freeze applies to cotton goods and not to raw cotton or cotton futures. This sentiment appeared to help the market.

Rising Prices On War Goods Stir Senators

By The Associated Press

Skyrocketing costs of many defense articles were shown yesterday in a statement by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The committee said it was "profoundly disturbed" by inflation.

It said Defense Secretary Marshall had submitted a report showing that higher prices on many military items had already cut the dollar value of defense funds by some three billion dollars since the Korean war began June 25.

The cost of 11 basic materials jumped an average of 72.3 percent from April to December, 1950, it was claimed.

Aviation gasoline increased as much as 3.2 percent on the Gulf Coast and 14 percent on the West Coast, said the committee, giving these other figures on increases over the last six or eight months:

Army—Tires, up 38.3 percent; Bailey bridges, 37 percent; khaki trousers, 30.8 percent; combat boots, 42.4 percent; wool cloth, 39.8 percent.

Navy—Wire rope, up 100 percent; mattresses, 65.5 percent; sheets, 50.7 percent; smoke shells, 55.8 percent.

Air Force—Height finder, up 38.9 percent; parachutes, 51.7 percent; cargo chutes, 39.9 percent.

The report said the Army paid $33.18 in December for a tire that cost $23.99 in April, and 68.1 cents for wool socks that cost 57.5 cents in April.

In an even shorter period—from August to December—the price of Navy mattresses jumped from $8 to $13.23, and sheets from $1.50 to $2.26.

An Air Force flying jacket that cost $16.50 in April went up to $25 in December, the report said.

Reflecting fears of greater inflation ahead, the committee called on the Defense Department to speed up all buying orders.

Marine Reserve Captain Awarded Silver Star Medal

An Arlington man—captain in the Marine Corps Reserve—has been awarded a Silver Star Medal by the Marines for bravery in the battle of Iwo Jima.

Clapp

He is John B. Clapp, 38 of 4613 28th rd. s,. Arlington, now a Government employe. The award is the Marines third highest honor.

Wounded by a shell, Clapp voluntarily returned to his command after less than a day's hospitalization. He led his men on an attack against heavy enemy opposition and was wounded a second time.

Married, Clapp has a daughter. His home originally was La Jolla, Calif., although he attended grade and high schools here, and the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service.

N. J. Standard Pre-Pays 50 Million in Notes

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) announced today it will pre-pay fifty million dollars in notes payable to banks.

The company said it would pre-pay the sum, which constitutes all of the company's 1¾ percent notes payable to banks now outstanding, on December 26.

The notes were issued in August, 1945, and were scheduled for maturity as follows: five million dollars each in August, 1952; August, 1953, and August, 1954, and 35 million dollars in August, 1955.

4 Children, Mother Killed At Crossing

GRANDVILLE, Mich., Dec. 20 (AP).—A 31-year-old mother and four of her five children, out on a Christmas shopping expedition, were killed today in a train-automobile collision.

The fifth child, a 9-year-old boy, survived the crash but was injured critically.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Kathlyn Smith, of nearby Jenison, three sons, Boyd, 12, Larry, 10, and Donald, 4, and a daughter, Sandra, 7.

Young Leroy Smith was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids, six miles away.

The family's car was struck by a Chesapeake & Ohio train and dragged a quarter of a mile under a viaduct.

Margaret Truman About to Sign Radio-TV Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—An official of the National Broadcasting Company said today that Margaret Truman is about to sign a long term exclusive contract to appear on radio and television.

Vice President Charles Barry of NBC said it will lead to a "show of her own."

The contract was reported to give the President's daughter $200,000 a year.

"Well," said Barry, "she'd have to work pretty hard for that, but it's possible."

Variety, entertainment newspaper, said Miss Truman would receive $4000 a performance under the contract.

She would appear on NBC's Sunday night "Big Show" several times and would make television guest appearances.

"From this, we hope to develop a show of her own," Barry said.

Catholic University Press yesterday announced that it will issue some time in January "The Story of the National Catholic School of Social Service, 1918-47."

Indecency Charged

Johnson Aide Goes On Trial

Two vice squad officers testified yesterday that they watched Earl R. Howsam, administrative assistant to Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.), commit an indecent and obscene act in the Lafayette Park comfort station October 15.

The Government concluded its case against the 35-year-old former Air Force captain and airline pilot late yesterday afternoon.

Defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams asked Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott for a directed verdict of acquittal because the information charged Howsam committed the obscene act "with force and arms." No showing of force was made, Williams claimed. Judge Scott took the motion under advisement until 10:30 today, when the trial resumes.

Officer Louis A. Fochett testified that he watched Howsam commit the obscene act for six minutes shortly after 1 a. m. on October 15. Officer Alphonso A. Ciotola testified he witnessed the obscene act in Fochett's absence for 10 minutes.

In his opening statement to the jury, Williams said his client had suffered a smashed pelvic area in a wartime accident that resulted in a severe bladder injury.

Howsam had been drinking constantly during the 11 hours preceding his arrest, Williams said.

Ciotola testified that Howsam said he was in "perfectly good health" immediately after he was arrested.

60-Cent Butter Sold To Italy at 15 Cents

The Agriculture Department announced yesterday the sale of 5,500,000 pounds of Government-owned butter to Italy for relief feeding in that country.

The butter was sold for 15 cents a pound. It cost the Government slightly more than 60 cents. It was bought under a dairy price support program.

The sale was made at a time when Government stocks of butter are declining rapidly. Because current production is inadequate to supply consumer demands, distributors are buying large quantities from the Government to make up the deficit in the market supply.

Military Construction Bill Passed by House

The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday legislation authorizing $1,600,000,000 of military construction to strengthen bases at home and overseas.

Some of the projects are highly secret and their nature has not been disclosed.

Money for many of the projects—rushing work on the Nation's "radar screen," building links in global communications, lengthening airfields—is contained in the $16,844,000,000 second rearmament bill passed last week by the House.

Reuther Would Reject Senate Seat, He Says

Walter P. Reuther, 43-year-old president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, yesterday told a news conference he is content in his present job and would not take a Senate seat even though a vacancy developed and a seat were offered him.

Reuther denied reports that Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan planned to appoint him to the United States Senate in the event Republican Senator Vandenberg should resign because of ill health.

VFW Post Proposes Truman Impeachment

LA MESA, Calif., Dec. 20 (AP).—An official of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post here said it had adopted a resolution proposing impeachment of President Truman.

James D. McCaffrey, past president of the post, added that the action was on the ground that new leadership was needed to meet the international situation. He said the resolution was sent to national VFW headquarters.

D. C. Architect To Aid Plans For Dispersal

Louis Justement, Washington architect, is one of four experts named yesterday to help formulate the Government's dispersal program.

The program appears to be dead for this session of Congress but will be resubmitted in January when action is likely.

Others named as consultants to General Services Administrator Jess Larson were Dr. Abel Wolman, professor of sanitary engineering at Jonhs Hopkins University, Baltimore; Clarence S. Stein, New York City architect and city planner, and Frederick P. Clark, planning director of the Regional Plan Association of New York.

Stein this week testified on the dispersal bill and called for a complete plan to cover not only office buildings but housing and related facilities such as schools.

R.F.&P. Accident Delays Riders To Washington

DOSWELL, Va., Dec. 20 (AP).—A northbound R.F.&P. freight train jumped its track near here late today and necessitated the re-routing of all passengers over other routes.

About 15 cars were derailed but no one was injured. Both lines of the R.F.&P. tracks between here and Richmond were tied up by the accident, the cause of which could not be determined.

The wreck scene was a few miles south of this Hanover County community.

Southbound passengers were transferred to the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad to be taken into Richmond. Similarly, northbound passengers traveled over the C. & O. from Richmond to here and then were transferred back to the R.F.&P. lines for their trips to Washington and other points.

Husband, 62, Convicted Of Wife Murder in 1933

Wabasha, Minn., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—A 62-year-old man was convicted tonight on charges of murdering his wife 17 years ago.

A jury returned the guilty verdict against Charles Lorenz after 26 hours of deliberation. Lorenz was sentenced to life in prison.

Lorenz was charged with shooting his wife, Louise, in 1933. Her death was listed as accidental until Lorenz made a confession to the murder last summer after being arrested on charge of assault. Later, he repudiated the confession.

Methodists to Offer Peace Prayers Dec. 31

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20 (AP).—The Methodist Church's general board of evangelism today called on churches throughout the country to unite in a "mid-century prayer for peace" on December 31.

The board said a letter calling for the special day of prayer went out to pastors of 42,000 Methodist churches embracing almost nine million members. It urged pastors and congregations to "help forge a chain of prayer, beseeching God's guidance in converting a world crisis to a just and lasting peace."

S. C. Distiller Becomes A Man of Distinction

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Toby Husser, 59, arrested in over-alls at a whisky still 45 miles north of here, wore a tuxedo at his arraignment today before United States Commissioner E. P. Ravenel.

"I always try to look my best before city folks," he explained.

Vargas to Go Informal

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—President-elect Getulio Vargas said today he will break precedent and wear a business suit for his inauguration January 31. Use of the traditional dress suit and top-hat "does not fit the Rio de Janeiro climate," Vargas explained.

Arlington Asks Special Session On Defense Aid

The Arlington County board last night decided to ask for a special session of the Virginia General Assembly to appropriate money for civilian defense purposes.

The board's motion requested Gov. John S. Battle to call the session if no State contingency funds are available.

The motion was made by board member Mrs. Florence Cannon. She warned that "time is growing short."

Her motion came after County Manager A. T. Lundberg said that "according to our information, no funds are available on the State level for civilian defense."

Earlier, the board voted unanimously to appropriate $1000 to buy and distribute 35,000 booklets to Arlington residents, telling what to do in case of an atomic attack.

In another action, board members voted 3-2 to pay $160,000 for 35 acres of land between Shirlington and Fairlington, west of Shirley hwy., for future use as a county park.

The land, which according to latest assessment figures has a market value of more than $600,000, would be a "gift" to the board from Mark Winkler, a Washington real estate man, encumbered by a trust of $160,000.

The board agreed to pay off the trust by December 31, 1952. According to the agreement with Winkler, 25 acres of the property would be turned over to the county at once, with the remaining 10 acres to be deeded over a 10-year period.

Voting against the appropriation were board members F. Freeland Chew and Alfred E. Frisbie. Chew said, "There are more crying needs in Arlington than this."

Chimp Film Star, Pal of Tarzan, Critically Burned

DARLINGTON, S. C., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Cheeta, the Chimpanzee star of the Tarzan films, was critically burned today and firemen said they were almost sure it was all because Cheeta played with matches.

Cheeta was brought here in a station wagon for a personal appearance. The driver left the car and a moment later noticed smoke pouring from Cheeta's cage.

The chimp was rushed to an animal hospital at nearby Hartsville, S. C., but the burns looked bad. The veterinarians said Cheeta has only a slim chance to live.

Rosie The Riveter Is Back in Jeans

BALTIMORE, Dec. 20 (AP).—Rosie the Riveter—the overtime gal in the blue jeans who helped shoulder America's World War II defense effort—is coming back in increasing numbers.

At least in the Baltimore area, her sisters are busy swapping their peek-a-boo veils for welders' helmets in more than one important industry. Officials of various firms say manpower shortages brought on by production expansion and accelerating military requirements are being met by hiring more and more women.

Barkley, 20 Pounds Off, Reports in 'Fine Shape'

Vice President Alben W. Barkley, minus a bad cold and 20 surplus pounds, reported himself in "fine shape" yesterday after completing a month's part-time physical check-up at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The "Veep" said he has cut his weight from 210 to 190 pounds at the advice of navy doctors. He is shunning candy, he said, and hopes to shed another five pounds.

Dies After Plant Blast

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—A one million dollar explosion and fire tore through the Etiwan fertilizer plant near today and caused the death of one workman. George Norris, 60-year-old employe, died of a heart attack a few moments after the blast.

Richard P. Dunn To Head Phase Of Red Cross Drive

Richard P. Dunn, director and president of Julius Garfinckel & Co., Inc., has been named chairman of the special gifts committee for the 1951 Red Cross campaign for Greater Washington, Everett J. Boothby, general chairman, said yesterday.

Dunn

Dunn, who lives at 3901 Fordham rd. nw., came to Washington in 1931 as a general partner in the firm of Auchincloss, Parke & Redpath. This year he became a limited partner with that firm. He also is a director of Brooks Brothers and of the A. De Pinna Co., New York.

He has been active in past Red Cross campaigns and has also served with the Community Chest and the Cancer Society. He is a past president of the Princeton Club of Washington and a former governor of the Investment Bankers of America.

Walter Winchell . . . In New York

Daredevil Angels of Press

Marguerite Higgins' up-front reportage in Korea was deservedly applauded in Life recently and in the opposition papers . . . She is back there now recording the agony of her countrymen . . . Her bravery was duly noted by American commanders in the field . . . She told intimates (on her recent holiday in New York) that her most cherished tribute is the respect of fellow-correspondents . . . Last night several newsmen and women lifted their glasses in a toast to Marguerite Higgins, whose accomplishments in Asia and Europe brighten journalism's pages.

There have been many other darlings of the press, whose exploits will never be forgotten by fourth-estate historians . . . Polly Pry, for instance, of the Denver Post . . . One day a demented killer charged into the city room and emptied his six-shooter all over the place . . . The men dived under desks and behind posts as bullets whizzed by . . . One frightened editor swooned . . . But not lovely looker Polly . . . She pounced on the madman, pinning him down, and held onto his revolver until the staffers emerged from their hiding to subdue him.

The old Daily Mail's contrib to newspaper legends was a peppery doll named Rheta Dorr . . . Visitors at the Mail offices were startled to see Rheta striding around in a military uniform—which she won the hard way . . . Miss Dorr not only covered the Bolshy blowup—she also took an active part in the revolution . . . Rheta joined a battalion at Petrograd and marched into action . . . Over half of the battalion ended up as casualties—but Rheta lived to make journalistic history.

One of Horace Greeley's most flamboyant staffers was Jane Swisshelm. She was a nerveless gal who went in for crusading—allowing nothing to stand in the way of snaring a good story . . . While carrying out assignments she was slugged, knocked down a flight of stairs and had one of her legs fractured during a riot . . . Just to give you an idea of the type of gal Janie was: One of the pets in her home was a panther.

Another journalistic exciter was Winifred Black. She covered floods, earthquakes and riots—overcoming hazards which would make strong men shiver. She visited leper colonies and had herself committed to hospitals in order to expose inhuman conditions . . . But Winnie's mightiest feat was rising in the Hearst ranks from reporter to managing editor at the turn of the century—the time when a maiden was considered adventurous if she dared expose an ankle.

Mazie Clemens was a Big Town headline hunter, who nailed numerous hides to her typewriter . . . Many politicians (with their hands in the till) were exposed by Mazie, whose documented evidence sent them to jail . . . Her scoop-specialty consisted of crashing prisons (in disguise) to get exclusive interviews with convicts . . . That reminds us of newsgal Mary Knight, who was "barred" from witnessing the execution of a French Politico . . . Lady reporters were not allowed . . . She put on male apparel and walked in with the men . . . Annie Cutler once put the spotlight on the panhandling racket by posing as a beggar for a week. The money she collected as a mendicant was more than her salary! Some fun.

Elenore Kellogg was one of the top trouble-shooters. Wherever there was a newsworthy ruckus you could find Elenore . . . During a Communist-incited riot where 200 persons were injured—she remained in the midst of swinging fists and clubs calmly scribbing notes . . . She interviewed killers shortly before their execution—and copped several front-page banners via canny queries which trapped crooks into confessions.

Dauntless newsgals have never shunned danger if it meant getting an interesting yarn . . . Irene Kuhn once went up with a stunt pilot and shared his aircrobatics during the days when planes were about as sturdy as kites . . . It was Irene's initial plane trip . . . She risked her life so that readers could experience her tingles the following day—when she was earning next-to-nothing per week.

Sadie Miller covered baseball for Baltimore gazettes during the early 1900s and later served as a foreign correspondent in South America . . . Her reports about banana republic revolutions were models of colorful yarn-twisting . . . While photographing battle action, a bullet smashed her camera. That taught Sadie a lesson . . . The next time La Miller covered a battle—she arrived on the scene equipped with two cameras.

Newsgal Betty Thompson once crashed the room of an escaped convict who was shooting it out with police and was knocked cold with the butt of his gun . . . The yarn has a sad ending: While Betty was being revived, the police riddled the convict and her competitors scooped her on the story.

Elsie McCormick broke into the newspaper field as a crime reporter in Oakland . . . Newsmen on the same beat ignored her and went out of their way to make things unpleasant . . . But Our Heroine surmounted all obstacles . . . She finally earned the respect of her colleagues—by scooping them on three straight yarns.

During World War II a group of lady correspondents were chosen to tour an Army hospital . . . Reporter Meyer Berger strolled over to the uniquely tagged newsgal, India McIntosh, and said: "Let's not go with that outfit. It's nothing but a bunch of women except for you and me."

The supreme accolade for femme reporters was the remark uttered by the Daily Mirror's Ara Piastro when a cop tried to stop newsgals from covering a story he considered perilous.

Ara snapped: "These aren't women—they're reporters!"

Color TV Claim By Set-Maker Denied by CBS

CHICAGO, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Ross D. Siragusa, president of the Admiral Corporation, said today the Columbia Broadcasting System offered to sell Admiral its color television system last year, but he turned it down "because we did not then think it was the answer to color for television and we have seen nothing since to change our opinion."

Upon learning of Siragusa's statement to the Investment Analysts Club, CBS President Frank Stanton announced in New York that he had telephoned the Admiral president "to say that I had never made Admiral such an offer."

The CBS system, Siragusa said, has "many inherent limitations, as far as future development goes, because it is a mechanical rather than an electronic system." In addition, CBS color telecasts cannot be received even in black and white on existing sets without expensive adaptation, he said.

On the other hand, Siragusa said, Radio Corporation of America's demonstration of all-electronic color broadcasting achieved outstanding results in the opinion of practically every observer.

"Most important, the demonstration proved conclusively that we can have color telecasting which can be received in excellent black and white on today's 10,000,000 receivers without so much as the turn of a screw."

Siragusa estimated that, if the Federal Communications Commission lifts the freeze on additional TV stations, and if we do not get into total war, "TV service will be available to 90 percent of the American public within five years and surely will be within 10 years.

Slot Machine Ban Is Voted by House, Sent to Truman

The House yesterday sent to President Truman the bill to ban interstate shipment of slot machines. A voice vote approved the conference report on the measure.

Under the bill such states as Nevada and Maryland, where the one-armed bandits are legal statewide or by county option, will have to pas new laws if any more machines are to enter. Nor can any machines needing repair be shipped back to the manufacturers—al lin Chicago—until the new state law is passed.

Presidential approval is considered certain since the bill originated at the Attorney General's Crime Conference here last Feburary. It also has the endorsement of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee. The law becomes effective on signature.

Fire in Somerset, Ky., Destroys Business Block

SOMERSET, Ky., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—A fire which caused damage estimated at one million dollars to $1,500,000 to Somerset's main business block was brought under control today after a nine-hour battle.

The blaze destroyed two department stores, a barber shop and a restaurant.

Video Held an Aid To Mental Patients

By Horace B. Ward

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP).—Television is doing more to help patients at Kentucky's Central State Hospital for the mentally ill than anything else, outside of professional treatment, says Dr. A. M. Lyon State commissioner of welfare.

The aid of television treatment of the mentally ill was discovered quite by chance, Dr. Lyon explains.

A Louisville American Legion post gave a television set to one of the wards. Listeners to a radio program over a Louisville station donated money for another receiver and half the price of a third. A surplus in the hospital's canteen fund was used to make up the remaining cost.

SO STARTLINGLY VALUABLE have been the results that the hospital has squeezed the money for 12 more from the canteen profits. Dr. Lyon's objective is to have a television set in every one of Lakeland's 33 wards by Christmas.

"As most people know, many mental patients are in a dream world," Dr. Lyon explains. "The fictitious events going on in their minds are more real to them than events in the world of reality.

"Television seems to take many of these patients out of that dream world, temporarily at least. The only explanation I can give is that it helps to crowd out their hallucinations as mere spoken words cannot do."

Dr. Lyon points out that most of us are eye-minded more than ear-minded and that insane persons often exaggerate that tendency. He concludes that television crowds out the "movies in their brains" which set them off from normal people.

With one exception there were crowds in front of the television set in every ward visited. A few patients still sat around the walls, but most were watching the events on the television screen with lively interest and pertinent comment.

Men watching sports events shouted approval or disapproval of good or bad plays or of officials' decisions. If there was a "girlie" show, the men whistled or called, as any group of men would do.

DR. LYON says it is too early to evaluate the results of television. He anticipates some diminishng of its revolutionary effects when the novelty wears off, but he thinks it will continue to be a valuable aid in treating mental ills.

Television is only one of a number of recreational devices recently installed at Lakeland. A pubic address system, also donated by listeners to a radio program, pipes radio programs into all wards, as well as records and "live" programs. One of these is the Sunday church service.

The hospital recently bought 50 checker board sets, 10 of Chinese checkers, 40 boxes of dominoes and 50 decks of Canasta cards. One employe has devoted part time for three months teaching Canasta in the wards and sponsoring a Canasta tournament. There are two pool tables and two for table tennis.

Twelve student nurses and two full-time recreation leaders encourage patients to try their hands at playing other card games and in working out puzzles, drawing and painting and doing knitting and quilting.

A Literary and Arts Club meets twice a month. Patients present programs of book reviews, music and debates. And a staff of patients, assisted by employes, puts out a monthly newspaper.

In summer, of course, there are soft ball, tennis, croquet and other outdoor games.

For Once, Keneipp Can Plead 'Not Guilty'

"Your items about Traffic Director George Keneipp almost convince me that he's a reasonable man," writes K. J. Winiarski of 1435 N st. nw.

"Please ask him why the Mount Vernon hwy. approach to the new 14th st. bridge is three lanes wide at the bottom and only one lane wide at the top. If it had been built wide all the way up, it wouldn't now be a bottleneck."

The answer is twofold. In the first place, you can't blame this one on Keneipp because he didn't design the bridge or its approaches. In the second place, the approach in question was specifically planned as it is for a reason.

Traffic which swings off Mount Vernon hwy. toward the bridge must "get out of the way" without slowing up other cars on this high-speed road.

On the other hand, autos moving from the approach lane into the stream of traffic headed toward the bridge must come out one at a time—not two or three abreast. Otherwise, high-speed traffic on the upper road would be disrupted.

The solution, therefore, is to make something of a bottleneck out of the approach lane, sucking vehicles rapidly off the first road and feeding them slowly into the second.

FAUST EXPRESS?

Rhymster Mary Ellen turns to prose to give Capital Transit a Christmas present calculated to make everybody happy. She writes:

"The gist of complaints from riders is that they have no choice in the matter of Transit Radio. It's a case of hear or hike.

"My idea is for special program buses catering to everybody's listening pleasure.

"I can see them now—Franz Lehar buses waltzing down our avenues; be-bop buses jittering along; rabbit ears and cotton tails on streetcars for children; designs of Valkyries on the Wagner trolleys; and, of course, white "Whisper" buses, with "Silence" signs at either end.

"Capital Transit could not only end the Transit Radio controversy with my idea, but also give a wonderful excuse to husbands who stay downtown for one too many with the boys. A man could come home and say: 'Honey, I'm a wreck. I missed the Strauss bus and had to take a Debussy all the way.'"

IN PEACE AND WAR

In its early days, the house at 602 Cameron st. in Alexandria was occupied by the Lawrence Washington family.

It was 8 years old when the War of 1812 was fought, and by the time the Mexican War broke out its bricks and timbers were already mellowed with age. It had seen 57 years roll past by the time Confederate forces fired on Fort Sumter, and had reached a venerable age of 94 when the destruction of the Maine sent Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders into action at San Juan Hill.

The first and second World Wars found the high-ceilinged rooms at 602 Cameron st. still intact, and still as comfortable and livable as ever — a century-and-a-half-old example of the American tradition of gracious living.

Then came the Korean War, and once again Fort Belvoir started preparing young men for the fighting fronts. And residents of Alexandria noted the lack of downtown recreational facilities for the boys.

Around town, there was deep concern; then serious discussion. A committee was formed. Without publicity, without fanfare, the committee went to work.

Alexandria businessmen were approached. "We can get 602 Cameron st. at a ridiculously low rental from its present owner, the YWCA," they were told. "But we'll need a lot more than rent money. Will you help?"

Wherever they've gone, they've gotten a warm welcome. A radio, a record player, and odd bits of furniture started coming in. Rugs, lamps, chairs, tables, and a sofa or two will probably be along in a few days—all gifts of Alexandrians.

But District Liners may have to lend a helping hand. In all Alexandria, it seems, nobody has a big coffee urn to spare—and what's a serviceman's home without coffee?

Notice I called it a "home." No Stagedoor Canteen atmosphere for 602 Cameron. No night club, no elaborate trappings. Just a "Hospitality House," sponsored by a lot of good Joes who don't even want their names mentioned.

To get it opened by tomorrow night, the committee not only needs that coffee urn, but lots of other odds and ends: silverware, dishes, books, phonograph records, perhaps a piano, a television set if Santa Claus is especially kind, and a typewriter so that the fellows can write a letter to the folks back home, and tell them how much they wish that next Christmas they'll be together again.

Mrs. Gene Beggs, fulltime director of Hospitality House, can be reached at Alexandria 7585, or at her home, Temple 1722. Or call me at The Washington Post. Trucking service has already been donated; we'll pick up at your convenience.

Won't you lend the boys a helping hand?

GIVE-AWAYS

"Housebroken kittens, Persian strain, ideal gift for children." (Overlook 2056.)

"All-white male cat, 18 months old; we're moving." (North 0491.)

"Gentle part-collie puppies." (Elmwood 3690.)

"For bedridden child only: Beautiful 5-gallon aquarium, including six tropical fish, aquarium light and year's supply of food. Easy to care for. Will deliver." (Owens 7515.)

BURDENED?

The word is out that the big Miami crap games will not attempt to operate in Florida this season, because of the Kefauver Committee, and will move to Cuba instead.

However, District Liners who go south and find themselves burdened with too much cash will still be able to get rid of some of it at the various racetracks.

Truman's A-Bomb Views Noted

By Drew Pearson

White House policy can change overnight, but for the present we have no intention of mobilizing the vast but disorganized army of anti-Communist guerillas in China. President Truman so advised a group of Congressmen at an off-the-record and very candid meeting last week.

Pearson

Truman also is holding firm to his resolve not to drop the atomic bomb in China or Korea.

"That doesn't mean that we are appeasing the Chinese Communists—far from it," Truman told his callers. "They are aggressors and we will continue to treat them as such."

Truman added that if British Prime Minister Clement Attlee came with any appeasement notions, he left without them. He agreed with Attlee, however, that if we used the A-bomb, Russia would seize the opportunity to retaliate against London, Berlin and Paris.

But the argument that carried the most weight with him, Truman explained, was that we should not atom-bomb Russian satellites in reprisal against the Kremlin.

Regarding the question of arming Chinese guerillas against the Communists, the President pointed out that it might lead to a retaliatory Communist move against the Philippines; also that the guerillas are too "inaccessible" and scattered to be supplied from the air or welded together into an effective fighting force.

Note—The Congressmen who conferred with the President included Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, Brooks Hays of Arkansas, House Whip Percy Priest of Tennessee, all Democrats; with Kenneth Keating of New York and Walter Judd of Minnesota, Republicans.

Capital News Capsules

Another Music Critic — President Truman has a different opinion of at least one music critic—Mrs. Helen Knox Spain of the Atlanta Journal, who wrote such a favorable review of Margaret's concert in Atlanta last season that the President bubbled over with joy and telegraphed the Atlanta Journal for extra copies of Margaret's picture. (Contrary to rumor, the President did not use profane language in his note to critic Paul Hume of the Washington Post.)

Senator From Tennessee—Senator McKellar of Tennessee, grandpa of the Senate, is planning to run again in '52. He told Boss Crump of Memphis about his plans but Crump warned that McKellar was too old. This made the Senator so sore that he stomped out of Crump's office and caught the first plane back to Washington.

United States Trained Germans—Without waiting for European diplomats to come to terms, the United States Army has quietly trained 10,000 West Germans right under the noses of the Russians to serve as the nucleus for a future West German army. Two thousand have been armed and equipped into battalions in West Berlin, with the rest stationed in four training centers in the Western zone under the label of "labor battalions." Actually, they are carefully selected anti-Nazis who will be the officers of the new German army.

Chinese Monroe Doctrine

Most significant news to come out of Asia recently resulted from a talk between Prime Minister Nehru of India and United States Ambassador Loy Henderson, at which Nehru broke the news of the new Chinese Monroe doctrine for Asia.

Nehru reported that the Indian ambassador in Peiping had cabled that the Chinese Communists were planning to pop a big surprise on the Western world in the form of a Monroe Doctrine.

This would mean that all white and non-Asiatic Nations were to keep out. Any interference, according to the proposed Chinese Monroe Doctrine, would be justification for war. The doctrine would also apply to Japan, Prime Minister Nehru informed Ambassador Henderson.

Note—Nehru is not in sympathy with the Chinese policy, believes Europeans and Asiatics can cooperate together.

Legal Wire-Tapping

Congressmen will give special attention in January to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals decision overthrowing the Judy Coplon conviction. In this decision, the three judges took the unusual course of recommending legislation to Congress — something that judges, in our system of checks and balances, seldom do.

Pointing out the the FBI had less power to arrest than the ordinary sheriff, the court recommended that FBI powers to arrest be enlarged; also that certain phases of wire-tapping be declared legal when it involved "espionage, sabotage, kidnapping, extortion and national security."

J. Edgar Hoover has leaned over backward against any illegal use of wire-tapping—unlike many other Government agencies, the Washington police and even some Senators. In fact, the protection of civil liberties would be much safer if Hoover's bureau alone were allowed to handle wire-tapping.

Congress will consider all this in January.

Defense Notes

When President Truman first wrote last week's national emergency speech he called for a four-million-man army and navy. At the last minute, however, he scaled it down to 3½-million men—a victory for the Air Force. The Air Force wants priority given to airplanes and weapons instead of manpower . . . Alcide De Gasperi of Italy is the latest European premier to propose a visit to Washington . . . Chester Bowles, retiring governor of Connecticut, has been offered the very important job of directing the multibillion-dollar arms aid program to Europe. (Bowles has declined the offer of ambassador to the Philippines.) . . . United States intelligence expects hordes of Chinese so-called "volunteers" to pour into Indo-China any day . . . Mayor Martin Kennelly of Chicago has staged a farsighted campaign to alert the public against enemy sabotage. Kennelly put on a real-life show, illustrating how enemy agents could poison Chicago's drinking water.

Senator Pepper's subcommittee, investigating wire-tapping, will call some new witnesses before closing the books on Senator Brewster's wire-tapping activities . . . The new post of defense mobilization director was offered first to Paul Hoffman, former ECA administrator, before it went to Charles E. Wilson. Hoffman, however, turned it down . . . Purcell Smith, the $65,000-a-year private power lobbyist, was caught sending notes to Congressman Jensen of Iowa inside the House Appropriations Committee—while the committee was debating public power. The lobbyist hid in Jensen's office and sent the notes by messenger . . . The potent associated farmers and national cannery lobbies are at it again. This time they're working on the House Agriculture Committee to repeal the child labor law ban against farm children working during school hours . . . "Torrid" is the latest Pentagonese for critical materials with high priorities.

House Asks Churches For Peace Prayer Day

The House unanimously approved a resolution yesterday calling upon the Nation's churches to set aside next Sunday as a day for prayer for peace.

The resolution was sponsored by Representative Dwight L. Rogers (D., Fla.).

Eleanor Roosevelt Renamed to U. N. Post

President Truman yesterday nominated Mrs. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the former President, for a new three-year-term as United States representative on the U. N. Human Rights Commission of the Economic and Social Council.

The President also nominated George P. Baker of Massachusetts as a representative on the Council's Transport and Communication Commission.
